PEPSI-COLA SUES COCO-COLA; SEEKS TRADE MARK ORDER

Suit has been filed in the supreme court of Queens county by the Pepsi-Cola company against the Coca-Cola company, asking for a restraining order to enjoin the Coca-Cola company from interfering with the Pepsi-Cola company, its subsidiaries and licensees throughout the U. S.

Simultaneously with the filing of this bill of complaint against the Coca-Cola company, a petition has been filed in the U. S. patent office in Washington, D. C., by the Pepsi-Cola company attacking the validity of the Coca-Cola Trade-mark. It is claimed that the trade-mark was obtained "through untruthful and fraudulent statements made in the application for trade-mark registration."

The petition further states that the name "Coca" and "Cola" are both descriptive names, are public property, and therefore, cannot be used exclusively by the Coca-Cola company.

The bill of complaint alleges that the Pepsi-Cola Trade-mark has been in existence and in continuous use for more than 35 years; and that during all that period, Pepsi-Cola has been sold side-by-side in competition with Coca-Cola; and that its rights have never been challenged in the United States by anyone during this entire period.

During the past several years, the Pepsi-Cola company has been active in sales and advertising, and as a result distribution has been obtained not only throughout the U. S., but throughout a considerable part of the world.

The bill of complaint further alleges that the Pepsi-Cola company, its subsidiaries, affiliates and licensees, have an investment in excess of $25,000,000; and that in the calendar year has spent in newspaper advertising alone in excess of one million dollars ($
