MAGAZINE STORY TELLS FOUNDING OF GIRL SCOUTS

Girl Scouts of Medford and their friends feel pretty important this week because in response to their requests, and the requests of other girls throughout America, "The American Girl Magazine" for October contains the first installment of the colorful and dramatic life story of Juliette Low, founder of Girl Scouting in the United States, as told by her niece, Daisy Gordon Lawrence. The story is of interest at this time because it comes along with national Girl Scout Week, October 30 to November 5.

Mrs. Low enrolled her niece as the first Girl Scout, March, 1912, in Savannah, Georgia. Mrs. Lawrence has maintained her interest in Girl Scouting through the years. She is Commissioner of the local council at Huntington, West Virginia. Her intimate, personal knowledge of Girl Scouting and its founder well qualifies her to write the story of Juliette Low.

In "Juliette Low As I Knew Her," Mrs. Lawrence tells of early adventures that foreshadowed the constructive fun of Girl Scouting today. Girl Scouts of 1912 played their games behind "huge canvas curtains, strung on wires . . . so as to shield our bloomered legs from the gaze of passersby on the street." Today all the citizens of Medford may see what the Girl Scouts are doing to serve others and have good times as they celebrate Girl Scout Week.

Girl Scouts who today practice pioneer virtues and display sturdy pioneer courage are only following the example set by the founder of their organization, according to Mrs. Lawrence. Juliette Low often felt it necessary to consult Lord Baden-Powell, originator of the idea of Scouting for boys and girls.

Juliette Low knew how to make life happy and interesting for girls. When her niece visited her in England, they spent a week-end with her friends, the Rudyard Kiplings. Kipling entertained the little girl with marvelous stories and showed her his garden.

Juliette Low knew many of the great men of England and America, she was a talented sculptor, loved games, songs and stories, but most of all, says her niece, she loved girls. She was deaf, and in her later years handicapped by illness, but she worked unceasingly to bring Scouting to the girls of America.

Girl Scouts Plan Service Days

More than half a million Girl Scouts from seven to eighteen will observe their annual seven service days from October 30 to November 5 by giving demonstrations of the many activities included in their up-to-date program. This week, celebrating the birthday of Juliette Low, founder of the movement in this country, has been designated Girl Scout Week. The Brownie Scout above, who is one of the seven to ten year old group, is showing how neatly she keeps mother's linen closet. Brownies learn many simple household chores in their program of homemaking activities. Senior Girl Scouts, whose ages range from fourteen to eighteen, are interested in the art of being gracious hostesses. The young lady who is wearing the new Senior Girl Scout official dress is arranging the center-piece for a boy and girl supper party. Arts and crafts, enjoyed by girls in each of the three age groups in Girl Scouting, fill many happy hours at home and at camp. The Girl Scout at the easel is putting the finishing touches on a painting she started at camp last summer.

EDWARD L. FARRA OF C. P. SUCCUMBS

Edward L. Farra, a resident of the Rogue River valley for the past 65 years, passed away at his home in Central Point early Monday morning at the age of 75 years. He is survived by his wife Clara, of Central Point and one son, Fred D. Farra of San Francisco, Cal.; also several nieces and nephews.

He was a member of the Central Point lodges of Odd Fellows and A.O.U.W.

Wall St. Report

NEW YORK, Oct. 31.—(AP)—Early heavy selling of rails quickly dried up in today's stock market and, with selected industrials developing quiet strength, closing prices were no worse than moderately irregular.

Repercussions from the decision of the president's fact-finding board Saturday against any carrier wage cut resulted in opening declines running to 2 points in the principal railway stocks. Losses in the rail group at the finish, though, generally were inconsequential.

Transfers of about 1,100,000 shares were around the smallest since Oct. 4.

CRATERS FAREWELL ALENDERFER TONIGHT WITH DINNER PARTY

Tonight is the night that O. O. Alenderfer will be on the receiving end of a farewell party.

Frequently during his long residence here has "Olie" served as master of ceremonies at farewell parties for others but now he himself is leaving town and his departure is to be marked by the Crater club in the Hotel Medford basement dining room at 6:30 this evening.

Mr. Alenderfer has helped guide the Crater club since its organization years ago and at present is its big eruption or executive head. He is a former mayor of Medford and former president of the Jackson County Chamber of Commerce. During his years of residence here he has played a major part in civic and fraternal affairs.

It is expected that the farewell party tonight will be one of the largest ever held by the Crater club. It will be a typical Crater affair, which means an evening of fun and hilarity, officers said.

Mr. Alenderfer plans to leave tomorrow for Brookings where he will enter business.

TURKEY BUYERS UP PRICE A CENT

PORTLAND, Oct. 31.—(AP)—The Columbia Produce company confirmed a one-cent a pound advance in the buying price of turkeys today. Hens brought 21 cents a pound and toms 20 for carload shipment.

Recent offerings have been light because of low prices. Dealers said the market's future depended upon eastern values.

RITES FOR BENEDICT TUESDAY AFTERNOON

Funeral services for Fred R. Benedict, life-long resident of Applegate, will be held in the Perl chapel here at 2 p. m. Tuesday, the Rev. Ward Lambkin of Applegate officiating. Burial will take place in the Jacksonville I.O.O.F. cemetery.

Mr. Benedict was found dead Friday afternoon in the hills about half a mile from his home. He was 52 years old.

RADIO PROVOKES NEAR PANIC WITH HORROR PROGRAM

Orson Welles, 23, Broadway theatrical prodigy, who produced the broadcast, said:

"Far from expecting the radio audience to take the program as fact rather than a fictional presentation, we feared that the H. G. Welles story, which has served as inspiration for so many moving pictures, radio serials and even comic strips, might appear too old-fashioned for modern consumption.

Heard in Fragments

"We can only suppose that the special nature of radio, which is often heard in fragments, or in parts disconnected from the whole, has led to this misunderstanding," the actor-dramatist added. Frank P. McNinch, chairman of the federal communications commission, asked the broadcasting company to furnish the commission with an electrical recording of the broadcast, as well as a copy of the script.

"I shall request prompt consideration of this matter by the commission," he said in Washington. "I withhold final judgment until later, but any broadcast that creates such general panic and fear as this one is reported to have done is, to say the least, regrettable."

Switchboards in newspaper offices and police stations everywhere were swamped with calls from terrified people, many of them weeping.

Some reported they could smell the gas and see the flames started by the attackers.

People gathered in groups to pray for salvation.

All over the metropolitan area, panicky persons jumped into their automobiles and headed for the open spaces to escape the hypothetical bombing of New York.

Church services here and elsewhere were broken up by intruders who screamed the world was coming to an end.

There wasn't a Martian in sight and the hysteria subsided almost as quickly as it started. But listeners viewed the broadcast with mixed feelings, principally that they had been outwardly frightened and duped.

How Women in Their 40's Can Attract Men

Here's good advice for a woman during her change (usually from 38 to 52), who fears she'll lose her appeal to men, who worries about hot flashes, loss of pep, dizzy spells, upset nerves and moody spells.

Just get more fresh air, 8 hrs. sleep and if you need a reliable "WOMAN'S" tonic take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, made especially for women. It helps Nature build up physical resistance, thus helps give more vivacity to enjoy life and assist calming jittery nerves and those disturbing symptoms that often accompany change of life.

Pinkham's is WELL WORTH trying.
