Rolling Pin Doughnut Shop Opens Sunday
A Famous Rolling Pin Doughnut shop will be opened today at the southeast corner of 12th street and Riverside avenue. It will be operated by R. R. Gansseder, formerly associated with the shops of the same name in California. Mr. Gansseder will be assisted by his mother. The shop will feature potato, chocolate and cake doughnuts hand-made from recipes said to be handed down from generation to generation. In addition, a complete fountain service will be available, including the serving of sandwiches and stonks. The doughnuts are rolled with a rolling-pin three and a half feet long and weighing 35 pounds.
The shop has been entirely re-decorated and furnished. The interior is of knotty pine, with a black and red color scheme setting off the natural wood.

NEW EQUIPMENT AT LEWIS SUPER
Every possible distributor condition in any way affecting operations of the new Distrib-U-Scope installed this week at the Lewis Super Service station, according to Bud Renzo, automotive expert in charge of the Lewis super motor tune-up department.
The addition of the new Distrib-U-Scope gives Lewis Super the most complete automotive testing and tune-up equipment it is possible to obtain, according to C. O. Weelock, station manager.
Wheelock says:
"To maintain new car performance and economy, every car needs a thorough motor tune-up every 2,500 to 4,000 miles, depending upon the character of service. Correct motor-tune-up at regular intervals more than pays for itself in gasoline saved."
"The Lewis Super Service station also has a complete new lubrication department. The new, modern equipment, the Marfak system and the superior Marfak lubricants assure the motorist a lubrication and service in accordance with the recommendations and practices approved by automobile manufacturers. Marfak lubrication is performed by men specially trained and qualified to render such service.
Every run of Marfak lubricant made is compared to a sample of the previous run and then compared to a run of a year ago, to assure the consumer a uniform product. Marfak lubricants are made to stand up under extreme heat and water washing conditions known to the average road driver.

SPEEDER DERBY IS POSTPONED WEEK TO AID ENTRIES

Because of the extreme interest being shown by Medford boys and the fact that many are just getting started on their vehicles, the first annual Mail Tribune-Cub Scout Midget Speeder derby has been advanced one week to August 26, it was announced yesterday by M. C. Wright, chairman of the executive committee in charge of the derby.

The great amateur racing event, first of its kind ever staged in Medford, was originally slated for August 19. However, as many local boys have been vacationing and unable to get started on their speeders until recently, the date was set up seven days so boys all interested in entering could build their machines without press of time.

The derby will take place starting at 6:45 p. m. on East Main street. The city has agreed to put the street speedway in excellent condition for the event and nothing will be left undone in making the race a thrilling spectacle, Mr. Wright stated.

It was also announced that there will be a special consolation heat for all boys whose speeders don't conform exactly with the official rules. These speeders, the chairman explained, may be constructed in any manner, and all that is necessary for their entrance in the consolation event is that they are able to run. In the official derby, there will be two classifications, for boys 9 to 11 and 12 to 15, inclusive.

Next Wednesday evening, August 24, a grand parade of all boys and their speeders will be held, the entrants moving from Boy Scout headquarters on East Main street to the New Craterian theatre, where they will be introduced from the stage at 7 p. m. Each entrant is requested to report at scout headquarters about 6:30, bringing with him a pal to push the speeder. At the theatre, the boys and their mechanics will be introduced and the speeders will be displayed to the public. All will be guests of the theatre to the opening of Shirley Temple's newest film, "Little Miss Broadway." A new Donald Duck comedy will also be on the program.

Boys have already registered at Boy Scout headquarters for official entry in the derby, or are busy building speeders and plan to register at once. They are Norman House, Arlon Skinner, Paul Wagner, Richard Hanson, Weldon Webber, Jack Kresse, Donald Smith, Bud Nutting and Reece Kane. Many other young Medfordites are busy constructing vehicles which they plan to send against their friends, and officials expect a large entry list for the colorful and exciting race. All figuring on entering are urged to register at scout headquarters as soon as possible.

With 31 local business establishments cooperating in the gala event, builders of speeders will be assured of a large assortment of prizes and awards, including baseball gloves, bats, balls, flashlights and other things dear to the heart of boys. Following is the list of Medford business firms contributing prizes and assisting in other ways: Evans shoe store, J. C. Penney company, Dr. Robert E. Lee, Golden Rule store, Newberry's, F. W. Woolworth company, Heath drug store, Kidd shoe store, Franklin's cafe, Sims Brothers, Feldman electric company, Hubbard Brothers, Pick's hardware, Trowbridge and Flynn, Band Box, Mann's department store, Holloway's Reliable grocery, City meat market, Littrell Parts company, Montgomery Ward and company, Humphries grocery, Monarch Seed and Feed, The Toggery, Fuhrer's bakery, Hunt's Craterian, Porter Lumber company, Piche Hardware store, Medford Pharmacy, KMEB, Hanson hardware company, and Larry Schade.
