

DiMaggio's Slugging Gives Yankees Edge in Series Outfields

PITTSBURGH TRIO SHADES CUBS, BUT BOTH RATE HIGH

Rizzo Best Pirate Gardener, Reynolds for Chicago — Galan's Injury Hurts.

By GAYLE TALBOT

NEW YORK, Sept. 28.—(AP)—In what is the first world series game next Wednesday—whether the Yankees play the Pittsburgh Pirates or the Chicago Cubs—the most logical first move is to take Joe DiMaggio, who is receiving $20,000 for playing across the field with the Yankees this season.

You might take Joe for about $200,000 cash, if owner Jake Ruppert happened to be mad at him. Joe, the leading slugger of a club feared for distance hitting, has a batting average of .328 and 51 home runs to his credit, and gives the Yankees' bleacher patrol an obvious edge over either National League trio in a short series.

A right-hand hitter with lots of "wrist" in his swing, DiMaggio will be a distinct threat every time he goes to the plate. So to a slightly lesser degree, will be Tommy Heinrich (.269) who plays right-field for the Yankees and has posted 26 homers. George Selkirk (.255), who divides left-field duties with Myril Hoag, (.281), has hit 10.

Over the season, the Pittsburgh outfield of Johnny Rizzo, Lloyd Waner and Paul Waner has been a sweet one to have around. Any baseball man would rather have it than the Cub combination of Augie Galan, Frank Demaree and Carl Reynolds. Yet the Pirate trio seldom knocks balls out of sight.

Rizzo, the nearest the Pirates have to a game wrecker, has hit 30 homers and has an average of .297. Also, he has knocked across 104 runs, which is excellent. But Lloyd Waner, who heads the club in hitting with a mark of .311, and his brother, Paul, with .285, are strictly spot hitters.

The outfield is the spearhead of the Pittsburgh offense. Lloyd is supposed to reach first. Paul is expected to advance him a base or two, and then it is up to either Rizzo or Floyd Vaughan to bring him around. If that doesn't work, they wait an inning or two and try it again.

The Yankee system calls for Heinrich to hit a homer and for DiMaggio to shake hands with him as he crosses the plate. Or for Gehrig to hit it and Selkirk do the greeting.

Reynolds, the veteran center-fielder, leads the Chicago gardeners with a hitting average of .269, followed by Galan, .264, and Demaree, the clean-up slugger, with .270. Galan, however, twisted a knee in yesterday's game with the Pirates and may not be available if the Cubs win the pennant. Phil Cavaretta, a .200 hitter, is taking Galan's place.

There is little to choose between the three outfields in fielding skill. They're all good.

MISSOURI FAILS TO GET PAROLEE

SALEM, Sept. 28.—(AP)—Harry Van Winkle, Yonella logger, remained at liberty today after Governor Charles H. Martin for the second time refused his extradition to Missouri.

Van Winkle told sheriff's deputies he was paroled from a three-year prison sentence for grand theft, involving cutting of five trees across a disputed property line. He said he broke his parole by leaving the state because he feared hunger and lack of employment would get him into trouble if he stayed.

Sheriff J. F. Powell of Shannon county, Missouri, and two deputies left here last night without Van Winkle.

GREENBERG DRIVE TO EXCEED RUTH HOMER MARK KEEN

Detroit Pride Two Behind Babe's Record With Season Closing Sunday.

By HUGH S. FULLERTON, JR.

The rest of the baseball world may be hanging on the outcome of the Pittsburgh-Chicago series, but what excites the Detroit Tigers, and most of the American League, is whether Hank Greenberg can sock three more homers between now and Sunday.

Big Hank hit his 57th and 58th circuit blows of the season in a short second game as the Tigers trimmed the St. Louis Browns, 5-4, and 10-2. That broke a record in itself for it was the eleventh time he had hit two or more in a game this season. But the question is whether he can equal or top Babe Ruth's major league record of 60, established back in 1927.

Greenberg has five games to go if rain doesn't interfere. At this stage in '37, Ruth had only 56 homers, but he made four in three days, hitting No. 60 in the semi-final game of the season.

Another victory today would put the Cubs on top, but they'd still have to win the final tomorrow to hold the lead.

For the rest of the clubs' yesterday's games were hardly more than just playing out the schedule. The Boston Red Sox walloped the Athletics, 11-1, behind Bill Harris' fourth flinging while the Indians downed the Chicago White Sox, 6-1 on a five-hitter by Bobby Feller. The champion Yankees finally made it two straight, beating Washington, 5-3.

Paul Dean, Dizzy's comebacking brother, took a pasting at St. Louis when the Cincinnati Reds belted him out in five innings and beat the Cards, 9-1. Jim Turner allowed the Phillies three hits in 11 innings and Rookie Tom Early granted four in nine frames as the Boston Bees swept a doubleheader, 2-1 and 4-1.

The Giants and the Dodgers broke even in their final engagement, New York, taking the first game, 5-3 and Brooklyn the six-inning nightcap, 5-1.

Before we pack up the baseballs, stolen bases, blind umpires and double plays for another year, let's take a hasty glance back over the summer for the last time. It's going to be a long, cold winter and we don't want pleasant baseball memories frozen out of our mind, entirely.

Medford, from every standpoint, enjoyed its greatest season since the late 1920's. The Craters won the Southern Oregon league pennant for the first time in 10 years, attendance at games was the best since those good old days, and fans were treated to a pair of grand exhibition encounters with professional teams, in addition to witnessing plenty of thrilling league hits. Bellingham, pennant winners in the class B Western International league, came to Medford early in the spring, and Portland's Beavers wound things up yesterday.

With a winning ball club, Medford proved to be by far the best drawing city in the circuit, where in the past seven or eight years it was the poorest. The Medford Athletic association, team sponsor, won't get entirely out of the red this year, due to debts incurred in 1936 and 1937, but the Craters more than paid their own way and the liabilities of the association were chopped considerably.

The Southern Oregon league, playing a split season schedule of 16 games, was a three-cornered race from the barrier, with Medford, Crescent City and Grants Pass out-clasping Ashland, Yreka and Gledendale. Thanks to Lefty Mike Koll, Crescent City won the first-half championship, with Medford and Grants Pass tied for second. In the second-half, those same three clubs battled it out down the stretch, and the Craters won out by licking Grants Pass in the playoff game to break the final tie. Then, in a scheduled three-game series with Crescent City for the loop pennant, Medford made it short and sweet by belting over the Merchants twice in a row, and to behold, a baseball championship was once more brought to this town.

Baseball Fades To Make Way for Football Season.

ELL INJURED AND BEAVERS CHANGE OF UPSET FADES

EUROPE, Ore., Sept. 28.—(AP)—University of Oregon football lineup shifting in preparation for the U. C. L. A. tilt here Saturday, halted momentarily today with Bill Hawke, erstwhile end, permanently spotted at quarterback.

Coach Tom Oliver announced Hawke would replace Hank Nilson, injured in the Webfoot victory over Washington State last Saturday, after watching Hawke work during a three-hour after-light practice session last night.

Oliver said Nilson would be ready for action Saturday, also. Bill Bach, a regular fullback, watched practice from the sidelines, and Oliver said a knee injury might keep him out Saturday.

CORVALLIS, Ore., Sept. 28.—(AP)—Down with Big Ben Ell's drooping shoulder, dislocated in practice yesterday, went Oregon State college's hope of scoring an upset victory over the Southern California football team at Los Angeles Saturday.

Trainer D. J. Allman said Ell would be shelved for several weeks, throwing fullbacking responsibilities directly on the once-trifling shoulders of Kenny "Rowdy" Dow, sophomore gridman. Dow saw his first conference action last Saturday in a King's X tussle with Idaho, won by the Vandals, 18 to 0.

PROSPECT, Ore., Sept. 28.—(Sp.)—Prospect schools completed their second week of school with an increased enrollment in the high school, but a small decrease in the elementary grades.

There are three new members on the faculty. Mrs. Francis Pearson is teaching English, modern math, and handling girls physical education and health in the high school. In the elementary grades, Mrs. Lois Joy Tilton is teaching the fifth and sixth grades, and Miss Georgiana Husung is teaching the first and second grades.

Donald Vaughn was elected president of the high school student body Friday; Teddy Jantzer was elected vice-president; Onnis Griete, secretary; Dorothy Sutcliffe, treasurer and Rral Zimmerman, sergeant-at-arms.

CRATERS BEATEN BY BEAVERS, 5-3, IN LIVELY TILT

The Pacific Coast league Portland Beavers dumped over our Medford Craters in a well exhibition battle yesterday afternoon at the high school park, but they had to play some baseball to do it. The count was 5 to 3, and the large number of spectators who saw the encounter came away well satisfied they had been on hand for one of the finest tilts of the season.

George Darrow, the southpaw with the snaky curves and buzzing fast ball, hurled the entire nine frames for the Beavers, and gave up only six safeties while whiffing eight. It took a two-run Beaver rally in the seventh inning to win the ball game for him, though, after the Craters deadlocked the score at three-all with a three-run burst in the fourth.

Lyle Turpin started on the mound for Medford and allowed three runs and eight hits before giving way in the fifth inning to Bill Lanning, the big Grants Pass right-hander who just returned from a great season in the class C West Texas league, where he won 12 and lost 4 to help pitch Tyler to the pennant. Lanning was touched for the winning two runs and five hits in his five innings of mound toil but made things more than interesting for the Ducks as he slammed a hopping high hard one down the alley.

After the locals tied the score in the fourth, the game remained even until the seventh, when Leo Kintana's long single to right chased across Adams, who had walked, and Morrissy, who had singled. That made it 5 to 3, and Darrow turned on the heat to retire the next nine Craters in order, to cap the victory.

Medford's three-run outburst in the fourth occurred when Calvert walked, Hoffard singled to right, and Dick Lewis drove a triple into deep right center. Wally Rickett then singled to center, scoring Lewis with the tying run.

The Ducks didn't hesitate in landing on Turpin, teeing off in the first frame for a pair of runs on a single by Jeffries, George Dickey's towering triple against the rightfield fence, and a single by Buster Adams.

Bill Cronin, fiery Beaver catcher, opened the second with a base on balls, pliffed the keynote sack, and romped across when Steve Coscarat blasted a single to center. That made the count 3 to 0, and there it stayed until the Craters tied it in the fourth.

It was a great ball game, played in the fast time of 1:47, and was the closest Portland has come to getting licked on its present barnstorming tour. The Ducks played errorless ball, turning in several nice defensive maneuvers, but none of them figured in the Beaver scoring.

With the exception of the fourth inning, the Craters couldn't do much with Darrow's fast-breaking hook, which had the local left-handed hitters practically handcuffed. Hampel beat out an infield scratcher in the second, Sakraida singled to center in the fifth, and White singled to left in the sixth, and that was the extent of Crater potency the remainder of the game.

Leo Kintana led the Ducks with four blows, two of them doubles. The game ended the 1938 baseball season here.

RAMPAGING CUBS CLIP BUGS' LEAD BEHIND DIZ DEAN

CHICAGO, Sept. 28.—(AP)—Those rampaging Chicago Cubs, noted in baseball history as great stretch runners, went after the Pittsburgh Pirates and the National League leadership.

In one of the most furious pennant drives in recent years, the Cubs battled the Bucs in the second of a three-game series at Wrigley field—with victory meaning an edge which would climax a dramatic uphill battle from a position nine games back little more than a month ago.

One-half a game separated the teams as they squared away, the Cubs' thrill-packed 2 to 1 victory yesterday having clipped a full game off the lead held by the Bucs since early July.

It was on the young shoulders of Clay Bryant, already winner of 19 games, the Cubs placed their hopes of another victory and bright chances to duplicate the great pennant winning rush of 1935.

The league leaders, still confident they hold the whip hand, will depend on Bob Klingler, victorious in 12 games while losing five.

"We're still ahead," said the Pirates' manager, Harold (Pie) Traynor, "and the Cubs still have to catch us. We've been out in front since July and it takes a real club to hold the lead that long."

The Cubs, to a man, were certain they would make it two in a row—and pointed to Dean's brilliant performance as an inspirational asset.

The "great one" with a sore arm and little "stuff" on the ball, held the slugging Pirates to seven hits, winning what he declared was "the greatest game of my life."

Dean's triumph, his seventh of the year and the Cubs' eighth in a row, cost the Bruins the services of Augie Galan, speedy outfielder, probably the slugging Pirates' top seven hits, winning what he declared was "the greatest game of my life."
