

TWENTIETH CENTURY 'CAVEMAN.' These two British "Tommies" are searching for Arab marauders, who reportedly conceal themselves in caves on the outskirts of Jerusalem, and carry on guerrilla tactics from these underground hiding places. With the grave war crisis in Europe, the Holy Land dispute has become of somewhat less significance.

FARLEYS BIRTHDAY GREETINGS TARDY

SALEM, Oct. 10.—(AP)—Postmaster General James A. Farley, chairman of the Democratic national committee, sent Governor Martin belated birthday congratulations today. The governor was 75 years old October 1. Farley, explaining he heard of the governor's birthday through a newspaper clipping sent by former Governor Oswald West of Portland, wrote that he hoped the governor would "continue to enjoy good health for many years to come and be permitted to enjoy the confidence you have of so many of your friends who know you intimately and well."

"You have always been kind and considerate to me, governor, and I shall always be grateful."

Thieves Start Gold Rush
VISALIA, Cal. (UP)—The gold rush in California has now become so keen and competitive that "prospectors" have even pushed their search into dentists' offices. The offices of three dentists here were robbed in a single night by thieves who took only what gold they could find.

Sailor Hanged Self
HONOLULU, Oct. 10.—(AP)—Seaman Frederick George Stanton, 19, was found hanged, his body dangling from a rope over the side of the U. S. navy ship Beaver, naval officers reported tonight. Members of the navy's board of inquiry said Stanton had an excellent service record.

WHATEVER THE CRISIS or the threat of war that could involve the British empire, the paragon is ever-present among England's statesmen, and War Minister Leslie Hore-Belisha is no exception. Pleasant-faced despite the great emergency arising from the Czech-German question, the minister arrives at 10 Downing St. for a cabinet meeting.

Score another touchdown for safety

LAST FALL, at the height of the arguing season among football fans, when the weekly scramble for 40-yard-line seats was like opening day at a bargain sale, an unusual letter reached every president of a university or college, every high school principal, on the Pacific Coast. It mentioned football—but its theme was safety.

Why address prexies and principals? Because, Mister, they're bosses of stadium announcer systems. If you can get over an idea to 80,000 persons in one place at one time, you're reaching people!

Came Saturday—came the game-going crowds up and down the West. And during a lull, just before thousands of motorists would begin trying to get home pronto, a brief message rolled across the stands. You probably heard it—"Let's avoid accidents... drive carefully... give the other fellow a break... take no chances."

You'll hear it again, and oftener, this season. For it works! After that first Saturday the president of one of the largest universities reported: No serious accidents for the first time in years. Other reports were similar. Of course this Company is gratified. It had already proved that accidents can be prevented by asking crowds to be careful. Standard's letter to the colleges and schools had only one motive—to promote greater safety on the highways. It's a worthy cause.

ARGUMENTS GIVEN BRITISH PREMIER IN CZECH CRISIS

cordially and sincerely received by the Soviet people. The Soviet people cordially opened to Lindbergh the doors of schools and theaters and the gates of airports.

"Uninvited Guest."
"And then, not long ago, Lindbergh again visited the Soviet Union. It should be noted nobody invited him, and if he was permitted to come, it was because Americans had requested it."

"Availing himself of this permission, Lindbergh attended aviation day (demonstration August 18 during the American aviator's visit to Moscow) and now that he has returned to London he has used his sojourn in the Soviet Union as the basis of columns and instant attacks on the Soviet Union—which was the dish served up to guests of Lady Astor."

The statement, replying to alleged assertions in London by the American aviator to the effect the Soviet air fleet was weak and disorganized, said Lindbergh told guests of Lady Astor "Germany possesses such a strong air force it is capable of defeating the combined air fleets of England, France, the U. S. S. R. and Czechoslovakia."

"On what basis does he draw such a conclusion? Only Allah knows. Having uttered such a colossal lie, Lindbergh was inwardly amazed at himself and decided to try another."

"His second declaration exceeded his first. He said that during his stay in Moscow he was offered the job of chief of Soviet civil aviation. Lindbergh probably has not read Gogol and doesn't know the name of Gjestakoff. (Gjestakoff was a character in Gogol's play, "Revizor." He was always boasting and lying.) Ability Flayed
"Lindbergh in the role of 'chief of aviation'! Among us pilots such a wild lie could only cause laughter! Such so-called pilots, and even former pilots, will not be permitted to come within cannon shot of our leadership.

"Another unbridled lie followed. Lindbergh declared the Soviet air fleet is without leadership and is in a chaotic condition.
"Soviet aviation holds a majority of world records. The Soviet Union has hundreds and thousands of perfect pilots, who not only know how to fly, but at any time could be perfect organizers and leaders."

Besides Molokoff, the ten included Valeri Chkaloff, one of the Soviet polar fliers to California in 1937, and Vladimir Koktnaki, who flew 4300 miles from Moscow to Vladivostok last summer. All were Lindbergh's guides and companions during his Moscow visit.
The American embassy said that during his visit to Moscow in August, Lindbergh received only such assistance as normally would have been given to traveling Americans.
