

Many Out-of-Town Entries for So. Oregon-No. California Golf Tourney

QUALIFYING PLAY OPENS FRIDAY IN ANNUAL CLASSIC

Most Cosmopolitan Field in Years Expected for Tenth Renewal of Tournament — Finals On Labor Day

With 14 out-of-town entrants already registered from such widely separated points as Red Bluff, Cal., and Seattle, Wash., Director Don Clark expects the 10th annual Southern Oregon-Northern California championship, starting Friday at the Rogue Valley Golf Club, to be the most cosmopolitan tournament in history, in addition to the largest.

Qualifying rounds start Friday morning, with the field swinging into the 18-hole match play Saturday and continuing until champions are crowned in all flights, Monday afternoon, Labor Day.

To date, the most distant entrants in the tourney are George Parsons and Rex Parsons, Jr., both of Seattle. From Red Bluff, Cal., will come K. W. Hunt to match his strokes against some 150 others. Fred Snead of Redding and B. M. Lewis of Yreka are other Californians who have entered the tournament, and the following out-of-town Oregon shot-makers have notified Director Clark of their intentions to compete: Roger Williams, Paul Waigant and Roy Bobb, all of Corvallis; Vern Greene and Earl Voorhees, both of Grants Pass; W. M. Kirtley of Eugene and Frank Van Dyke, J. G. Irwin and Bill Allen, all of Ashland. Snead was the first out-of-town entrant to register, while George Jall was the first local golfer to sign up.

Thompson Coming.

Don Thompson of Portland's Waverly club, runner-up to Ashland's Hubert Bentley last year, is expected to arrive tomorrow to tune up his game over the beautiful 18-hole layout and at least 15 entrants are expected from Eugene and many from other cities in the state.

Director Clark announced that flight schedules, with the starting times designated, would be released tomorrow. All entrants will be paired for match play in seven flights according to their qualifying scores, with the 32 low scorers entering the championship bracket. It was emphasized by the tournament director that handsome trophies and prizes had been donated for local boys and runners-up in all flights, and in the beaten 16 of all flights.

In fact, Clark stated, the finest awards were being reserved for those playing in the lower flights.

Open to All Amateurs.

The tournament, most important of the season, is open to all amateur golfers of Medford and elsewhere, and a cordial invitation to enter was extended to everybody. It was also pointed out that the public is welcome always to attend the matches.

A call was placed for local boys desiring to act as caddies during the four-day affair. A shortage of bag-toters is expected, and any local youth wishing to earn $1 a round in 18 holes is requested to get in touch with George Robertson, club manager.

Director Clark stated that Hy Frager of the Rex cafe had been awarded the food concession, and that substantial luncheons at reasonable prices would be served at the clubhouse starting Saturday noon, and continuing through Monday.

DRIVER OF MIDGET CAR DIES IN RACE SMASHUP

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 31. — (AP) — One racing driver was dead and another was slightly injured today as the result of a collision of two midget cars at Atlantic stadium last night.

Bernard Reynolds, 22, known to racing fans as Barney Ray, died of a crushed skull when he was thrown from his machine in the path of one driven by Lane Curry. Curry's car smashed into the wall and he suffered torn muscles in his right shoulder.

SAN DIEGO MOUNDMAN CHALKS UP RECORD IN WHITEWASHING ANGELS

By the Associated Press

A new Pacific Coast league pitcher record was in the books today, made by an in-and-out San Diego pitcher against the league-leading Los Angeles Seraphs.

Dick Ward, once with the Angels, beat Ray Prim in a 16-inning pitching duel, 1-0, holding the Seraphs hitless for 18 2-3 chukkers before Eddie Mayo lined out a single. Available records disclosed, a Portland pitcher named Carson and Bill Proulx of Oakland hurled ten hitless innings each in league games in 1909 and 1916, respectively.

Had the Padres scored in the regulation period, Ward might have pitched the first perfect fall. He issued the well-kept perfect fall in the ninth. He retired the Angels in order in nine of the 16 innings, and allowed only one other hit, a bingle in the 14th by Charlie Egan.

Los Angeles did not lose ground to second-place Sacramento, however, as Ad Liska allowed the Senators only six blows as Portland won, 7-0, at Sacramento.

Seattle trimmed Hollywood, 6-5, and moved within a game and a half of second place.

Keith Frazier's first-inning homer with two on base sparked San Francisco to an 11-7 victory over Oakland.

SAMMY BAUGH CLAIMS SPOTLIGHT TONIGHT IN PRO-ALL-STAR BATTLE

CHICAGO, Aug. 31. — (AP) — Tonight's night Sammy Baugh, football's most publicized passer, returns to Soldier Field seeking to restore to professional ranks the supremacy he stole from them last year with one heave of his right arm.

At that time a crowd of approximately 80,000 saw the Texan pitch the College All Stars to a 6 to 0 triumph over the professional champion Green Bay Packers.

Tonight another crowd of 80,000 may see another demonstration by the redoubtable Baugh, now star of the Washington Redskins, or perhaps an equally peerless performance by the collegians, and Colorado's famed Whizzer White.

The contest will be the rubber game of a series which began four years ago. Each side has won a game. Two titles ended in ties. The game starts at 8:30 p. m. PST.

Lineup:

PHOENIX

PHOENIX, Aug. 31. — (Sp.) — Mr. and Mrs. Harry Schlund and son, and Miss Winnie Schlund of Cairo, Nebraska, have been visiting with the Schlund and Urdel families for the past week. Enroute home they will visit relatives and friends in southern California.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Seal, son, Royal, and daughter, Miss Marguerite, of Wakefield, Kansas, were recent guests of their daughter, Mrs. Floyd Chapman and family. Before returning to their Kansas home, they will visit in California.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Bennett and daughter of Provolet called on friends and relatives in Phoenix Monday.

Mr. and Mrs. Horace J. Blakeway of Esparto, Calif., have arrived for a visit with their daughter, Mrs. Victor F. Birdseye and family.

Dr. E. Avarad Whitman, head of the English department at Linfield college, Medfordville, is visiting old friends in Phoenix. He is the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Colver.

Miss Irene Stedman and Miss Ruth Nelson were hostesses to a large group of friends last Friday evening at a scavenger hunt, and dancing party. Refreshments were served by the two hostesses to over fifteen guests who enjoyed the unusual affair.

Mr. and Mrs. Jack Staley of Minneapolis, Kansas, spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Walker M. Caldwell and family here. Mr. and Mrs. Staley are old friends and neighbors of the Caldwell family.

Mrs. Lillian Coleman and Miss Pale Carver motored to Diamond lake and Fort Klamath Sunday.

Over seventy-five attended the special meeting arranged by the local Toward club August 16, at the high school gymnasium. Gordon Ware, national representative of Toward clubs, was a most interesting speaker.

Services for the late Mrs. Allie D. Short, formerly of Yreka, were held at the Phoenix Presbyterian church last Friday, at 2 p. m. Allie Dunlap Short was born in 1878 at the Dunlap residence which occupied the corner of 2nd street and Church in the exact location where the Presbyterian church stands, and so she was brought back to Phoenix for final rites to the same place where she first saw the light of day. Interment was in the Phoenix cemetery.

Mrs. Ernest Callender and son, Donald of McCall, Idaho, visited recently at the V. R. Hallcraft home. William Callender of McCall accompanied his son and cousin from McCall to the Rogue River valley, and was united in marriage at Medford, August 19 to Miss Ruth Dally of Eagle Point. Mr. and Mrs. Callender will reside at Eagle Point, where Mr. Callender is employed.

Mr. and Mrs. Norman Olson and son Frank of Yreka, Calif., were guests of Mr. and Mrs. V. R. Hallcraft Saturday.

DEATH CLAIMS FACTOR, BEAUTIFIER OF STARS

BEVERLY HILLS, Cal., Aug. 31. — (AP) — Max Factor, 51-year old pioneer motion picture make-up expert, died at his home Tuesday. He had been ill for the past three months. A liver and kidney ailment caused his death.

Factor came to this country in 1904. In the early day of pictures, he became a make-up man and through the years built a huge make-up, cosmetic and wig business.

Billy Hulen says:

Duck Hunters Grin As Increase Brings Season Extension

Those guys you see going around town with wide grins on their faces are duck hunters. The fellows who risk pneumonia and divorce suits charging desertion every autumn for the chance to knock down a bagful of waterfowl, are really happy.

Billy Hulen.

Principal reason for the super exhilaration being shown by nimble rods is, of course, the 45-day waterfowl hunting season for this fall — a 15-day increase over the stringent regulations of the last three years. Also, the fact that canvasback and ruddy ducks have been removed from the banned list.

However, there are other reasons for the glowing smiles you notice on a large percentage of the male population. Census takers of the North American duck crop have reported a fine increase among all species. Reports from Canada indicate the best water condition in years in the breeding grounds, along with increased numbers. And, the heavy rains that swept the continent in late July have made conditions ideal in the Canadian provinces where most broods are hatching.

According to word from the More Game Foundation, the late July deluge promises the biggest crop of ducks in years. Millions of young ducks have perished in recent years when recurrent July droughts entrapped them in dried out Canadian marshes, it is explained, but this summer the story is different. Heavy rains in the spring also helped, creating virtual flood conditions in the report that myriad of waterfowl returned there to nest.

John C. Huntington of Ducks Unlimited (Canada), waterfowl conservation organization supported by thousands of American sportsmen, told the Associated Press, "Water in the duck factory appears sufficient to carry broods well through to maturity, and with restoration activities of Ducks Unlimited and other agencies underway, sportsmen can look forward to the biggest duck migration in years."

Principal activity of Ducks Unlimited is the restoration of the water supply in the prairie provinces of Alberta, Saskatchewan and Manitoba, used by waterfowl as nesting grounds for years and which in recent years has been ruined by drought. Simple earthen and rock dams, thrown across abandoned ditches draining thousands of acres, are eliminating some of the worst traps for ducks.

With the work of Ducks Unlimited in Canada and the many restoration projects of the U. S. Biological Survey in the resting areas of this country gradually increasing, the waterfowl population, close observers say it isn't too much to hope for that in a few years, hunters may again have all the shooting they want without brief time limits and restrictions. Like the good old days, in other words.

Most champions follow pretty close to the accepted style of play and form as written in the copy book of their respective sports, but now and then a title-holder bobs up who seems to disregard all the rules of the game in blasting his way to the top, and staying there. Al Simmons, for instance, who won two straight American league batting championships with his foot so far in the bucket it often almost disappeared in the visiting team's dugout. Stepping in the bucket, or stepping away from the plate when you swing, is supposed to be one of the cardinal sins of batters, but Simmons didn't do so bad with the unorthodox stance.

Now comes Don Budge, the flame-haired tennis champion, with a backhand stroke that makes stylists groan when they see it and opponents groan even louder. According to the best so-called tennis form for a backhand shot, you must have a smooth stroke with a full and graceful follow-through, with the right foot forward and the body firmly planted.

Budge, the world's best amateur player for the past two years and well on his way to the third, keeps his right foot forward, alright, but that's where his devastating backhand shot forgets the rules. He has virtually no follow-through, pivoting sharply in a manner to get his entire body into the shot. And the body, most of the time, is moving through the air instead of being firmly planted. It is more of a stabbing stroke in which Budge and his racket cooperate in one motion to blast the daylight out of that tennis ball with the desired results.

Greenberg Doubts Ability To Better Babe's Record

NEW YORK, Aug. 31. — (AP) — Hank Greenberg, the slugging Detroit first baseman, says his chance of beating Babe Ruth's old record of 60 home runs in a season are slim. Unlike a lot of players, though, he's frank to admit that he's in there trying.

The old Bronx boy was found snoring at a bowl of breakfast porridge in the restaurant of the New Yorker. Hank's parents still dwell in the Bronx, incidentally, and it is a matter of record he would have been playing for the Yankees today if the Yanks hadn't been pretty well fixed for first basemen.

"I'd say I'm about a 10-to-1 shot to break the Babe's mark," he said, tentatively. "It's been a strain ever since they started touting me to knock 61 homers. Every time I come to bat I'm trying for one. The fans want them. The result is my batting average has slipped to about .309."

"Another factor which hurts my chances is that they're giving me more intentional passes than ever, just like they did to Ruth. And I guess they're dusting me off a bit, too. I've been hit by pitched balls twice in the last couple of games."

Hank, at the moment of finishing his porridge, had clouted 15 into the cheap seats. That placed him exactly nine game and three homers ahead of Babe's lavish mark.
