

All-Star Mat Bouts Tonight—Craters Test Tuesday 3:30 P. M.

EX-BLACK SECRET WILL FACE BRITT IN MAIN EVENT

Armbreaker vs. Crab Hold Promises Big Fuss—Ace Cleanies to Perform.

Alvin Britt versus Nick Bostina, Paul Murdock facing Charley Carr, Tiger Takoff tangling with Buddy Knox—that's the way Promoter Mack Lillard's wrestling brutes will pair off in the Medford armory tonight as the muscle-mangling industry makes its weekly appearance. It's an all-star, slam-bang mat festival, starring Britt and Bostina in the main event, and a goodly number of patrons are expected to be on hand for the fireworks.

Britt, the armbreaking, ex-junior heavyweight champion and Bostina, the former Black Secret who has tossed away his mask, will battle for one hour or until one or the other obtains two tumbles. The other bouts will be staged under the Australian system of six 10-minute rounds or the best two falls out of three.

The program, one of the best of the year, has the spice of variety. The Britt-Bostina squibbles figures to develop into an alley brawl, with Bostina pouring on the dirt until Britt is forced to retaliate. The middle go between Murdock and Carr will be a beautiful exhibition of legitimate mat work, as both boys are past masters of every scientific maneuver in the business. The opener between Takoff and Knox will be a mixture of the two brands of grappling; Takoff is a meanie, pure and simple, while Knox, make his first southern Oregon appearance, is considered one of the finest straight bone-benders in the game.

While Bostina depends mainly on illegitimate tactics to overpower and disable opponents, he has more than a fair smattering of knowledge concerning scientific holds. His Boston crab is highly effective, and he uses an arm lock to great advantage. His method of attack is to weaken his foe by foul means, then slank on the crab for the payoff.

Britt, on the other hand, is inherently a clean wrestler until forced to be otherwise, if you consider his armbreaker over the ropes as a lawful maneuver, which most persons don't. It doesn't take Alvin long to become aroused to a fighting pitch, though, and Bostina's first dirty trick this evening is expected to explode the pyrotechnics. Both men are big and tough, and the brass will turn into one of the most hair-raising ever witnessed here.

Thunderbolt

Paul Murdock (above), master of the Alabama thunderbolt hold, attempts to make it two straight over Dynamite Charley Carr in the armory wrestling ring tonight. The clash is a rematch from last week.

SEALS AND SACS TAKE TOP SPOTS COAST PLAYOFFS

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 26.—(AP)—The San Francisco Seals and Sacramento Senators, the underdogs, are going to battle it out in the finals of the Shaugnessy playoffs in the Pacific coast baseball league to determine who is going to get the lion's share of $7500 in prize money.

San Francisco eliminated the Seattle Sads by taking both ends of a twin bill, 5 to 4 and 6 to 0 yesterday. The Seals, who managed to get into the playoffs by two percentage points, beat Freddie Hutchinson, Seattle's juvenile pitching ace, and the circuit's leading hurler, in the opener.

After losing the first game, 3 to 2, the Senators had an easy time winning the second 10 to 1 from Los Angeles' Angels, who captured the pennant by finishing on top at the end of the regular schedule. It gave the Solons four out of six games.

Charley Graham, president of the Seals, said he expected the playoff finals to open in Sacramento Wednesday night. Three games of a seven-game series will be played in Sacramento he said, the remainder in San Francisco.

First prize of $5000 goes to the team winning the finals. The runner up gets $2500. A $500 trophy also goes to the first place team.

Seattle and Los Angeles got $1260 each for their troubles.

First game: R. H. E.
Seattle 4 10 2
San Francisco 5 11 0
Hutchinson and Spindel; Gibson, Ballou (9) and Sprinz.

Second game: R. H. E.
Seattle 0 10 0
San Francisco 4 10 0
Barnett, Turpin (3), Pickard (6), and Spindel; Koupal and Sprinz.

First game: R. H. E.
Los Angeles 3 10 0
Sacramento 2 10 2
Thomas, Bush and Collins; Schmidt, Newsome and Franks.

2nd game—7 innings: R. H. E.
Los Angeles 10 11 0
Sacramento 10 11 0
Berry, Bush, Salvoen and Collins; Walker and Frank.

WALKING PAPERS TO GABBY STREET

ST. LOUIS, Sept. 26.—(AP)—Gabby Street's dismissal as manager of the St. Louis Browns was viewed by fans today as the start of a "new deal" for the American League team's owners.

The "old Sarge," a prominent baseball figure for 30 years, was told his services would not be needed after the present season following the Browns' double victory over the Chicago White Sox yesterday.

President Donald L. Barnes, in a brief statement, said Street had "served the club faithfully and I believe he has done as well with the club as anyone could have."

"But," he added, "I believe it is necessary to engage a new manager for 1939."

There was no indication of Street's successor.

Gabby appeared surprised by the announcement. He said the news was "unexpected."

Bullet Explodes on Track.

LYNN, Mass.—(UP)—Richard D. Hunt, 12, had an electric train, a 22 caliber rifle cartridge and an idea. Placing the cartridge on the toy track he sent the tiny train whizzing over the rails to see "what would happen." A doctor extracted the bullet from the boy's leg.

CRUCIAL SERIES NATIONAL RACE OPENS TOMORROW

(By the Associated Press.)

The Giants and Reds are out of the race; Hank Greenberg's home run record chances are dying; the Yanks keep on looking more like chumps than champs, and old Gabe Gabby Street has his honorable discharge papers from the St. Louis Browns.

The Cubs and Pirates tangle tomorrow in the start of a three-game "sudden death series" and there you have your National League pennant, all wrapped up and addressed to the winner.

From this corner it looks like Peaceful Pie Traynor will have the pitching edge for the set. Pie had to use only Red Rosebud Lucas to top his old cousin, the Reds, 5-3, yesterday, while Gabby Hartnett led with one half of his Cub pair of ace, Clay Bryant, in whipping the Cardinals, 7-2. Thus, the Reds will have their entire staff, headed by Jim Tobin, Bob Klumper, Cy Blanton and Andrus Bauers, to work in that order, each with four or more days' rest.

The race became a two-team affair yesterday when the Cubs bumped the Reds and the Boston Bees nipped the Giants twice, 3-2 in 11 innings and 4-3 behind the five-hit, shoving of Old Mill Shoffner. This made it mathematically impossible for either the Reds or the Giants to catch up and left the Pirates two games up on the Cubs, each with seven to go.

Over in the American League, the Yankees went wireless again against the Boston Red Sox, dropping a 5-3 opener in ten innings and then fighting for a two-all draw in the nightcap, which will be played off today. Thus, the world champions show the "impressive" record of one victory and a tie in nine starts since clinching the pennant.

MAJOR HI TEAMS OF STATE GET IN FRAY THIS WEEK

(By the Associated Press.)

Here and there in the young but lusty football season a high school team with definite championship bearing began to emerge from the back in the annual sprint for the Oregon mythical title.

Some teams which won a week ago triumphed again Saturday but others faltered after promising openers against warm-up opponents. Many schools, powerful year after year, will leave the practice field for competition next Friday and Saturday.

The Klamath Falls Pelicans appeared on the southern Oregon field as a serious contender for the honors defended by Oregon City, Salem and Independence after smearing Lakeview 69 to 0. A week ago Klamath smothered Hill military academy of Portland by six touchdowns.

Milwaukie, impressive winner against McMinnville in the opening game, measured the customarily powerful Eugene Axmen, 13 to 6. Bend, undefeated last season until it ran into Oregon City in a post season "title" struggle, accounted for its second victory, this time against Redmond, 6 to 0.

Baker's hopes were blighted by La Grande, 37 to 0, but La Grande was out of the picture because of a loss the week before to Roosevelt of Portland. Union won its second straight, stopping Ontario, 13 to 0, and Mac-Hi of Milton-Freewater remained on the unbeaten list with a 39 to 7 win against Enterprise.

Astoria made a notable start against The Dalles a fortnight ago but when down 27 to 0 in a game with Longview, Wash.

The week-end's major victories included University of Eugene over Sweethome, North Bend over Grants Pass and Albany over Myrtle Point.

Hood River had one victory against Oregon opposition but dropped an interstate contest to Camas, Wash.

Portland Intercollegiate league play opens this week.

Million Salads Lost

OAKLAND, Cal.—(UP)—The American public lost an estimated 1,000,000 salads here when a freight train, striking a loaded vegetable truck, ploughed through four other trucks, putting them out of business. The engineer of the train was not aware of the accident until a produce wholesaler boarded his train and applied the emergency brakes.

Billy Hulen says:

White Unsigned Because Can't Tell White Lie

Far be it from this distorter of the King's English to dispute the old adage as regards honesty being the best policy. The odds are 10 to 1 in our book that it is the correct theory.

However, there are apparently occasions that honestly call for a little white lie, as witness the case of Tommy White, the slugging rightfielder of Medford's champion Craters.

White couldn't tell a little white lie, he missed out on the greatest opportunity he may ever have to break into professional baseball.

Tommy, a left-handed hitter who socks that apple right on the snout and who throws like nobody's business, was the best-looking baseball prospect to attend the Cincinnati Reds tryout camp at the high school field last week. Hank Severid, ex-major league catcher who helped conduct the camp, admitted as much to this writer. In fact, Severid said before he left town that White was one of the sweetest young players he had seen on his current tryout camp swing.

Yet, Tommy wasn't offered a contract with the Reds as were Gordon Howerton of Grants Pass and Lowry Pennell of Smith River, Cal., a couple of infielders. He wasn't given that golden opportunity to play the game he loves, and get paid for it, for the simple reason that when he registered for the camp, he wrote down his true age, 22.

If Tommy had been able to tell a little white lie, if he had written his age as 19, 20 or even 21, he would have been snapped up by the Reds immediately. Severid made such a statement of his own free will, and there is no reason to doubt his word, because Tommy was by far the class of all youngsters trying out. He stood head and shoulders above all others.

It is an uncodified rule of the Reds that no players can be signed who are over 21 years of age. As a result, Severid and Shaders' hands were tied, and although they both recognized in White a potential baseball star, they were unable to do anything about it.

It is too bad that Tommy didn't use his baseball age like players have been doing since the game was invented. If he had indicated his age as 19 or 20 or thereabouts, chipping a year or so off his actual age like all national pastimers do because the game pays off on youth, he would be traveling back to Muskogee next spring with Howerton and Pennell to have his filing in organized baseball.

Stanford didn't play football last Saturday, yet two persons telephoned this office wanting to know the score of the Stanford game.

Games on the Pacific coast don't start until 2:30 p.m., and are not completed before 4:30 or 5, yet at least two dozen telephone inquiries were received BEFORE 2:30, requesting the final score of certain games.

Many calls came in asking for scores of games that won't be played until next Saturday, and one person requested the final count on the Oregon State-Portland University game, which will be staged in two weeks.

It is probably just all a part of the annual football hysteria which grips John Public in the fall of the year, but if something isn't done about these left-handed telephone calls, the entire office staff will be in a state of collapse before the season is over. We all are glad to furnish any football information desired, when it is possible to do so, but pull-see confine requests to games that are being played and not ask us to give the final count on next week's encounters, or until those that are being played are completed.

Maybe it's all I. Pickem's fault, these telephone calls asking for the final score before the game has ended, or even started. From the way he knocked them over last week-end, you can't blame the fans for believing this newspaper can look into the future.

The master prognosticator called five out of six correctly, and lambasted one of them squarely on the old nose, Idaho's 13 to 0 win over Oregon State. He missed only the USC-Alabama game, and called the turn on Oregon over Washington State, Minnesota over Washington, California over St. Mary's and UCLA over Iowa. He predicted California would barely nose out St. Mary's, it took a last quarter rally by the Bears to win. He said UCLA would have an easy time with Iowa, and it was easy. Next week, Mr. Pickem will have his full dozen, so save your tolling money to lay on the line.

The old average looks like this: Attempted 6, picked 5, missed 1, percentage .833.

TURPIN TO HURL AGAINST BEAVERS HIGH FIELD GAME

Portland Coast Squad to Play Best Medford Team in Ten Years Tomorrow.

Just how good is this Medford Crater baseball club, Southern Oregon league champs?

What kind of a pitcher will Lyle Turpin be against tough, professional hitters?

And will Tommy White, Orval Hampel, Hooster Hoffard, Chief McLean and others of our heavy-clout-pennant winners be able to belt out baseballs in the face of Pacific Coast league curves and fast balls?

Those and many other interesting questions will be answered tomorrow afternoon at the high school park when Portland's Beavers take the field for an exhibition encounter with the finest Medford baseball team in 10 years. The battle starts at 3:30 sharp, one hour later than the usual game-time, and local officials are expecting an overflow crowd.

The game will highlight and bring to an end the 1938 season here, and will give local Gus H. Plans their last look at Manager Paul Hoffard's great Medford semi-pro outfit, and their first and only glimpse of a Pacific Coast league club in action.

Theoretically, the crashing Craters haven't a chance to beat the class AA Beavers, a team that performs in a league just one notch below the two major leagues. Actually, however, the Medfords stand a fighting chance of upsetting the boys who make their living by playing ball.

The spread between the brand of baseball played in the Coast and Southern Oregon leagues is terrific, of course. You can't mention bush league ball in the same breath with Coast league pastimers but, nevertheless, the Craters have that one in a thousand shot to wallopp the Ducks, and they know it.

The game may be one-sided, and again it may not. From Manager Hoffard on down, the Craters realize that if they turn in a defensive performance like they did last week in the Crescent City title game, and if they are able to sock a few base hits now and then, practically anything can happen. Anything, even to the extent of actually copping the ball game. Every Crater is determined to close this current season with his finest performance, and it is within the realm of possibility that they may do so in a manner beyond their most ambitious expectations. To wit: by beating the Beavers.

Last season, the Portlanders came to town and toyed with a so-called all-star team, which was nothing more than a conglomeration of players from Medford and Grants Pass who hadn't touched a baseball in a month. This year it is different. The Craters, thanks to their league playoff series with Crescent City, are in excellent condition. Yesterday was the first Sunday they have taken off in over the year and a half months. The entire Medford team is intact. There will be no newcomers in the lineup to break the sweet harmony of the championship club; the boys will be out there firing in perfect coordination. It really looks like it will be a ball game.

And, don't think those Beavers won't put out their best. Ball players seldom lay down on the job of manufacturing safeties and fielding to the best of their ability; against a team of the Crater calibre they won't be able to do so anyway, lest they want to get beat. You can't fool around with Hoffard's gang.

With Turpin on the rubber for Medford, the rest of the club will line up with McLean back of the plate, Hampel on first, Calvert on second, Lewis on short, Cook on third, Hoffard in left, Sakruda in center and White in right. The boys will bat in their usual order.

Mixing from the Portland team will be Manager Bill Sweeney, Harry Rosenberg and Johnny Fredericks, but Doc Leonard, Meikle, veteran trainer, is bringing all the other regulars to town. Both catchers, Dickey and Cronin, will be here. Mortimer will be on second, Marshall on short, Jeffries on third, Adams, Kintana and Steve Coocorant in the outfield. Who will play first is not known. Nor is the name of the Ducks' starting pitcher, although it will probably be Whitley Hilder, Radonits, Ad Links, or Sheeley.

The Beavers are due in town today from Bend, where they tangled with the Elks Saturday and Sunday.

RECONSTRUCTION OF NEW ENGLAND GALE TOLL OPENS

BOSTON, Sept. 26.—(AP) As Harry Hopkins, national works progress administrator, mapped a rehabilitation program with governors of the hurricane-stricken New England states, rescue workers today brought the total identified dead to above 450 through discovery of more bodies in the storm areas.

"The first thing the federal government wants to know," Hopkins told six New England governors and representatives from New York, "is what needs to be done, what should be done and when and how it should be done."

He announced all storm projects would be put on an emergency basis, with all ordinary regulations waived and no limit placed on hours of work.

Hopkins toured the devastated areas by airplane and automobile over the weekend. Authorities estimated property damage in Rhode Island, Massachusetts, Connecticut, Vermont and New Hampshire at about $200,000,000 and the latest toll of death by states stood:

Rhode Island: 239.
Massachusetts: 128.
Connecticut: 68.
New Hampshire: 13.
Vermont: 5.

That list included only identified dead and it appeared probable the final toll would be more than 500. Bodies still were being recovered, particularly in Rhode Island along the 10-mile shore stretch from Westerly to Charlestown. There was no central clearing agency to give a final list of victims.

STATE GETS TROY, OREGON AT HOME, COMING WEEKEND

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 26.—(AP)—The Pacific Coast Conference's football leagues begin their annual battle royal in earnest this weekend with every team save Stanford, meeting a conference opponent.

University of California at Los Angeles Bruins, who labeled themselves a team not to be underestimated by decimating the University of Iowa, 27 to 3, last Friday night, moves into Eugene, Ore., for a conference date with the University of Oregon Saturday. The Webfeet, playing their first game under Coach Tex Oliver, rolled over 10 points in the first quarter to beat Washington State 10 to 2 in the only conference game to count in the standings last Saturday.

The Golden Bears of the University of California, last year's champions, who showed plenty of power with a fourth-quarter steamroller to nose out the Gaels of St. Mary's, 12 to 7, in the dying minutes of a game Saturday, go to Pullman as opposition to the Washington State crew.

Oregon State, upset 13 to 0 by a high-powered University of Idaho football machine Saturday, will furnish the University of Southern California Trojans with opposition Saturday. The Trojans lost an intercollegiate tilt to Alabama, 19 to 7, last week-end.

Idaho will oppose the University of Washington Huskies who lost a 19-0 heart-breaker to University of Minnesota Gophers at Minneapolis Saturday. The Huskies have been picked by many as the team to beat in the conference this year.

Stanford's 1938 football model goes into action for the first time Saturday against the Broncs of Santa Clara.
