 CONSERVATIVES CENTER WRATH ON HOPKINS
 CLOSE FRIEND OF F. R. TO BE ASSAILED AS RELIEF POLICY CHAMPION
 LEADERSHIP OF LEFT WING PROVED ENEMY

WASHINGTON, Nov. 14.—(AP)—The man whom the president chose as his companion on the election journey back to Washington is the conservative who will bear the brunt of the new "relief" program. It is fair to say that no individual in American public life is more detested by the president, or more detested by conservatives, than this man—Harry Lloyd Hopkins.

The fire will take Hopkins from two directions. The works progress administration is the most bitterly criticized agency in the government. Its flagrant political management in some states has weakened its defenders, while its enemies are emboldened by fear of its political power. It has its friends at court—among them anti-New Deal Democratic officials who control the WPA officials in their bailiwicks—but even among the most ardent New Dealers there is talk of re-examination of relief policy. And Hopkins is Works Progress administrator, inventor of the work relief system, and the man who sold the idea to the president.

And then Hopkins was also the president's chief lieutenant in the summer's fruitless luge. He is the closest of White House advisers on general policy, the most aggressive, and the acknowledged leader of the left wing of New Dealer group. As the leader of the New Dealers quite as much as in his capacity as WPA administrator, he will be the chief target of rebellious orthodox Democrats and angry Republicans. Every effort will be made to persuade the president to imitate the Israelites, who used to drive an annual "scapegoat" into the desert after their priests had all cursed the poor animal with all the sins of the people for that year.

Although he will be portrayed as an unengaged monster, there is much that is engaging about Harry Hopkins. He is a high-minded and idealistic man whose good intentions there is no reason to question, whether or not you think them merely more pavement for hell. He is passionately loyal to the president, financially quite disinterested, and well-informed and intelligent. His honest ambition is to improve the lot of the common man. And at the same time, unlike most idealists and reformers, he is a

CONTINUED STRIFE MEANS INJURY TO ALL LABOR, WORD
 Union Convention Told Collective Bargaining Will Be Furthered by United Movement, Cooperation

PITTSBURGH, Nov. 14.—(AP)—President Roosevelt sent a plea for labor peace and unity to the first constitutional convention of the Committee for Industrial Organization today, declaring "continued dissension can only lead to loss of influence and prestige to all labor."

It was the second time within recent weeks the nation's chief executive had dispatched a plea for labor peace to an organized labor convention. He sent a similar message to the house convention of the American Federation of Labor.

Mr. Roosevelt said to the convention, as he did to the A. F. L. meeting:

"If the great gains already made are to be consolidated for the benefit of workers as well as management, it is essential that there be cooperation among the wage earning groups, and because of this, I did also to the American Federation of Labor convention delegates that every possible door to access to peace and progress in the affairs of organized labor in the United States be left open.

"Continued dissension can only lead to loss of influence and prestige to all labor. On the other hand, collective bargaining will be furthered by a united labor movement making for cooperation, and labor peace which will be in the interest of all Americans."

John L. Lewis, militant leader of the CIO greeted by the thunderous cheering and the fanfare of bands, opened the first constitutional convention of CIO today with a stinging attack on foes of industrial unionism and European oppression of the Jews.

For several minutes the 500 delegates and CIO followers massed in the convention hall stood and cheered the CIO chairman. A band roared out with "Happy Days Are Here Again" and the sterner-visaged CIO leader finally grinned and waved his enthusiastic followers to their seats.

In his opening address, broken frequently by tumultuous applause, Lewis said the CIO, in its first step toward the formation of a permanent organization to rival the American Federation of Labor, offered "a program of rational procedure and orderly conduct."

Striking out at criticism and slander, which he said had been leveled against his industrial union movement, Lewis said the CIO stood for "the protection of the privileges of all Americans, whether they be Gentiles or Jews, of any creed or religion, or of any school of thought that maintains respect for our institutions."

Sculptor Springs Surprise With Admission of Murder

SECOND DEGREE PLEA ENTERED BY IRWIN IN GEDEON TRIPLE CRIME

NEW YORK, Nov. 14.—(AP)—Robert Irwin, eccentric young sculptor on trial for the Gedeon triple slaying of Easter, 1937, abruptly pleaded guilty to second degree murder today.

Samuel S. Leibowitz, defense counsel, first gave an indication of the plea when, after the noon recess, the eight jurors who had been selected, were excused from the courtroom.

Leibowitz began addressing General Sessions Judge James G. Wallace, going into detail about Irwin's background. The attorney previously had described the sculptor as being "crazy as a bed bug."

Irwin was indicted for the slaying of Mrs. Mary Gedeon, her daughter, Veronica, a photographers' model, and Frank Byrne, 36, a lodger. He was brought to trial for Byrne's death.

The trial opened last Monday. Leibowitz said Irwin was about 31 years old, a native of Los Angeles, born, the lawyer said, "in a tent, practically in a mud hut."

Of the original family of five, he said, only Irwin and two brothers, who are in western penitentiaries "on long terms," Leibowitz proceeded, are alive.

Irwin, he went on, "understands fully what is transpiring."

"But, nevertheless he is insane and has been insane most all of his life," he said. The lawyer added Irwin was afflicted with dementia praecox.

Mrs. Gedeon and her daughter and Byrne were slain in their Beekman Hill apartment. Arrested after a month's long search Irwin explained he had "accidentally borrowed three lives."

Leibowitz spoke of Irwin's confinement in various institutions over a period of more than three years.

"He thinks he can project himself into the future and even change forms of matter into other forms," he said.

Second degree murder carries a penalty of 20 years to life. To make certain the sculptor would never be free again, Ass't. Dist. Atty. Jacob Rosenblum asked he plead guilty to all three indictments, and asked Judge Wallace to have the sentences run consecutively. This would mean a minimum of 60 years.

Judge Wallace accepted the plea and set November 28 as the date for sentence.

Irwin was asked to corroborate his plea of guilty.

He jumped to his feet, and in a high querulous voice began to make a speech. Three court officers watch him alertly. His voice was impassioned, but most of the time he was incoherent.

"I actually do not admit one murder," he shouted.

"I looked up the word murder in the dictionary and it said the malicious killing of one person by another."

"There was nothing malicious in what I did."

Yawns at Trial

With the jury partially selected, Robert Irwin (above), accused of the Beekman Hill (New York), triple slaying of Easter Sunday, 1937, won a brief respite from court procedure due to the accused and state elections. TACOMA, Wash., Nov. 14.—(AP)—Harmont Beta Waley, serving a sentence of 40 years in the federal prison at Alcatraz island, for the kidnaping of little George Weverhueser plans to ask President Roosevelt for a pardon on the ground that he is not guilty of the crime for which he was sentenced, according to a letter received by Judge E. C. Cramer and filed with the clerk of the federal court here today.

In the letter, Waley said he pleaded guilty because he feared that he could not get a fair and impartial trial in the state courts, where he said the matter should have been decided.

CHANGE OF VENUE DENIED SUSPECTS IN TORTURE CASE

Olympia Judge Says Newspaper Articles On Berry Kidnaping Widely Read—Court Packed at Opening

OLYMPIA, Nov. 14.—(AP)—Defense attorneys lost their first battle today as the trial of Dr. Kent W. Berry and three others on first degree kidnaping and assault charges opened in a superior court room packed with prospective jurors.

Judge John M. Wilson denied a motion for a change of venue on behalf of Berry, then made preparations for selection of a jury from the 150 persons called for jury duty.

C. B. Cunningham, Berry's attorney, filed the venue motion less than an hour before court was to open, and supported it with an affidavit by Berry claiming that publication of newspaper articles and discussion by radio speakers had precluded the possibility of a fair trial in this county.

Prosecutor Smith Troy resisted the move on the assertion no proof existed that a fair trial is impossible.

Judge Wilson agreed with Troy in his statement denying the motion and declared further that he believed newspaper articles if prejudicial, had been read as widely in other communities as in Thurston county.

The four defendants, Berry, Robert Smith, 32, of Montesano; James Reddick, 27, Olympia taxi driver; and William K. McAloon, 50, former Montesano night marshal, were not in court today.

All four have been in jail since their arrest last August.

Irving Baker, alleged victim of the abduction and torture on August 19, for which the men are on trial, appeared in the court corridor with his wife, Elizabeth Berry, wife of the defendant, sat through the session on a spectator's bench with her father, E. Kevin, of Olympia, and Mrs. Reddick sat with defense counsel.

MRS. BLAKE HIT WHILE FLAGGING ONCOMING AUTO

Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Hoehne of Roseburg called in Medford this morning while en route home after visiting their daughter, Mrs. Nina Blake of the Pindley apartment who is confined to a hospital in Klamath Falls as the result of an automobile accident on the Greenapings highway near Keno last Thursday night.

The Klamath press report of the accident was not correct, Mrs. Hoehne said this morning. The published report stated that Mrs. Blake was thrown from her skidding car which continued to travel until it came to a stop across the highway. Another car, operated by the Rev. E. J. Pulten of Eugene, crashed into the stalled car a few minutes after the first accident, the report from Klamath Falls said.

Mr. Hoehne said he was informed by his daughter that she was not injured when her car skidded. She got out of the car after it had skidded and tried to flag down the approaching Pulten automobile with a flash light. The Pulten car struck and knocked her down and then continued onward until it crashed into the stalled automobile, Mr. Hoehne said he was informed by his daughter.

Mrs. Blake suffered a fractured right ankle and left leg. Mr. Hoehne said. He added that she would be confined to the hospital for two months.

Mrs. Blake is employed here as bookkeeper at Beck's bakery.

TRIO MEET DEATH IN AUTO MISHAPS

PORTLAND, Nov. 14.—(AP)—Three automobile accidents, one of them hurling two men to their death in a creek 50 feet below the highway, killed four persons in Oregon yesterday.

Albert R. Waite, 24, and Donald Smith, 18, both of Bend, died when their car left the Coast highway near Langlois and plunged into Bethel creek. Their bodies were recovered half an hour later.

Franklin Robb, 53, of Baker died of a fractured skull and leg injuries after an auto overturned on the Baker-Homedale highway 15 miles east of Baker. Three other persons were hurt.

A pedestrian, James R. Carter, 22, of Vancouver met death while walking on the Columbia Slough bridge near Denver and Union avenues on the outskirts of Portland. No charges were made against the driver, Vincent J. Cerlenko, 23, Portland.

Mother Cabrini Beatified In Solemn Catholic Rites

VATICAN CITY, Nov. 14.—(AP)—The Venerable Mother Francesca Cabrini, who may become the first American saint of the Catholic church, was beatified in solemn ceremonies in St. Peter's cathedral Sunday.

The beatification was for two miracles attributed to her intervention and entitles her memory to special veneration in the localities where she did her good works. These miracles occurred after the death of Mother Cabrini, who was known for her work among Italian immigrants in the United States.

For sainthood to be attained at least two more miracles would have to be accepted by the congregation of rites.

Rites Cardinal Mundelein, archbishop of Chicago, who officiated at the funeral mass at Mother Cabrini's death in 1917 celebrated the mass of beatification before a colorful congregation of high prelates and spectators.

Pope Pius participated in a second service in the afternoon.

An accumulation of wax in the base of one of the wooden candeliers holding candles around a white bronze altar canopy caught fire while Pope Pius officiated at the altar.

Vatican firemen decided the flames were no danger and did not extinguish them until after the pontiff left the altar in the congregation were aware of the mishap.

In the audience were Sister Delfina Grassoli, formerly of Seattle, and 17-year old Peter Smith of New York, whose testimony they were heard through Mother Cabrini's intercession resulted in Pope Pius placing her among the blessed.

GERMANY EXPELS JEWISH STUDENTS FROM COLLEGES

Jewry Waits Fate in Fear, Desperation—Huge Levy Made On Wealthy—Anti-Catholic Feeling Flares

By the Associated Press
 Prime Minister Chamberlain told the house of commons today that Great Britain made a strong protest to Germany against Nazi newspaper articles "associating" British political leaders with a Jew's assassination of a German diplomat in Paris.

Der Angrif, mouthpiece of Propaganda Minister Paul Joseph Goebbels, commented in Berlin on Friday "it is no coincidence" the youthful assassin of Ernst vom Rath "took the same line" as Alfred Churchill, Anthony Eden and Winston Churchill.

In Paris the Daladier government endeavored to quiet opposition to its "guided" economy decrees by announcing no measures would be taken at present beyond those adopted last Saturday.

Expel Jew's Students
 Moving toward the segregation of Jews in Germany, the Nazi government expelled Jewish students from the Reich's institutions of higher learning.

The expulsion meant final elimination of Jews from Germany's school system. Jewish professors previously had been ousted and Jewish pupils in lower schools compelled to attend Jewish private schools.

German Jewry, in face of violence and anti-Semitic decrees since a Jewish youth killed a German diplomat in Paris last week, wondered in fear and desperation what would be its fate.

A special bill of up to $60,000 each has been levied on about 100 of Berlin's wealthiest Jews in addition to the fine of $400,000,000 to be exacted from all Germany's Jews. Jews have been forbidden to own or direct businesses or to attend public entertainments and thousands who have escaped arrest have been driven into hiding.

Anti-Catholic Feeling Flared
 A small group of youths in Munich, where Michael Cardinal von Munich, bishop's palace was stormed Saturday, knocked down candles and trampled floral decorations yesterday at a celebration in honor of the Virgin Mary.

In France, the powerful socialist and communist parties took strong stands against the economic program of Finance Minister Paul Raynaud, assailing it as designed to favor capital at the expense of labor.

Both parties called for a "fight to the finish" against Reynaud's 22 decrees which, among other things, virtually abolished the 40-hour week, boosted the cost of tobacco, bus and subway fares below the highway, killed 50 persons in Oregon yesterday.

Japan Rejects Protest
 The Japanese government, although declaring it had "no intention of deliberately hampering commerce and navigation of third powers in the Yangtze," rejected the protests of the United States, Great Britain and France against the closing of the river to all but Japanese vessels.

In Palestine, British troops attempting to quell an Arab uprising patrolled the historic city of Jericho, Jericho, whose walls fell in antiquity to Joshua's ram's-horn trumpets, fell yesterday to a surprise British attack against Arabs who had held it for two months.

Spanish insurgents reported they had chased all but a few scattered government forces from the west bank of the Ebro river, virtually wiping out a salient the government had captured last July in northeastern Spain.

With Japanese rolling southward less than 80 miles from Changsha, Hunan province capital, Chinese Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek was said today to have moved his headquarters further west to reorganize his defenses. Foreign advisers reported mounting disorders in Changsha.

Antanas Sementovna, 64, was re-elected president of Lithuania for a seven year term. He was the only candidate considered by the newly chosen 128 members of parliament.

Church Burglaries Believed at End

PORTLAND, Nov. 14.—(AP)—Portland's church burglaries were believed at an end today with the arrest yesterday of Anderson P. Collins.

Arresting detectives Glen Howell, John McCulloch and Charles Wescott said Collins admitted entering 13 churches and taking sums of money ranging from a few pennies to $14.
