LIVING IN CRIME! THE JAMES BROTHERS, THE DALTON BROTHERS AND THE YOUNGER BROTHERS-- THREE OF THE MOST NOTORIOUS GANGS IN THE U.S.-- WERE ALL COUSINS!

Cousins in Crime. Although moderns claim that Jesse James was far from being the criminal desperado that legend describes him, no more colorful American outlaw ever lived. A Clay County, Missouri, boy, Jesse and his family suffered greatly at the hands of neighbors for sympathizing with the South in the Civil War. Jesse joined the guerrilla band led by Quantrell and quickly established a reputation for courage and daring. At the end of the war he surrendered and returned home.

The following year, however, enemies of the James family managed to have him declared an outlaw and for 16 years he was hunted. Always chivalrous, James never committed a crime except to maintain his status as a freeman. With a price of $10,000 on his head offered by the Governor of Missouri James was shot to death in 1882 by one of the Ford Brothers, members of James' own gang, James' brother, Frank, the same year surrendered, and after a year was released. Strange as it seems, two other notorious brother-gangs were composed of cousins of the James boys: Grattan, Emmet and Robert Dalton, and Cole, James, Robert and John Younger. Robert and Grattan Dalton were both killed in a bank holdup in 1882, while Emmet, captured, served a prison term and later became a respected citizen. John Younger was killed during a bank hold-up in 1874. His three brothers were all captured and served terms. Tomorrow: How many different gestures does the Indian sign language contain?
