UNION OF HOUSEMAIDS IN BRITAIN SETS CODE OF WORK CONDITIONS

LONDON (UP)—A housemaid's trade union, working under the direction of the Trades Union Council of Great Britain expects to make its influence felt throughout the country. The union, formed with difficulty after 10 years of discussion among domestic workers, will make the following demands to all housewife employers:

- 1. A fixed number of working hours—probably a 48-hour week.
2. Minimum weekly wage, expected to be fixed between $3.75 and $5.
3. Regular days off, and no interference in private lives.

The union will appoint inspectors to enter homes to investigate complaints and to make sure that approved living standards are kept. "At first the rules will have to be a little elastic," a T.U.S. official explained. "The union will start in Greater London and will have its headquarters at Transport House. We hope to overcome the difficulty of getting the girls together by having local group meetings. Already we have about 1,000 members. They will pay subscriptions as do other union members."

"Our chief objects will be to insure that workers have comfortable homes. We will not tolerate mistresses who try to interfere in the private lives of workers. People who treat their employees fairly have nothing to fear, but we will put the whole strength of the union behind genuine cases of bad treatment. If necessary we will assist members in litigation against employers."

Robert Taylor in "Crowd Roars"

With one of the strongest star casts ever assembled in one picture, the new Robert Taylor film, "The Crowd Roars," opens a four day run tomorrow at the Craterian theatre. Among those present in this action-loaded story of the young prizefighter who rose from obscurity to the position of contender for the light-heavyweight championship, are Lionel Stander and Frank Morgan—the latter as Taylor's father. Also included are Maureen O'Sullivan, Edward Arnold, Nat Pendleton, William Gargan, Jane Wyman and Isabel Jewel.

Crime School

Classrooms with barred wire, teachers with clubs and whips, kids fighting to stay honest, corrupt politicians making a living from the sweat of young criminals—are but few of the amazing and exciting scenes to be seen in "Crime School"—the outstanding picture of the year—when opens a three day run today at the Rialto theatre. So outstanding is "Crime School," the Rialto theatre will omit their regular second feature for this engagement only.

The cast of "Crime School" is headed by the famous "Dead End" Kids, Humphrey Bogart, Gale Page and a dozen other big names. In their first roles since their entrance into movies, the "Dead End" hoodlums have the roles of five East Side New York slum rats who are led into thievery by a crooked junk peddler and finally sent to the state penitentiary. It is here that they meet up with hard-boiled Humphrey Bogart—cast as a special investigator sent by the governor to clean-up juvenile prison homes.

HOG ISLAND NOW DESOLATE WASTE

PHILADELPHIA (UP)—Hog Island shipyard, 20 years after World War days when the cry went up for "a bridge of ships across the sea," is a desolate waste-land today, only a few scattered buildings remaining from the bustling scene of war-time activity.

The 947-acre marshland along the Delaware was the scene of employment of 36,330 persons during the World war. First ship launched there was the Quisconck, sponsored by Mrs. Woodrow Wilson in the presence of 75,000 persons. The Quisconck, built in less than a year at a cost of $66,000,000 was the first of 122 ships built at Hog Island in two years.

witness who said Bridges, while looking at United States battleships, once declared: "We will see a day when we can sink those damn things because they are the enemy of the people."

Dies' letter continued: "The witness further testified, 'and on occasions he (Bridges) stated his work-out squads in San Francisco take good care of all opponents of the labor movement of the Communist party by having them beat up, destroying their homes and other methods of driving fear into the weak workers of the waterfront.'"

"Another witness testified 'Bridges has done more than any other person to split up unity on the waterfront of the Pacific coast. He has said things which would lead to violent attitudes of class against class. He has placed members of the Communist party in control of strategic points in various west coast unions and in the CIO.'"

Seen Paying Red Dues One witness, Dies wrote, testified he had seen Bridges pay a $2 assessment and membership dues to the Communist party. Another, he continued, said Bridges' interest and concern toward the Communist movement rather than toward the men he was supposed to represent in the maritime union.

"This witness said," Dies' letter went on, "he asked Bridges whether or not he would go against the wishes of the president of the United States and Bridges said, 'to hell with the president of the United States,' and Bridges further said, he had more power behind him than the government of the United States, and before three years he would be in a position to prove his statements."
