Introducing a Good Neighbor — On Wheels

THERE'S a powerful lot of back-country tucked away among the mountains, deserts and seaside wastes of the Pacific Coast. In all that territory we are a one-man Company. In every part of it there's a colorful fellow the home-folks call by his first name instead of his title of area-salesman. To them he is the Company.

All day long this chap—in whose job some of this Company's top-flight executives got their start—is on the go from one out-of-way place to another more remote. All day long he's busier than a one-man band swinging it for the jitterbugs.

At a single isolated garage he may fill the tank, install a display, collect a bill, paint the pump. That makes him the distribution department, the promotion department, the collection department, and the maintenance department—all within a few minutes. Besides that he has to be a diplomat and a man who knows everybody—like any ambassador.

City dwellers never meet him. But he's a good neighbor to them, just the same—a good neighbor on wheels. He's the reason you can go anywhere, any time, confident that wherever, whenever you need them, every motor necessity will be on hand—come flood, come fire, come anything.

UNIVERSAL ADHERENCE TO NEW PAY, HOUR LAW IS URGED BY DIRECTOR

WASHINGTON, Oct. 19.—(AP)—Elmer F. Andrews, wage-hour administrator, appealed today for universal acceptance of principles of the new wage-hour law. The new law, which becomes effective next Monday, applies to industries in interstate commerce but Andrews told newsmen today he thought it would not "be a catastrophe" if an interstate business conformed to the act. Asked what an industry should do if it was uncertain whether it came under the act, Andrews said: "I'd say for them to let their conscience be their guide. It would be very wise to conform to the law because if they made a mistake it would be too bad."

PASTEUR TREATMENT BALKED BY PARENTS

MENLO PARK, Calif., Oct. 19.—(AP)—Mere scratches on legs and arms were insufficient reasons for subjecting their children to the pasteur treatment for rabies, the parents of two youngsters said here today in explaining their refusal of the treatment. Sams Valley Grange

Mr. and Mrs. Al Floyd of Griffen Creek Grange were visitors at Saturday night's meeting. Mrs. Floyd is lecturer of Jackson County Pomona Grange and Mr. Floyd captain of Pomona degree team. Light attendance was due to many members having been up preceding nights keeping watch on the smoldering hay at the Duggan place. Grangers were prompt in rallying to the help of their distressed members when their barn was destroyed by fire, and by their efforts were able to save much of the hay. During the session Saturday night the members decided to aid the Duggans as much as possible in getting a roof over what hay was saved before winter rains set in. H. E. C. advised a neat sum was taken in from the dance and hot tamale supper. Ways and means committee announced a dance for Saturday night.

The lecturer advised she would give her program hour to the legislative chairman for November 8, when he would pass out sample ballots and explain the measures to be voted on at the general election. Next Grange meeting will also be the night for election of Grange officers, when a good attendance is desired. A safety program was put on by the lecturer. The charter was draped for Mrs. E. A. Wilhite, who passed away at Central Point Friday. The meeting October 1, put on by the agriculture chairman, Elmer Lucas, consisted of several interesting numbers, among which was the talk by John Anderson of Central Point on his recent trip to Sweden. This talk was fully enjoyed by the Grangers, who had looked forward to that pleasure for some time.
