Modern Cooks Can't Improve Jam Recipes Of Grandmother's

By Mrs. Alexander George AP Feature Service Writer

Although newfangled cookery has supplanted many old-time methods and made possible saving many hours of labor, grandmother's recipes still are favorites in many families—and deservedly.

Especially choice are many of her recipes for canning, particularly jams and preserves.

Pears were one of her favorites. She spiced them, made them into all sorts of conserves, butters and jams—headliners among spreads.

A Pear Chutney

She considered pear chutney just the thing to serve with chops, roasts, fowl or hot breads.

Here's how to prepare it:

Cook together, until thick, eight cups of sliced pears, two cups of raisins, half a cup of chopped onions, one tablespoon of celery seed, three tablespoons of salt, one cup of granulated sugar, a fourth of a cup of vinegar and three cups of water. It will take an hour or more for it to thicken. Stir it frequently to prevent scorching. When it's done pour your chutney into sterilized jars and seal it at once.

Pear conserve is another leading spread. There are all sorts of ways to make it. Modley Pear Conserve goes like this:

Ginger and Ripe Pear Jam

(Makes eleven six-ounce glasses) 4 cups prepared fruit 1/4 to 1 cup dried crystallized ginger 7 1/2 cups granulated sugar 1 bottle fruit pectin Peel, core and crush completely—or grind—about three pounds fully ripe pears. Dice about half a pound of crystallized ginger. Measure sugar and prepared fruit, solidly packed, into a large kettle. Add ginger, mix well and bring to a full boil over a very hot fire. Stir constantly before and during boiling. Boil hard for one minute. Remove from fire and stir in the fruit pectin. Then stir and skim by turns for just five minutes to cool slightly and to prevent floating fruit. Pour quickly. Paraffin hot jam at once.

Mix together eight cups of sliced pears, six cups of sliced peaches and four cups of sliced quinces. Add half a cup of lemon juice, a third of a cup of orange juice, one tablespoon of grated orange rind, two teaspoons of grated lemon rind and four cups of water. Cook slowly until the fruit is soft. Add twelve cups of granulated sugar. Boil gently until the conserve thickens. Pour into sterilized jars and seal when cold. (Hint for using Modley Pear Conserve: Mix it with cottage cheese—to use in filling graham bread sandwiches.)

Pear Preserves

Pear preserves, too, make a tempting topping for breads—or gives a tasty finish to salads or desserts. Make it this way:

Peel, quarter and slice pears until you have eight cupsful. Boil two cups of water and six cups of granulated sugar together for five minutes. Add the pears and cook them slowly for 15 minutes. Then add a fourth of a cup of bark cinnamon and twelve whole cloves—loosely tied in a white cotton bag. Allow to simmer for an hour. Remove apple bag and pour conserves into sterilized jars. Seal immediately.

Junior Garden Club Flower Show Soon

The members of the local Junior Garden Club of America met Wednesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Elmer Wilson, 422 Beatty street, to make plans for their annual flower show to be held August 30th in the Chamber of Commerce building.

The entries will be by pupils of the Jackson, Roosevelt, Washington and Lincoln schools. The flowers will be from their own gardens, for which seeds and bulbs were donated by the Medford Garden club which is sponsoring the project in the schools.

Prizes are to be awarded on the following flowers: Zinnias, marigolds, cosmos, and gladioli. There will be a first and second prize given on each, also a prize for the best arrangement of a mixed bouquet.

Keen interest is being taken by the pupils, and enthusiastic encouragement should be shown by parents and friends, for the cultivation of the love of flowers and gardens in the young, will tend to color and enrich with loveliness and gracefulness all their future lives.

College Days Mean New Hair and Wardrobe Ways

By Adelaide Keer, AP Fashion Editor.

College girls! Do you want a few credits in chic?

Then be a little "different." Wear a gold rope necklace with your sweater instead of that string of pearls that half the country's college girls select. Discard that long-suffering peasant kerchief tied under your chin for a bright cap squashed over your curls. Mix your colors with a sure, but daring hand. And see what a dirndl can do for you.

As to the more serious side, campus clothes this year are, as always, casual. Skirts and sweaters still set the latest note at Western schools. The skirts, of mixture, monochrome or plaid wools, may be pleated or plain, while the sweaters are nearly always crew-necked. There's a chance for individuality in contrasting the colors of the two and adding a tweed jacket, wool socks and a long wool scarf to harmonize.

Reversible coats are practical for campus wear. This year's editions are generally squared models made of tweed or camel's hair on one side and gabardine on the other.

The off-the-campus wardrobe generally includes another coat of black, brown, dark green or wine-colored wool, cut on a fitted silhouette and simply furred with some such pelt as beaver, mink or nutria.

Dresses should include one simple wool frock and several dark crepe ones to be worn with sparkling clips or a "slinky" glittering necklace to weekend teas and dances.

One simply tailored suit, whose fitted jacket has a rather high throat line, is almost a "must" for the college girl, since it can be worn for traveling and weekend jaunts.

Evening frocks, which complete her wardrobe, have wide swinging skirts this year. They come in white, black, green, russet and blue satins, taffetas, chiffons and velvets and are often topped by jackets to match.

Miss Esther Hubler, bride-elect, was feted Tuesday evening at a miscellaneous shower and party given by Adlene Sells at her home on North Central avenue.

The couple left after the ceremony for the coast for a week end wedding trip after which they will make their home in Corvallis.

Whipped Cream Note It is best to whip no more than two cups of cream at a time. Chill bowl and beater. If the cream is beaten in a warm bowl in a warm place it is apt to turn to butter.

Cooking With Milk Milk scalds easily, so heat it in a double boiler or warm it over low heat in a pan set on an asbestos mat. To help keep the milk from sticking to the sides rinse the pan in cold water before heating.

Sauce For Meat Try serving horseradish sauce on short ribs of beef, baked ham or a roast. Add two tablespoons of prepared horseradish, one tablespoon of chopped parsley and a fourth of a teaspoon of Worcestershire to each cup of cream sauce. The combination is very tasty.

Apple Sauce Help In making apple sauce, slice your apples, cook them in a little water until they are soft, then add the sugar. If you add the sugar at first you may need to put in more later, and the apples are likely to become hard.
