DEMAND REVOKING OF MARTIAL LAW IN BORDER AREAS

slowly army tanks rumbled through the streets of the city. Private reports stated that on one occasion tanks drove into a crowd to break up a demonstration.

Eger is a Sudeten community within three miles of the German frontier, where a huge awastika—prohibited in Czechoslovakia—had been raised above the town hall by students celebrating Adolf Hitler's speech at Nurnberg.

At Sudeten party headquarters in Prague leaders declared tonight all negotiations with the Czechoslovak government for settlement of their bitter, bloody dispute had been broken off.

"There has been no formal notice that discussions have ceased, but there can be no conversations in this atmosphere," said Oscar Ulrich, the party's propaganda chief.

"Our committee does not intend to approach the government again. It is impossible to talk reasonably with people who argue with bullets," Ulrich referred to the situation in the Sudeten German region near the German border, where the government imposed martial law on eight Sudeten communities after disorders in which at least eight persons were killed.

(The Associated Press correspondent made no mention of a Sudeten ultimatum to the Prague government, which Reuters—British news agency—reported. Reuters said the Sudetens had given the government six hours to withdraw all emergency measures imposed on the Sudeten regions.)

Many Disorders From all parts of the aroused Sudeten region reports of clashes—aftermath of Adolf Hitler's Nurnberg speech last night and the resulting Sudeten celebrations—poured into the party's Prague headquarters, which seethed with indignation and activity.

Party headquarters on Heerska street was guarded by grim-faced Sudetens tonight. No decisions were announced but some officials expressed belief the party's demands on the government would be increased.

Until now the party has been demanding territorial autonomy but tonight there was increasing insistence on a plebiscite in the Sudeten regions.

Most of the disturbances occurred during the night and in the early morning before martial law was ordered, the most serious being at Ausig, Graslitz and Kasden, all Sudeten strongholds.

The dead included four Sudetens—a Czech soldier, two policemen and a Czech civilian.

Widespread minor disturbances resulted in a number of persons being injured. Instances of Sudetens attacking public buildings and crossing the frontier into Germany added to the worries of the government.

Military rule was applied to Palcanau, Boehmsch-Kernau, Karlovy Vary, Eibogen, Eger, Neudeck, Presnitz and Kasden, all Sudeten strongholds.

A responsible government source said the government would extend martial law to all other Sudeten areas and throughout the entire republic if necessary to preserve order.

CHAGRINED DEWEY PLANS NEW TRIAL

NEW YORK, Sept. 13.—(P)—Dist. Atty. Thomas E. Dewey, obviously chagrined at the mistrial climax of the state's four-week-old case against James J. Hines, said today he would bring the veteran Tammany district leader to trial again on the same indictment.

"Hines will be brought to justice," he said, "it will move for a new trial at the earliest possible date." The prosecutor said it would be "the same identical indictment," but he had not yet determined a specific date for the new trial.

Legal experts in the district attorney's office asserted Dewey would also prove who wrote the "J. Hines" signature on the disputed $500 check—the lone piece of documentary evidence introduced by the state in an effort to link Hines with the $200,000-a-year Dutch Schultz policy racket.

McMINNVILLE, Sept. 14.—(P)—The county clerk said today that petitioners calling for local liquor option in Yamhill county have qualified for the November ballot.

TRIBE'S REVIVAL FROM PAUPERISM TOLD BY COLLIER

Commissioner Points To Rehabilitation Of Indians Under Federal Guidance Over Course Of Years.

By John Collier (U. S. Commissioner of Indian Affairs—Guest Columnist for Preston Grover).

WASHINGTON—There is a widespread belief that the so-called new deal for Indians is a novel, unprecedented thing which leaped into action from the brains of brain trusters in 1933. The case of the Jicarilla Apaches serves to correct that misunderstanding.

Across 40 years, after the United States annexed the southwest, the Apaches were the terror of everybody else, and the Jicarilla Apaches were as bad as the worst. In 1887, the Jicarillas were set down on a tract in New Mexico upon the high plateau which straddles the Continental divide, close to the Colorado line.

In that same year the general allotment act for Indians was passed, requiring the breaking up of tribal disintegrating even the family institution among Indians. Under this act, the Indians lost 90 million acres of their best land in the 45 years after 1887.

Hopeless, Dying Twenty years ago, the Jicarilla Apaches were an embittered, hopeless, and, literally, a dying tribe. Their numbers had fallen from 793 in 1899 to 585 in 1919. They were leasing their entire reservation—750,000 acres—to commercial stockmen for $10,000 a year, and they were starving upon this lease money and U. S. doles.

In that hopeless hour, there were two necessities. One was to check the shocking death rate. The other was to get the Jicarillas to go to work. The work could be the only one sort—livestock work. The devastating mortality rate was partly a reflex of a despairing and unoccupied intellectual and emotional life.

Small issues of sheep were made to each family on a loan basis. Additional issues rewarded ability and willingness. As a result, from an embittered and dying people in 1920, the Jicarillas last year, after 18 years of rebuilding, showed an earned tribal income which had jumped from $10,000 to $150,000, and an earned individual income which had jumped from $20 to $200. In place of dying, they were multiplying.

The Indian reorganization act was advocated by President Roosevelt and signed by him in 1934. Almost everybody said "These Jicarillas will not understand the act. The only time they have ever taken collective responsibility was on the warpath. Their ancient forms simply cannot be readjusted into a modern program."

In addition to many people said: "There is an Indian trader who for 40 years has been a sort of federal overlord of the Jicarillas. His name is Emmet Wirt and he will never let the Jicarillas organize."

Hopeful, Thriving Curious to know the real situation, I went there and was met by this reputedly ruthless dictator, Emmet Wirt. He proved to be one of the most interesting human beings I have met in years.

He insisted the Jicarillas were capable of any reasonable adjustment if treated like grown men. He offered to help find out what they really would do. Then I met with the Indians. Most of them do not read English or talk it, but the questions they asked probed to the heart of Indian affairs.

Sixteen months ago the Jicarillas adopted their self-governing constitution under the reorganization act. A year ago they unanimously adopted their charter of business self-government. Then their delegates came to Washington and negotiated an $80,000 loan under the act to establish the tribe as its own trader, in cattle, commodities, clothing, candy, cigarettes—everything but alcohol.

So, one of the most warlike and most archaic tribes has gone from death to life, from pauperism to increasing plenty, from total depend-

Bing Crosby's Latest Coming

When "Big Brother" Bing Crosby looks at "Little Brother" Donald O'Connor as Donald shows how he'd boot the winners home in a horse race, there steals a sad expression over Bing's face. (Can he be thinking of his own sad luck with his racing saddle?) Elizabeth Patterson, as the mother of the two, looks on paternally. They're all members of the cast of "Sing You Sinners," which opens a four day run tomorrow at the Craterian theatre.

One of the $250,000 Movie Quiz Contest pictures, "Sing You Sinners" has Pat MacMurray as another of the brothers in the dippy-doodle Bearbe family, with Ellen Drew as the girl in the story. A fast-paced comedy that is winning much praise for Crosby in a role totally different from anything he's had in the past, the film has four new song numbers which the three brothers—Bing, Fred and Donald—sing individually and in group.

ITALY URGES CZECHS TO HOLD PLEBISCITE

ROME, Sept. 13.—(P)—A bulletin issued today by a government department today urged Czechoslovakia to give Sudeten Germans the right of determining their own destiny as a means of avoiding "disorder and war." The bulletin, "Informations Diplomatiques," given out by the ministry of popular culture, declared the world does not want a war designed only to maintain "the lordship of Prague over the Sudetens."

It added, "Giving the Sudetens the possibility of separating from Prague" would be "choosing the way of justice and above all the way of peace."

Start Third Trial Of Union Secretary

HILLSBORO, Ore., Sept. 13.—(P)—The state paraded 10 witnesses before a jury in circuit court today in the third trial of Jack Estabrook and sought again to link him with a series of labor disturbances preceding a store bombing at Rockton in 1935 for which he is on trial.

Several of the witnesses, all of whom testified at the previous trials in which juries disagreed, asserted that Estabrook was present in a picket line at the Marinoff brewery. The store was alleged to have been bombed when it continued to sell Marinoff beer.

Estabrook is financial secretary of the A. F. L. Warehousemen's union at Portland.
