

U. S. ARMY TO USE NEWEST WEAPON, RAPID FIRE RIFLE

Day of Springfield Thought Past As Garand Shoulder Piece Proves Superior—Range of Speed Is Wide.

WASHINGTON (UP)—The army, in the midst of the greatest mechanization drive in its history, has decided to arm its enlisted personnel with the deadliest military rifle ever perfected—in effect making every man a "walking machine gunner."

The new rifle, a semi-automatic weapon capable of firing up to 100 rounds a minute, will, from the viewpoint of firing power, make each man potentially the equal of at least five soldiers equipped with the present army rifle. John C. Garand, of the Springfield, Mass. armory, is the designer of the new gun.

Military experts believe the United States is far ahead of other powers in this type weapon, which is expected to go into mass production within the next few months. Army chiefs, although keeping pace with the rest of the world in military mechanization, cling to the army tradition that "the whole structure of the military organization still rests on the Atlas shoulders of the infantry man in the mud."

Superior in All Tests Actual tests under war-like conditions, according to Major G. H. Drewry of the army ordnance department, have shown the Garand gun to be the superior in all respects to the present bolt-action Springfield rifle.

In a published statement, Drewry said, "Many advantages result from the use of a semi-automatic shoulder weapon, the principal ones being: 1. Greater accuracy in rapid fire due to elimination of the distraction of having to operate the bolt by hand.

2. A greater volume of fire per minute per man. 3. More effective fire against low-flying aircraft. 4. A decrease in time required to instruct new men to marksmanship."

Funds are available for approximately 7,500 of these rifles. Delivery is expected before the end of the year. Last session of congress appropriated additional funds both for purchase of the rifle before next June and to increase the equipment used to manufacture it.

"In all comparative tests which have been made by the services between the Garand and the Springfield," Major Drewry reported, "the Garand has come out on top. These have included accuracy, combat and anti-aircraft firings with expert, partially trained and untrained men."

"These tests have shown that the fire power of one semi-automatic rifle for short periods is equal to about five single-shot rifles. The rate of fire which can be attained is, of course, dependent to some extent upon the dexterity of the firer. The number of aimed shots at 200 yards for the average rifleman is approximately 40 per minute. The maximum for highly trained rifleman is approximately 80 per minute at this range, and at very close ranges, around 50 yards a total of 100 aimed shots are known to have been fired by an expert."

"Of course, such high rates of fire are not contemplated except in emergencies and they cannot be maintained over any considerable period of time, due to the overheating. An average rate of fire of around 30 shots per minute can, however, be maintained almost continuously without difficulty."

Tea Versus Beer MELBOURNE, Victoria (AP)—An enterprising caterer is trying to substitute tea for beer as the favorite beverage among football spectators here. He offers eight-ounce cartons at five cents apiece. The tea keeps hot for 15 minutes.

Wall St. Report

NEW YORK, Aug. 19.—(P)—The stock market turned on its rallying steam in the latter part of today's session and leading issues, paced by the rallies, pushed up fractions to 5 points.

The forward swing followed word from Washington the Association of American Railroads would have an "important" announcement to make before the close. Wall Street immediately jumped to the conclusion this might mean a wage cut compromise. Buyers got aboard the carrier stocks and other groups joined the excursion. There was a let-down near the finish when the A. A. R. disclosed it had merely filed a petition for the extension of coal rate increases.

Transfers were around 800,000 shares, almost double yesterday's turnover.

HINES RECEIVED COIN FROM MOB SAYS RACKETEER

Harlem Negro Testifies Arrests Dropped 50 Per Cent After Tammany Head Allegedly Agreed to 'Fix'

NEW YORK, Aug. 19.—(AP)—Joseph "Big Joe" Ison, 47, a West Indian Negro and one-time Harlem policy game operator, testified in supreme court today at the conspiracy trial of James J. Hines, Tammy district leader, money he and other banks had to turn over to the Dutch Schultz mob was going to "Jimmy Hines club."

Ison said Hines got $125 a week from the multi-million dollar policy racket for "protection."

The witness said arrests for policy violations dropped 50 per cent late in 1932 and early in 1933—the period shortly after Hines, according to District Attorney Thomas E. Dewey's accusations, entered into a conspiracy with Dutch Schultz to "put the fix" on the racket.

Recorded as fees "Big Joe" said the money was recorded on the policy slip books as "fees" for lawyers and bondsmen.

"I was puzzled at first what the figures meant," he said. He said he talked it over with George Weinberg and J. Richard (Dixie) Davis, and one of them told him: "The money is going to Jimmy Hines' club."

Ison said his bank alone, among many other Harlem policy banks, was forced to contribute $125 weekly to the Hines club.

He said in the spring of 1933 his bank cleared $75,000 but all the profits were taken over by "Big Harry" Schoenhaus.

"Dixie Davis told me $10,000 of the money was to go for 'fixing' the numbers at the Coney Island race-track on which the policy pay-offs were made," he said.

Ison said when he grumbled, Davis asked him: "Don't you think it's worth it?"

A few months later, in the fall, he said, the Schultz mob tapped him again for $2,000 on two occasions.

"Weinberg told me the money was for campaign expenses to elect a Democratic mayor and the party's ticket," he said.

(John P. O'Brien, Tammany Democrat, was defeated by Mayor F. H. LaGuardia in November, 1933.)
