

$100,000 AWARD FAILS TO SPOIL AVIATION CADET

Man Who Won National Puzzle Contest Still Leading Simple Life — Money Is Safe in Annuities

SAN DIEGO, Cal., Aug. 26.—(UP)—One year ago today, Navy Aviation Cadet William R. Staggs was perhaps the most envied man in America. He was handed a $100,000 check, grand prize in a national puzzle-solving contest, which assured him fame and fortune at the age of 24. Today there is little evidence of Staggs' sudden wealth. There is no palatial mansion, no glistening limousine, or other examples of overnight riches in the Staggs household. There is, however, a neat bank account for "security and old age."

The Staggs, William R., his 22-year-old wife, and 17-day-old daughter Lu Ellen, still rent their modest bungalow on B avenue, still drive the second-hand Ford they bought with part of the winnings, and still live on a navy cadet's salary. Life unchanged.

"The $100,000 has not changed our lives," Mrs. Staggs said. "You see the prize was split five ways, according to an agreement Bill made with four other cadets. Then, too, the government got some of it in taxes, which reduced it considerably. 'It did do one thing,' she added shyly. 'It enabled Bill and me to get married and raise a family.'"

The Staggs' share of the prize is safe in annuities, where it will be used for Lu Ellen's education and her parents' security in later life. "We still get fan letters," Mrs. Staggs said, "but fortunately it is nothing like it was. Thank goodness people have forgotten us. Get-rich-quick schemes and promoters from all over the world came our way. For $57,000 we could have our choice of oil wells, gold mines, diamond making formulas and systems guaranteed to break the bank at Monte Carlo."

Job for Year

Staggs still has another year of service in the navy and then he "will have to start looking for a job." Early in September he expects to be transferred to Pensacola, Fla., as a navy aviation instructor. His wife hopes it will be "in ground school."

When they do leave, the Staggs will carefully remove from the wall a framed diploma signifying one William R. Staggs graduated from the University of Illinois school of engineering class of 1934.

Close inspection will reveal the diploma was not issued until September, 1937. The reason: Engineering Student Staggs was so broke that not until he received the $100,000 award could he afford to pay the $10 necessary to receive his diploma. That, Staggs said, was the first and most important purchase made with the prize money.

ALASKA BOUND STEAMER SINKS COASTAL VESSEL

SEATTLE, Aug. 26.—(AP)—Capt. Howard J. Payne of the Ballard-Ludlow ferry line reported the Alaska-bound steamship North Coast sank the Canadian steamer Coaster off Point No Point, in Puget Sound early today. The crew was saved, he said.

The North Coast picked up Capt. A. Berkland and his crew of eight and returned to Seattle about 2 a. m., then resumed her voyage.

The Coaster was a 94-foot motorship of 140 gross tonnage and 82 net tons, registered in Vancouver, B. C., in British Columbia-Puget Sound freight service.

PORTLAND, Ore., Aug. 26.—(AP)—Surveying of a route for a 220,000-volt trunk transmission line linking Bonneville and Grand Coulee dams will be started this week by a crew of 100 skilled men. J. D. Ross, Bonneville dam power administrator, said yesterday.

HOOD RIVER YOUTH IS SHOT WHILE PROWLING YOUNG GIRL'S BEDROOM

HOOD RIVER, Aug. 26.—(UP)—District Attorney John Baker said today that Wilber "Lefty" Walters, shot and critically wounded by police early today, will be charged with burglary.

Two shots were fired into Walters' body when he started to flee after being caught by Patrolmen Stanzell and Ogborn entering the bedroom of the 13-year-old daughter of Ernest Barclay.

Walter is 28, the son of a prominent Hood River family. Several unsuccessful attempts to enter the room were reported by Chief of Police Glen R. Sloat, who detailed the two officers to remain inside the home each night.

The identity of the intruder was not known until after the officers examined the prone man after the shooting. Walters, who had a half pint of ether in his pocket, was said by police to have admitted the earlier attempt to enter the room.

The officers were waiting early this morning when a flashlight gleamed in the girl's window. Walters entered the bedroom and was challenged. He ran toward a door and was shot by Stanzell.

DELICIOUS DURKEE RECIPES

These are the days when marketing is a pleasure. Fruit and vegetable stands fairly try out to us in their beauty. Tiny round radishes, silver-skinned onions, long green stalks of asparagus, the luscious red of tomatoes set us to painting pictures on our tables. Berries, melons, apricots and cherries fairly dance themselves into our market baskets.

Perhaps it's their freshness more than all else, that provides the "lift" for tired, drab dinner plates, takes the monotony from the customary salad. So, to preserve that fresh-as-the-dew appearance, for the sauces and dressings which accompany them, we should look for freshness as well as fine flavor.

Mayonnaise for instance, the queen of dressings for vegetables hot and cold, for the fruit salad plate—how little thought we give to its freshness as we reach for a jar on our grocery shelves. "Garden-fresh" is the perfect mayonnaise and "Garden-fresh" you'll find Durkee's to be. Made of fine fresh ingredients, a treasured old recipe and more careful blending than we wish for or bear to ever give it at home—that's Durkee's Mayonnaise—the perfect complement for the freshness of our summertime fruits and vegetables.

You'll like this Quick Hollandaise Sauce for fresh green asparagus, piping hot from its kettle. And don't spoil its flavor by using mayonnaise which may not be as fresh!

Quick Hollandaise Sauce

2 tablespoons Tocco

2 tablespoons flour

1/4 teaspoon salt

Dash of pepper and cayenne

1 cup milk

1/2 cup Durkee's mayonnaise

2 tablespoons lemon juice

Mix Tocco over low heat, add flour and seasonings. Blend well, adding milk. Cook, stirring constantly, until thickened. Add lemon juice and Durkee's mayonnaise, blend thoroughly and serve hot at once on any fresh-cooked green vegetable—asparagus, green beans, broccoli, cauliflower, etc.

Fruit Salad Dressings

Island Dressing—Mix together 1 cup Durkee's mayonnaise, 2 tablespoons pineapple syrup, 1/4 cup each finely chopped celery, drained crushed pineapple, ripe olives cut from pits, and, if desired, a little whipped cream. Serve on molded fruit salads.

Whipped Cream Mayonnaise—Fold 1/2 cup cream, whipped, into 1 cup Durkee's mayonnaise, along with about 2 tablespoons of orange, lemon or pineapple juice. Serve on any fruit salad mixture.

Fruit-Fruite Mayonnaise—Combine 1 cup Durkee's mayonnaise, 3 tablespoons each of drained crushed pineapple and chopped celery, 2 tablespoons each of sliced maraschino cherries and powdered sugar, 2 teaspoons lemon juice and 1/2 cup cream, whipped. Good on any molded fruit or mixed fruit salad.

MANVILLE'S FRIEND IN RENO FOR DIVORCE

RENO, Nev., Aug. 26.—(UP)—Still silent whether she plans to become Playboy Tommy Manville's fifth wife, Mrs. Neva Lynn Baldwin, former Ziegfeld Follies beauty, arrived in Reno today to establish residence for divorce from Theodore Baldwin, New York broker.

She came here from Hollywood, where she and Manville, heir to a $30,000,000 asbestos fortune, had been seen together frequently at high spots.

CONTROL OF FOOD BY GOVERNMENT IS URGED IN ENGLAND

LONDON (UP)—The virtual nationalization of the food industry of Great Britain and the creation of boards to ensure low prices in the interest of public health are advocated in an unusual document which has been drawn up by a body of eminent scientists and public administrators who have been studying the grave effects of malnutrition in the country.

The memorandum, issued by the Committee Against Malnutrition, points out that the majority of people of Great Britain at present cannot afford to buy certain essential foodstuffs.

Food boards, the scientists say, should be established under the control of a responsible cabinet minister to control prices in such a way as to insure supplies which are not at present ensured by the operation of the law of supply and demand. The boards also would market these supplies through public concerns, thus ensuring low prices and good quality.

It is argued that a steadily rising demand for foodstuffs would encourage the producers to be much more enterprising.

Assistance by loans and subsidies, controlled supplies and prices for fertilizer and fodder materials would encourage producers to devote attention mainly to dairy, egg, fruit and vegetable farming, and this would open the way for the importation of wheat, sugar and such like foodstuffs from countries where they are more economically produced.

It also is advocated that the government "make itself responsible for free dinners to all school children."

The memorandum concludes:

"This is a question of national importance. We trust that from now onward all hearts will begin to discuss how the problem is not a simple one. But out of the conflict of ideas there should soon arise some theory of national progress in nutrition that will gain wide public acceptance."

Among the famous scientists contributing to the memorandum were Dr. Julian Huxley, secretary of the Zoological society; W. E. Le Gros Clark, Oxford professor of anatomy; A. S. G. Huggert, professor of physiology at London university; Sir F. Gowland Hopkins, professor of biochemistry at Cambridge university,

THREE BOYS BURIED WHEN BLUFF FALLS

HAMBURG, Ia., Aug. 26.—(UP)—Three boys, ranging in age from 5 to 7 years, were killed near How Thursday in a cave-in. The three, together with another 3-year-old boy, were playing on a bluff when the cave-in occurred. The 3-year-old boy was behind the others and escaped injury.

Returning home for dinner, his parents asked him the whereabouts of the other lads. He said something about dirt. Questioned further he said there had been a cave-in.

Forty men rushed to the scene and started digging.

SALEM, Aug. 26.—(UP)—An increase of 18,604,039 kilowatt hours in residential consumption of electricity in Oregon during the first six months of this year was reported today by N. G. Wallace, public utilities commissioner.

Wallace said lower rates caused revenue per kilowatt hour to decrease 6.36 per cent while the aver-
