

DEFENDANT WEEPS AT RE-ENACTMENT OF MURDER SCENE

MONTESANO, Oct. 8.—(AP)—Paul Buttry broke down and wept today as court adjourned at the completion of the sixth day of the 38-year-old Hoquiam plywood worker's trial for the murder of Hugh Warren, Hoquiam service station operator.

The tears came after Prosecutor Paul O. Manley had placed before Buttry, who was on the stand, an almost life-sized photograph of the bullet-pocked face of Warren, Buttry's friend since childhood, and asked him to identify powder burns and the seven bullet holes in the head.

Buttry glanced at the morgue picture, closed his eyes and shuddered. A moment later he was excused from the stand which he had occupied nine hours. As he stepped down he wiped his eyes with a handkerchief and, as he sat at the defense table, began to weep openly. Court was adjourned until Monday.

Earlier, with Manley taking the part of the slain man, the shooting scene outside a Hoquiam tavern June 8 was re-enacted in front of the jury box. With Buttry coaching, Manley held his right hand in his trousers pocket and, pointing it as if it held a gun, stepped forward and whirled at Buttry.

The defendant reached inside his shirt for his pistol, fumbled it and was about 30 seconds bringing out the weapon.

"I guess you were faster that night in getting your gun," Manley said.

Buttry replied he guessed he was. Mrs. Catherine Warren, divorced wife of the slain man and engaged to marry Buttry, had been ushered out of the courtroom by Defense Attorney A. E. Cross and was not present during the re-enactment scene or Buttry's breakdown. It is never her that the two men are alleged to have quarreled.

The case is expected to go to the jury of eight men and four women probably late Monday afternoon.

BALLOON BARRAGE SPREADS DAMAGE IN FLIGHT TESTS

LONDON, Oct. 8.—(AP)—Britain sent her famed balloon barrage aloft today—dozens of sausage-like bags tied to 7,000 feet of steel cable intended to entrap enemy aircraft—and tonight tried to count up the damage.

Five balloons broke away from their moorings and trailed lines which lashed roofs, tore down wires and fences and generally gave bobbies their busiest afternoon since the European crisis ended.

Despite the runaways, a source close to the air ministry said the barrage demonstration "is regarded as a great success from the point of view of the auxiliary air service."

This service was called up during the European crisis and was ordered demobilized at midnight tonight. One of its duties is the handling of the balloon barrage.

One of the bags at Beverde, Kent, tore away from its mobile mooring and, trailing several hundred feet of cable, uprooted a garden fence; smashed windows; damaged roofs; brought down telephone wires, and became entangled in a railway line, holding up train service for 20 minutes.

Another wrapped a cable around a factory water tower and caught itself.

Extra police, including mounted officers, tried to keep the curious crowds from harm as the balloons with their trailing lines swung a destructive way around the countryside.

The bags are about 55 feet long and have a circumference of 30 feet. Winches on trucks unwind their mooring cables to let them rise.

The idea is that they can be let into the air to form a "fence," high in the sky, in which enemy aircraft would become entangled if they penetrated Britain's defending line of aircraft.

EUGENE, Oct. 8.—(AP)—The state legislative league of the railway brotherhoods placed their stamp of approval on the gubernatorial candidacy of Henry L. Hess, Democrat, it was announced here tonight by Edgar E. Thom, secretary of the railway clerks' union.

The league based its endorsement on "past legislative records," and upon the policy of the league to "leave at home" any candidate believed to be "reactionary," it was said.

Following are other endorsements of candidates of the league: U. S. senator, Willis Mahony; congress, first district, James W. Moss; second district, Walter M. Pierce; third district, Stan Wood Honeyman; secretary of state, Earl Snell; superintendent of public instruction, Rex Putnam; labor commissioner, Clarence P. Hyde; supreme court judge, Henry J. Bean.

AUTO HITS HOUSE, DRIVER ESCAPES

HILLSBORO, Ore., Oct. 8.—(AP)—Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Farmer, Ellensburg, Wash., stepped out of their crooked automobile about 6 a. m. today with only scratches to show for an accident in which their car struck the Anderson garage at Gaston with such force that the building was moved several inches. Sheriff J. W. Connell said a heavy fog obstructed Farmer's vision.

GENERAL WARNING ISSUED TO WATCH FOR MANIAC PAIR

UKIAH, Calif., Oct. 8.—(UP)—A general warning was issued tonight to Mendocino and Lake county residents to watch for two escaped criminals insane inmates of the Mendocino state hospital, one of whom is a murderer with a delusion he is a "supreme being."

A posse of 100 men searched the hills near Ukiah, where the two men, Alvin Oaten, San Francisco slayer, and Leo Redoni, Santa Clara burglar and four-time loser, were believed hiding.

Sheriff E. L. Williams, leading the manhunt, sent a state-wide teletype warning to police and instructed all CCC camps, highway patrolmen, truck drivers and train crews to watch for the fugitives.

Oaten and Redoni escaped from the supposedly "escape-proof" ward 12, reserved for the most dangerous inmates, by fashioning keys from memory and unlocking five doors.

In making their getaway, the pair passed unnoticed through a wren door, forced open a washroom window, climbed over an 18-foot wall topped by an iron-spiked slanting section, then fled without being detected by any of the 20 attendants who guarded their ward.

The escape was made in daylight, while most of the other inmates were watching the weekly motion picture in the main hospital hall.

The fugitives got over the outside wall by using a long bench stolen from the dining hall.

None of the searchers reported any clue to the whereabouts of the fugitives. Lake and Marin county authorities were instructed to watch for them.

Oaten, who murdered a cook at Benicia, and Redoni, who was serving human flesh at meals, was reported by hospital authorities to be suffering an "active psychosis."

Oaten was believed by federal authorities to have plotted to murder all the officers of the arsenal. He was understood to believe he was a "representative of Jesus Christ."

Redoni, with a record of burglary, kidnaping and violence, was committed to the hospital after he served a portion of his sentence in Folsom prison.

FEDERAL FACTORY WORKERS STRIKE

GREENSBURG, Pa., Oct. 8.—(AP)—A recently completed $200,000 pants factory, built by the federal government in nearby Mt. Pleasant township to give employment to homesteaders at Norvelt, was closed today by a strike of eight women and ten men workers.

Mrs. Sarah Karp, president of the Norvelt local of the United Clothing Workers of America (UCIOWA), said the strikers demanded recognition of the union as exclusive bargaining agent for the factory, reinstatement of a dismissed watchman and a closed shop with checkoff of union dues.

She said wages were not an issue. An arrangement with the government provides that the first 20 percent of the factory's annual profits goes to employees as a profit-sharing bonus. The workers struck yesterday.

October 8 proved to be the day eagerly awaited yet dreaded by the freshman class when they must needs be initiated by the sophomores. During the day the unfortunate members of the aforementioned class were required to wear their clothes wrong side out and on backwards, and to carry a doll with them everywhere they went, to remind them that they were mere babes in learning compared to the upper classmen. Likewise, their hair was tied in bunches, "pickaninny fashion," with green crepe paper ribbons till one mother said "all they needed was a ring in their nose," and lipstick was applied without regard for the places originally intended for it, and their socks must be of different colors and mismatched. During the day they were required to enter and leave the building by the back doors and basement, and when they met the superior sophomores, they must needs exclaim, "How do you do? I am (so and so—giving name). I'm a little greenhorn," to which the haughty sophomores would likely reply, "You didn't need to tell us. We already knew it." At the party in the evening, each freshman had to recite a nursery rhyme and act it out, as well as do other stunts. A generous dose of limburger cheese was applied to each person of the unfortunate group. Refreshments consisted of punch and cake, with a specially concocted cake for the freshmen, the recipe for which never came out of a reputable cookbook. And the freshmen vow, "Just wait till next year. Won't revenge be sweet!"

The first fall meeting of the Health Workers will be held at the home of Mrs. H. K. Hanns next Tuesday, October 11, beginning with a 1 o'clock dessert luncheon. All interested women are invited to attend.
