They flew with the greatest of wheeze

WHEN THE Golden Gate International Exposition is held in San Francisco Bay next year, aviation will furnish an outstanding part of a spectacular, unique and pulse-stirring show.

Nearby will land clipper ships—with the romance of China and Hawaii still upon them. It is expected the Army and Navy will contribute something very special.

But for old-timers, nothing will outmatch the thrill of Lincoln Beechey looping through a building or seeing Art Smith zoom up to "sit on his tail" at San Francisco's Panama-Pacific International Exposition in 1915.

How those fellows could do it in asthmatic crates—made, surely, of umbrella ribs, rags and nerve—is still a spine-tingling mystery. Their engines weren't much and the rest of their planes was less. Their gasoline was the most trustworthy thing in all their risky business. But it was ordinary gasoline—no other kind existed.

Beechey—called the greatest daredevil who ever flew—was a pioneer flying customer of this company. Since his day both flyers and gasolines have changed. Both have become specialists. Both have developed speed with safety. Both have taken on new qualities of dependability.

WEATHERFORD, LONGS HEARD AT REVIVAL

Speaking last night from the topic "What makes a man live like the devil and die like a fool," at the Church of the Nazarene, Holly as First Evangelist Fred M. Weatherford drew his text from Acts 18, 8-10. "O full of all subtilties and all mischief, thou child of the devil, thou enemy of all righteousness, wilt thou not cease to prevent the right way of the Lord." His message in brief follows.

"We have heard considerable in recent years about behavioristic psychology—a scientific study of why people act as they do. The best textbook on this line is the Bible.

"The reason for people acting like the devil is because they are devil-possessed. Jesus said, in addressing a group of Godless people, John 8-44, 'Ye are of your father the devil and the lusts of your father ye will do.'

"Some of the devil's workshops include the dance, the dram shop, the theatre and the movies. If you want your boy to come home a pirate, a thief, a home-breaker or a murderer, send him to the movies for his education. If you want to take the risk that your daughter will ultimately come home degraded, let her go to the dance. I shall use my influence to defend the juniors from this evil.

"Jesus said, 'Whosoever shall offend one of these little ones that believe in me, it is better for him that a millstone were hanged about his neck and he were cast into the sea.'

"The devil is the father of every sin. Sin in the life of man is condemned by Christ. Man may be free from sin. Therefore to condemn sin means provision for its removal. Christ made that provision on the Cross."

"The Long Quartette captivates their hearers with their splendid singing nightly. Thursday night in connection with the musical program will be the baptism of a number of candidates.
