The 1938 edition of Medford high school's Black Tornado football machine will be unveiled at the stadium tonight, with the Roseburg Indians of Coach Jimmy Watta furnishing the opposition. The battle, opening high school game of the year here, will start promptly at 8:10, following a parade on the turf of all city pigskin teams which will begin at 7:30.

Last year, Coach Bill Bowerman's aggregation socked the Indians, 33 to 7, but a much closer tilt is expected this evening. Tiger officials expect a crowd of 3,000 or more to be on hand for the home debut of Medford's big but inexperienced eleven.

The Tigers will face off against the pass-throwing, razzle-dazzle Indians minus their first two fullbacks, big Louie Thurman and John Saulsberry. Thurman received a back injury in the Hood River 6 to 6 tie last week, and Bowerman is taking no chances of the soph getting further hurt. Saulsberry was kicked in the leg in practice this week, and is not in starting condition.

As a result of those injuries, starting in the important fullback position will be Bob Newland, 185-pound junior who saw some action last season and who is one of the best forward passers on the squad. Second in line is Rodney Sneed, the half-pint broken field flash. Thurman and Saulsberry are probably definitely out of the game, the coach stated.

Other changes in the Tiger lineup, from that which opened the Hood River game, will see Dale Hoffman, 160-pound junior, starting at left guard instead of Frank Jones, who has a bad cold. Dale Howard, 170-pound junior, opening in Wally Kri's post at right guard; and Don Monteth, two-year veteran, holding down the right end spot in place of Gene Miller, who also is suffering from a bad cold. Eri, all-conference guard last season, is hobbling around on a slightly sprained ankle.

The game may develop into an aerial contest. Roseburg, sparked by Left Halfback George Sanders, figures to shoot the works with reverses, spinners and forward and lateral passes. Medford will sling straight-ahead power at the invaders, with a sharp mixture of over-head shots and some razzle-dazzle.

COL. RUPPERT ILL; GETS BIG THRILL FROM YOUNGSTERS

NEW YORK, Oct. 7.—(AP)—The man who built and owns the "Yankee menace," Col. Jacob Ruppert, gets his biggest world series kick from the work of those youngsters, Herb Rich and Gordon, of the New York American leaguers close in on their third straight world championship. Confined to his bed by illness, Ruppert is following the series and the little world series by radio. He says he is "interested in the little one too." The colonel owns both the principals, the Kansas City Blues and the Newark Bears.

ROSSER STILL IN DALLAS HOSPITAL

DALLAS, Ore., Oct. 7.—(AP)—Albert Earl Rosser, who was sentenced to 12 years in the penitentiary after conviction of arson in connection with the West Salem box factory fire, is still a patient in the Dallas hospital under guard. Expense of hospital and guards are guaranteed by C. W. Robbins, one of his attorneys. Rosser has been granted by the court until November 15 to settle a bill of exceptions and an additional 10 days to file a bill of exceptions preparatory for an appeal.

An Indian legend holds that fire was discovered when buffaloes' hoofs struck sparks from rock and set some dry brush afire.

Billy Hulén says:

I. Pickem Picks Medford to Win; Loyola in Upset

Still able to stagger around despite a pretty tough season with these screwball grid teams last week-end, Mr. I. Pickem moves up to the football post today with his weekly dozen of amazing prognostications. His pocketbook is still fairly well lined with the long green stuff, but he expects any moment to be knocked for a round of goal posts as underdogs start misbehaving. This may be the week-end. Anyway, here goes:

Medford-Roseburg. It's two green teams opposing each other and we'll take vanilla. The Tornado showed lots of middle-of-the-field power against Hood River, but no scoring sock. The boys have been drilling faithfully, however, so let's call the turn about 20 to 0, favor of the locals.

Grants Pass-Klamath Falls. You can't do anything here but pick the Pelicans, but Mr. Pickem has a hunch it will be close, 13 to 0.

SOSS-Oregon Frosh. Under the lamps in Grants Pass tonight, Jean Eberhart's Southern Oregon Normal club will fall to whip the baby Wedfoots. It looks like a 13 to 6 victory for the Frosh.

Stanford-Washington State. The Cardinals should be better organized than they were against Santa Clara last week, enough so to hand the Cougars their third straight conference wallowing. Stanford 21, WSC 0.

Southern California-Oregon State. Another rap on the noggin for Head Man Howard Jones and his Trojans. The Big Ten Bugeyes should do it to the tune of at least two touchdowns to none for USC.

Washington-UCLA. Washington's Huskies, if they are ever going to live up to their pre-season press clippings, better get started. Pickem thinks they will against the Bruins. Washington 7, UCLA 0.

Oregon State-Portland. A tough one for the Beavers, one that may prove too tough. If Portland's aerial circus clicks there will be some sad Saters Saturday night. Gotta pick Siner's gang, though, 20 to 13.

St. Mary's-Loyola. And here, we hope, is the weekly and gigantic upset. They play in Los Angeles Sunday, and Loyola will take to the air to whip Madigan's outfit, 21 to 19.

Santa Clara-Texas A. and M. Anybody who would call the turn against Santa Clara should be examined for insanity, but this one will test Buck Shaw's Broncos to the limit. A whale of a game, with Santa Clara winning, 27 to 14.

Dartmouth-Princeton. The Big Three team can't stop the Green Wave this year. In fact, it probably won't be stopped by anybody. Dartmouth will cop in easy fashion, 20 or more to zero.

Notre Dame-Georgia Tech. Notre Dame won't get upset here, big they didn't last week. The Fighting Wreck will be wacked, all right, by about four Irish touchdowns. Tech won't score.

Harvard-Cornell. Ah, a clinch at last. Here is one even Frank Perl could pick. Cornell's big red machine will trample on the Crimson, 35 to 0.

COURAGEOUS DEAN WALKS 'LAST MILE' TO LOSE — YET WIN

Once Great Pitcher Near Fame, Holds Diamond Murderers — Then Came DiMaggio.

By HENRY McLEMORE
(United Press Staff Correspondent)
CHICAGO, Oct. 7.—(UP)—Dizzy Dean shuffled down baseball's "last mile" yesterday.

From the sunshine that bathed the pitching mound at Wrigley field last night, the shadows of the dugout, and on through the green door that leads to the showers. It isn't a very big door; it isn't cut very high. Because the shoulders of the men who pass through it always are weighed and sagging with disappointment.

Let it be said that Dizzy Dean walked it gloriously. Inside his heart he must have known that each step he took led him away, perhaps to be on hand for the home debut of his son as well.

He didn't walk the "last mile" alone. In spirit, the spectators of the second game of the world series between the Cubs and Yankees walked it with him. For every step he took the customers, appreciative of his courage, thundered a salute.

Because the men, women and children had watched one of the greatest exhibitions of heart and head and competitive spirit in the history of baseball.

Thrown against the Yankees, the murderers of baseball, Dean held them for seven innings. Patiently, carefully, shrewdly and courageously, inch by inch, he snuffed the fuse of the Yankee bomb.

The Lord knows what with! He didn't have anything but a change of pace. First he would throw a slow ball. Then he would throw a slower ball. Then he would throw one so lazy, so soft, so absolutely devoid of "stuff" that a handwriting expert sitting in the stands could have read Ford Frick's character from his signature on the ball.

For seven innings he lobbed it up there. Across this corner. Then across that one. One time high, the next time low. Sometimes inside, sometimes outside. They couldn't hit the "nothing" ball.

Then in the eighth, with his greatest triumph just around the corner, the remnant of the great right arm that used to swing from his shoulder, gave out. With Crosetti's pitch in the eighth, Dix found himself without even a "nothing" ball. He scarcely could throw the ball to the plate. Crosetti stepped into one and knocked it into the stands, scoring Hoag ahead of him.

No quitter, Dix came back for the ninth. This time it was DiMaggio who set his sights on a soft floater, chest high, and pounded it into the land from whence there is no returning. That finished Dix.

COAST FOOTBALL INTEREST RIDES WITH UCLA, CARDS

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 7.—(AP)—While there will be plenty of choice morsels on Saturday's football menu, only two Pacific Coast conference games will be played.

At Los Angeles the University of Washington, which last week was held to a 12 to 12 tie by University of Idaho, opens its conference campaign against U. C. L. A. The Uclans, beaten by Oregon in their first league game, hope to avenge a 26 to 0 setback given them by the Huskies at Seattle last year. Washington, hailed as championship caliber at the start of the season, has been plagued by injuries since dropping its opener against Minnesota two weeks ago.

In the other conference clash, Stanford, although badly laced by Santa Clara's Broncos last Saturday, was favored 2 to 1 to defeat a weak Washington State team at Palo Alto. The Cougars have lost two conference games, the first to Oregon and the second to California. It will be the first conference contest for Stanford. California, title defender, has a breathing spell. It plays a double-header with the Cal. Aggies and the College of Pacific.

Use for Old Cars.
INDEPENDENCE, Ore., Oct. 7.—(AP) C. R. Messinger has found a suitable use for old automobiles and wrecks. He is collecting them as many as possible and depositing them against the bank of the Willamette river to prevent erosion of his land.

Find Ancient Well.
SILVERTON, Ore., Oct. 7.—(AP)—Street workers correcting curb alignment on business streets here have uncovered two old wells, to which the trouble is attributed. They date back to the days when, with capacious troughs, they were watering places for the horses of farmers who traded in Silverton.

MURDOCK TANGLES WITH BELCASTRO ON LADIES' NIGHT

Good-looking, clean-wrestling Paul Murdock, one of the most popular boys Maestro Mack Lillard has sent into the army arena, at last gets his shot at a main event aquabell Monday night.

As a reward for the super-fine exhibitions he has staged during the past month, Murdock will climb thru the ropes to clash with Pete Belcastro, Weed's Mad Italian. In the one-hour top bout on the all-star ladies' night program.

With free admittance being offered to every lady accompanied by a companion, either male or female, who purchases a ticket, one of the season's largest gatherings is expected to view proceedings. The appearance of Murdock, handsome as a movie hero but a man's man, will not decrease the feminine attendance any.

The bout will provide a spectacular duel between wrestlers each relying on devastating payoff maneuvers of which they, alone, are masters. Murdock brought the Alabama thunderbolt to southern Oregon, and with it he has remained undefeated in Medford. Belcastro has developed a variation to the highly effective surfboard hold, and it has kept him undefeated in his current stay hereabouts.

A big, clean-wrestling Russian—Leo Karimko—will make his north-west debut in the center attraction, colliding with Buddy Knox, the scientific Mississippian. The bout is scheduled for six 10-minute rounds or the best two out of three falls.

Monte LaDue, the Frenchman with no hair and a little mustache, returns after a long absence to go into his villainous song and dance with Charley Carr, a popular and capable gentleman. This, also, will be a six rounder.

Fish Hitting.
PORTLAND, Oct. 7.—(AP)—The state game commission's weekly fishing bulletin held encouraging news for anglers today. Trout, steelhead and salmon, with few exceptions, were biting and sizeable catches have been made.

Salvatore Draws.
MODESTO, Calif., Oct. 7.—(AP)—George Salvatore of New York and John Sessano, San Francisco, battled ten rounds to a draw in a boxing bout that ended after midnight today. The New Yorker weighed 145; Sessano 141.

Grant Wins.
PORTLAND, Oct. 7.—(AP)—The Grant high school Generals rolled over Commerce high school, 41 to 0, in a Portland interscholastic league football game yesterday.

SONS WILL PLAY AT PASS TONIGHT

GRANTS PASS, Oct. 7.—(AP)—Home town boys, now opposite sides of the fence, will battle here tonight when the University of Oregon frosh play Southern Oregon Normal. Grants Pass has native sons on each team. The SONS lost to Humboldt State Teachers last week, 18-7. It will be the first game of the season for the frosh, who have a starting lineup up weighing 195 pounds to the man on the line and 200 in the backfield.
