Billy Hulien says: Same Coaches to Carry On Duties In Local Schools

The gentlemen who last year taught Medford's grade school, junior high and senior high school athletes the art of playing football, basketball, baseball and track proficiently, will be back in full force this coming school year, which starts next Tuesday.

Billy Hulien, who will continue in his head football and track coaching duties at the South Cascade avenue institution, with Russ Acherson assisting in basketball, Acherson will have full charge, replacing Bowerman in that capacity.

At Medford junior high school, George Harrington will start his second season at the helm of all sports. Ray Henderson will continue to direct younger junior high athletes, and Donald McKenzie will also again assist both in the athletic program.

In the grade schools, last year's coaches will again be on hand to drill their charges in fundamentals and prepare them for junior and senior high. Lynn Mills will have charge of Roosevelt sports. H. W. Gustin will once more be at Jackson, Ray Hunsaker will start his second campaign at Lincoln and J. C. Tucker will combine the duties of principal and coach at Washington. Guatin, at Jackson, is also principal.

Medford is credited as having one of the finest athletic programs of any city in Oregon. With competent coaches in all grade schools, as well as in junior and senior high, the youngsters receive correct instruction in all sports, beginning at a very tender age. By the time they reach high school, they are thoroughly drilled in the mechanics of sports, which undoubtedly is one of the main reasons for the continued athletic success of the red and black teams turned out of high school.

Ashland high school's football outlook, rather gloomy since Steve Fowler received his diploma, was brightened considerably when Walt Lee, former halfback of two years ago, reported to Coach Skeet O'Connell Monday as the club was issued auto.

Lee, who can pack the mail in no uncertain fashion, was out of school last season, but will return this year to round out a pretty fair looking Grizzly backfield. Regular ball-carriers who will carry on from last fall are Bob Gregory, Kenny Harris and Little Charlie Warren. Who is he taking his third year crack at opponents. From this corner, it appears like the Ashlanders will have plenty of speed and deception in the backfield, but he rather shy on straight ahead power, although Harris smacks pretty hard.

Don't feel too sorry for Don Paber, coach of Albany college, which won't have any football team this season because of lack of facilities in its new location in Portland. Don, former Central Point high school boy, plans to concentrate on basketball and baseball, and if things develop as he believes, they will, Albany will be no setup for any of the Northwest conference hoop outfits. With no football to bother about, Don and his canasta tossers can start hammering at the basket much earlier in the season than would be possible, otherwise.

Isbell Steals Show as Collegians Thump Indians 28 to 16

EX-PURDUE STAR OUTSHINES BAUGH IN GRID CLASSIC

Aerial Battle of The Texans in Prospect When Professional Season Opens — White Plays Briefly

By EARL HILLIGAN CHICAGO, Sept. 1.—(AP)—The game's greatest individual rivalry—"the aerial battle of the Texans"—was in prospect for football's 1938 program today.

Before 74,250 spectators who jammed Soldier field last night, the collegiate all-stars defeated the Washington Redskins 28 to 16, and from the spectacular gridiron show, blazed the name of Cecil Isbell of Houston, Texas.

Signed by Packers. Isbell, former Purdue star, was signed to play professionally this fall with the Green Bay Packers, and judging from his performance last night will furnish plenty of competition for "Blinging Sammy" Baugh, who came up from Texas Christian a year ago to pass himself to fame and Washington to the world's professional championship.

Baugh was just about all his record indicated against the collegians, but it was the husky Isbell who stole the show as the former college ace scored four touchdowns in the second half to gain the second straight victory for the all-stars in the five-year-old series. Two games ended in ties.

The all-stars opened the scoring on Jim McDonald's field goal from the 15-yard line in the first period. Washington, with Baugh tossing three brilliant passes, then drove to a touchdown, made by big Max Krau from the two-yard marker.

Riley Smith added a field goal from 30 yards out in the second period. The Isbell's aerial wizardry sent the all-stars on their way. He passed 29 yards to John Kovatch, Northwestern, to run 10 yards to score. Seconds later, Bill Dougherty, reserve center from Santa Clara, intercepted a pass and ran 40 yards to score.

Baugh flips Long One. Corby Davis of Indiana scored a touchdown in the fourth quarter in a short snarl after Jim Ryba of Alabama blocked Baugh's kick on the Redskins 15. Washington picked up its second touchdown after Baugh's 44-yard aerial to Riley Smith, George Karamatic scoring from two yards out. The final all-star touchdown was registered when Andy Uram, former Minnesota star, raced 46 yards after intercepting a pass.

Washington was in front with first downs, 13 to 7, and with yards gained by rushing, 103 to 23, but the all-stars' alert secondary ruined Isbell's hopes of winning on an over-the-top "blitzer" White, former Colorado star, played briefly and had trouble getting his passes away.

HOT COMPETITION IS PROMISED FOR SO. OREGON TITLE

Tenth Annual Tournament Attracts Brilliant Field—Three Former Champs to Match Golf Swings

With a brilliant field headed by three former champions, including Hubert B. Bentley of Ashland, last year's titlist, the 10th annual Southern Oregon-Northern California golf championship gets under way tomorrow at the Rogue Valley Golf club as some 150 of the finest shotmakers in this district fire their 18-hole qualifying rounds for flight positions in the four-day tournament.

Eighteen-hole match play will open early Saturday morning, and from then on nearly every daylight hour will see the beautiful course, designed by the late H. Chandler Egan, swarming with golfers battling for championships in eight 16-player flights. Finals in all flights will be held Monday, Labor Day, with the 36-hole championship match slated to start in the 16 holes Monday afternoon. All other matches will be of 18 holes.

Five Favorites
Installed as pre-tournament favorites are Bentley, defending champion; Don Thompson of Portland, last year's runner-up; Eddie Simmons and Bob Hammond of Medford, two-time champions of the tournament; Leland Clark of Medford, who has never won the event, but who has been dangerous at all times and George Harrington of Medford, the golfing athletic coach. However, with such an outstanding array of golfers from Oregon, Washington and California entered, close observers state they wouldn't be surprised to see several "dark horses" blast their way to contending positions.

Tomorrow, all entrants will fire away for 18 holes to determine what flights they will enter for the match play. The 12 lowest scorers will be paired in the championship bracket, and after those 32 golfers have played one 18-hole round the 16 winners will continue on in the championship flight and the beaten 16 will make up the first flight.

Last year, it took a qualifying score of 81 or better to crack the championship division, and it is expected that a card of 90 will be necessary this year to crack the title division. Bentley, as defending champion, doesn't have to qualify, automatically entering the championship flight. Last year's medalist was Leland Clark. Par for the 18-hole layout is 70.

Course in Fine Shape
Due to the efforts of George Robertson, club manager, and Vic Maulding, the course is in excellent condition for the tournament. Two holes, the sixth and 13th, have each been lengthened about 35 yards, making number six a tough, four-hole, number 13 a hard par four. Tournament Director Don Clark, who has had charge of the event since its inception, stated this year's course would prove the toughest in the nine-year history of the event.

A large number of handsome trophies and prizes have been donated by the club for winners and runners-up in all flights, with the big award, the Larry Schade trophy, going to the tournament champion for one year. However, Simmons, Bentley and Hammond will be gunning for permanent possession of the cup, as it becomes the property of any golfer winning the crown three times. There will also be a gold medal for the low qualifier.

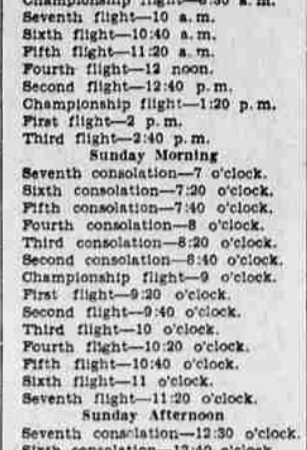

Mrs. Bell Thompson will act as hostess to all out-of-town women visiting the clubhouse during the tournament. Luncheons will be served at the clubhouse starting Saturday noon and continuing through Monday.

Expect Big Field
Up to this morning, a total of 30 golfers had registered for the tournament, and over 100 more were expected to enter today and tomorrow with the bulk of them signing up in the morning starting their qualifying rounds tomorrow. Out-of-town golfers registering were Dr. Harvey Woods and Don Provost of Ashland and L. Spencer of Roseburg.

The following Medford clubbers officially entered the tourney yesterday: Paul Meyers, Jerry Jerome, George B. Jall, Max Peirce, John Cupp, Spencer Wells, William Porter, Charles E. Gray, Bill Seikler, Bayard Gatchell, Keith West, Jack Bierma, Don Newbury and Al Littrell.

In announcing the schedule of starting times for all flights, beginning Saturday, Director Clark requested golfers to telephone the club as early as possible Saturday morning to find out what flight they will compete in. After qualifying scores are turned in Friday, golfers will be paired in one of the eight flights, according to their scores, and the flight positions of any won't be known until Saturday morning.

Army Of Hunters Starts After Elk

ASTORIA, Sept. 1.—(AP)—Elk hunters, 1,000 strong but lacking automobiles and the comforts of fire, moved into Clatsop county forests today for the first time in more than 20 years.

More than 500 special hunting licenses were issued here, alone, and game department officials said sales indicated one of the greatest concentrations of hunters in western Oregon.

ELECTIONS SHOW PENSION SEEKERS WIELD BIG POWER

Downey campaigned as an advocate of a system which he has known as the "30 year Thursday" plan. He said all unemployed persons over 50 years of age should get the equivalent of $30 a week in state scrip. President Roosevelt called it a "fantastic shortcut to Utopia," and McAdoo also criticized it.

Yesterdays California supreme court opened the way for a referendum on the plan by refusing to hear it from the November election ballot. Two taxpayers had attacked it as technically defective and unconstitutional.

There have been few primaries this year lacking candidates with some sort of pension proposal.

Sen. Claude Pepper of Florida, first administration supporter to win renomination, campaigned as a Townsend plan advocate. Rep. D. Worth Clark, who defeated New Deal Sen. James P. Pope in the Idaho Democratic primary, also favored the Townsend plan, and in Oregon both senatorial nominees—Rufus C. Holman, Republican, and Willis Mahoney, Democrat, have advocated the system.

Worked in Texas In Texas, W. Lee O'Daniel won a smashing primary victory for the governorship. His principal plank was a $30 monthly pension for all persons over 65.

The Democratic senatorial race in Washington also provides a pension issue. Sen. Homer T. Bone is opposed for renomination by Otto A. Case of Seattle. Like Bone, Case supports the Roosevelt administration, but in addition is an ardent Townsendist. In Georgia William G. McCrae, one of four Democratic candidates for senator, has supported the Townsend plan.

fire from a boiler in the engine room.
