Has Oregon Gone Stand Pat?

IT was to be expected, of course. But not quite so soon. As a result of last Tuesday's election, according to the radical wing of the New Deal press, Oregon has gone reactionary again,--joined Maine and Vermont in the slough of political obscurantism and despond.

"Not only has Oregon reverted to Republican standpatism of the most unlightened type, but it fell an easy victim to the labor-haters, labor-baiters, and Big Business hoodlars, passing an anti-picketing measure, which even California incorporated couldn't stomach, and if sustained by the courts, turns the clock of human progress back to the Chicago riots of 1886, and the dark ages of Salem witchcrafts!"

Yes, some such reaction on the part of the New Deal Intelligentsia, along the Atlantic seaboard, (which doesn't know whether Oregon is on Puget Sound or the Gulf of Lower California) was to be expected. But we didn't expect to see it in print, until the next issue of the Nation, or this week's New Republic,--certainly not in the "column left" of the daily press.

HOWEVER, there it is, and more of the same kind is likely to follow, for in the ranks of the extreme left, like the extreme right, epithets are so frequently a satisfactory substitute for thought.

And that is all the extract above really is,--merely an outburst of bad temper,--a calling of names,--with no relation, whatever, to the facts,--as the most superficial investigation by the literary Bohemians of Greenwich Village would have disclosed.

IN fact if the popular uprising which put over the anti-picketing bill, so overwhelmingly, was a step back to the middle ages, a reversion to Big Business corruption and obscurantism, then the same could be said for the Concord Minute Men, who grabbed their flintlocks back in '75, and peeped away at the British regulars, as they retreated along the Boston pike.

For the victory of that measure, was as certainly a victory of the rank and file,--the "butcher, the baker and the candlestick maker"--as the battle of Lexington or Bunker Hill. And for much the same reason,--

Because the rank and file, had become tired of being told what they could or couldn't do; tired of having their business interfered with by some alien and un-American authority; tired of not being able to manage their own affairs in their own way,--and finally rendered desperate by the situation were determined to do something about it.

FAR from being a step backward, therefore, the Oregon uprising was a spontaneous and courageous step forward,--something really new under the sun. Not that we would deny, there were selfish and destructive forces, in favor of this measure,--just as there were similar forces in organized labor against it,--but the movement as a whole, WAS a move that came up,--as practically all truly progressive movements come--from the grass roots, from the people as a whole, and not from any class.

For example: the present writer happens to know a Republican banker, a Democratic lawyer, a union labor member, a non-union carpenter, a hard working ranch foreman, an equally hard working widow, and an out and out "Economic Royalist,"--who all voted for this bill. Such varied support was typical throughout the state. In other words the measure passed because public opinion in the state, as a whole was behind it,--in fact, no measure supported only by a special class, could pass by over 50,000 majority in this state.

ONE might even carry the Revolutionary War figure, further, and point out, that as stupid abuses and bone-headed mismanagement were responsible for the uprising of the American colonies over 160 years ago, similar mistakes were responsible for the present Oregon uprising. For it was not in any sense a revolt against organized labor per se, but a revolt against its abuses, its high handed tyranny, its determination in this state to "rule or ruin" which finally led to the worm turning, rising on its hind legs, and telling the labor goons and racketeers where they got off.

In other words just as George the Third had no one but himself to blame for the American revolution, so the Rossers and Becks and other would-be absolute monarchs of labor, had no one but themselves to blame for the anti-goon revolution here in Oregon.

So long as organized labor obeyed the law, behaved itself, refused to place its selfish interest above the public interest, there was no complaint,--the people gave labor the assistance and support it deserves, but when,--

Labor got the idea that every other interest in this state had to bow to,--obey its dictatorial mandates, or ELSE,-- Then, the time came to call a halt, and decide whether this is to be a country of, for and by the people,--or a country under the iron heel of labor dictatorship.

AND on November 8th, 1938 the people of Oregon called a halt,--that's all the passage of the anti-picketing measure, which the literary pinks of the East Atlantic are getting so excited about, really means.

It was in no sense a declaration of war against organized labor in this state--or anywhere else,--(and those who supported the plan under any such misapprehension, are due for as rude an awakening as the labor racketeers suffered),--it was in the final analysis, nothing but this,--A NEW Declaration of Independence!

On the part of the people,--the rank and file--against a labor, or any other, form of dictatorship.

Crisis Precautions LONDON (AP)--Fifteen of London's borough councils have worked out the approximate cost of the air raid precautions taken during the recent crisis. The total was $2,650,000. The cost per head of the population to be protected works out as approximately $1.12.

Brighter Children Teller BERKELEY, Cal.--(UP)--There is a tendency for brighter children to be taller and heavier than the average, the Institute of Child Welfare of the University of California has ascertained after years of intensive study of the subject.

Death Wire for Starlings LONDON, Ont.--(UP)--Authorities here may use electricity in a drive to rid the city of starlings. A live wire of 33,000 volts is to be strung around trees to electrocute the birds. All other methods have failed.

Philadelphian's Eye PHILADELPHIA--(UP)--Police rubbed their eyes when called to investigate an automobile accident. The two automobiles were of the same make, style and color. The license number on one was 3BR17 and on the other it was 4BR17.

Personal Health Service

Signed letters pertaining to personal health and hygiene, not to disease diagnosis or treatment, will be answered by Dr. Brady if a stamped self-addressed envelope is enclosed. Letters should be brief and written in ink. Only to the large number of letters received only a few can be answered. No reply can be made to queries not conforming to instructions. Address Dr. William Brady, 265 El Camino, Beverly Hills, Calif.

What Your Dentor Prescribes For Your Teeth

In a symposium on the relation of the teeth to health, in which several dentists and dentists participated, well, say, physicians and dentists if you pretend you don't understand--some of the soundest practical observations were offered by the individuals who tell their patients what to do to promote sound teeth; he even pointed out that it might not be construed as within the legal rights of the dentist to prescribe for a patient.

Now, I ask you, isn't that a deplorable situation? If the education and training the law requires in the individual who seeks a license to practice dentistry does not qualify the individual to prescribe whatever diet or medicine he thinks his patient should have, then it is high time to close all so-called dental schools or colleges and let students who expect to practice dentistry complete their training first as doctors of medicine, and then they will be qualified to do whatever a doctor should do for his patient. If the doubt the competence of a dentist to give his patient the advice and treatment the patient presumably pays for, am I out of bounds when I urge a needed reform in professional education?

Dentor or doctor, the best of 'em today takes advantage of every opportunity to instruct parents upon the value and importance of seeing that children and youths in their teens get adequate amounts of calcium and phosphorus daily and also a good ration of sunshine vitamin D to insure utilization of the calcium and phosphorus for building strong, sound, even teeth and preventing caries or decay.

I have a monograph on High-Calcium-Phosphorus Diet, Calcium Pleading, Vitamins Everybody Needs--for decorating its vast dine-and-dance saloon, gave the decorator one instruction: The lighting color furnishings must be the most flattering to feminine complexions that can be found. I was just about to say that's carrying the bow to feminine vanity a bit too far, but it isn't really. What would a dance-and-dine spot be without ladies and what would the ladies be without beauty and charm?

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS Acids: Please tell me whether acids causes extreme nervousness and fear. (W. D.) Answer--No. Family Formulary: Since we received "The Medicine Cupboard" we have prepared four or five of the recipes given in the Family Formulary and every one of them is giving entire satisfaction. More power to "Old Doc Brady" and long may he wave, is the prayer of (The Family).

Hydrocephalus: Husband's sister, aged 7 1/2 years, has hydrocephalus. Our baby is 19 months old and normal. If we have any more children are they likely to be defective? (Mrs. T. M.) Answer--No evidence to warrant the belief that it may be hereditary. Lightning seldom strikes twice in the same place.

Man About Manhattan

NEW YORK--Case History No. 1: Raymond Massey, bad case of laryngitis. Carries on in difficult role of fall splitter in "Abe Lincoln in Illinois," but off stage isn't allowed to speak. All requests or remarks must be written on paper. Address: flowers, candy, and suggestions for cures to Raymond Massey, Plymouth Theatre, 45th St., N. Y. C.

Case History No. 2: Helen Hayes, stubborn, unyielding, cold. Carries on in role of "Victoria Regina," but is accompanied to and from theater by a physician. Address all books, notes, cards, flowers and candy to Helen Hayes, Martin Beck Theatre, 45th St., W. of 8th ave., N. Y. C.

Case History No. 3: Orson Welles, suffering from incredulity, shock and amazement. During the "War of the Worlds" a Maritan shot at him. "Danton's Death" (Ed's note: Danton's Death is purely fiction. No one is actually slain.) Address all books on horror tales to Orson Welles, Mercury Theatre, 41st St., E. of Broadway, N. Y. C.

Peddles and ditties that fascinate and enchant me: Sammy Kaye's gang playing and singing "Ferdinand the Bull"; Tommy Dorsey's gang playing and singing "Let's Change Partners and Dance"; Ray Kenney's gang playing and singing "Across the Sea"; Enric Madriguera's gang playing "Hoffman's Tales of the Vienna Woods"; Shep Fields' gang playing and singing "Sixty Seconds Out Together and Called It a Minute."

New York likes to interpret its sports with popular tunes of the day. At the big football games every time there's a fumble or a fumbled pass everybody yells in unison, "He dropped it, he dropped it,--on the nose as if Larry Schwab had rebounded it for a sequence in the college operetta "Good News."

The manager of a New York hotel announces that he is opening a cooking school for celebrities and will let anyone enter free of charge. He furnishes cooking and all ingredients, too. All you have to do is submit your menu in the Green room in a popular part of the new Musee de l'Homme in the Trocadero, a hall dedicated to scientific exhibits.

More hotel chatter: One of the midtown hostesses is justly proud of its Green room. And a rival inn is just as proud of its Blue room. However, the cohostess in the Green room is Blue Barron's. What's the matter with giving Johnny Green a shot at the Blue room?

Still another hotel, and a big one provides such excellent chaperone for young women traveling alone that girls' schools frequently make mass reservations for their students when major football games or other events call them to the city. Their rooms are assigned and a matron checks up each night at curfew.

Another big midtown inn, in re-union, is justly proud of its Blue room. However, the cohostess in the Green room is Blue Barron's. What's the matter with giving Johnny Green a shot at the Blue room?

Comment on the Day's News

"INFORMED persons" in the administration, we read, "disclose" that a broad new attack on the problem of unemployment is in the making. A hint of the proposed attack is given in this Washington dispatch: "They (these informed persons in the administration) say a sound prosperity must be based on restoring prosperous conditions in the heavy goods industry. This can be brought about, they argue, by setting the railroads on their feet so they can become big customers, by further stimulating building construction, by encouraging greater automobile production and in similar ways."

TRUE enough. But before the railroads and the building construction and automobile industries can be stimulated in anything like a permanent way, there must be MORE CONFIDENCE in profits to be made by increased operation. We might ALL as well make up our minds to that.

THERE won't be confidence enough in the profits to be made by taking necessary and unavoidable risks until the administration quits scaring American business into a bad attack of the jitters about every other month.

NO SCARED business man ever takes ANY RISK HE CAN AVOID, and until American business men are again willing to take risks unemployment will be with us. They don't take risks unless they think there is a reasonable chance of a profit.

IF NOBODY is willing to take a risk, business must stand still at the best and fall back into serious hard times at the worst. We can't provide increasing employment on a stationary or FALLING level of business.

IT takes EXPANDING business to provide expanding employment. AND let's not fool ourselves into thinking that the so-called heavy industries are the only ones in which unemployment has resulted from lack of confidence in the possibility of making a profit.

There isn't a line of business in the United States in which men and women haven't lost jobs as a result of unemployment due to lack of confidence in the possibility of making profits commensurate with the risks that must be taken.

DESTROY the hope of profit and you DESTROY JOBS at the same time.

Ye Smudge Pot By Arthur Perry. The imagination of the people was subjected to a good stretching last week. Word came from the White House, after the votes had all been counted, the President "is very cheerful, and everything is grand." In the presidential glare, no secretary was accidentally slipped too hard between the shoulder-blades, and knocked into the next room. It was akin to the day last October when Miller was reported adduced by the sight of German troops marching into Czechoslovakia.

A San Francisco bank robbery was halted because the bandit had a "nice face." It doesn't pay to try and commit a crime with your hair combed. "However, it was fully covered by insurance, so she has a new one." (Hopper (Ore.) News)--Silver lining item.

It won't be long now until housewives fixing the Thanksgiving turkey report they cleaned up a $37 nugget in the shovelful of gravel sluiced from the craw of the fowl.

IT'S NO USE! (Mountain (Call.) Messenger) "Nice weather we are having. Mudholes in the streets that are so high they would drown a duck. Supervisor Hallock, how about a little work on these streets? If something is not done soon, we will have to start swimming those chuck holes, or they will have to be bridged, and we understand you have had plenty of that of late. If the fishing season had not ended we would try our luck at catching a big one in the lake on Main street, but--

Oh, well! Good night!"

As things turned out last Tuesday, there is no need for editorial fretting over what the Stay-at-Home vote failed to do. As usual, they hung the "God Bless Our Home" motto on the windshield and went places.

The people rejected the proposal to boost the pay of legislators from $3 to $5 per day. This is a record. There has never been a number of statements who resent "the public turning a deaf ear to their needs." The solons are equipped to turn a deaf ear themselves, and not hitch-hike to Salem next January.

ROUNDS ROMANTIC (Silver Lake News) "Impossible to begin thinking of and planning for Christmas these bright, sunny days. Sometimes the air is as deceptively warm and sweet as the coldest tones of a maiden lady delicately coquetting with an old beau. But winter's hand is already on the door and the short days are flying."

Slightly plaintively, a sport scribble of the esteemed Klamath Falls Herald meditates: "Klamath Falls' Pelicans, whose big scoring notes against the rank and file of grid opponents fades out an offensive whisper in the company of traditional FVFA's, stumbled again Friday afternoon."

And, then there is mild wonderment that things should be that way. There will always be a sad note when the schedule of games is top heavy, with dates with meek squads, displaying less offensive than a Republican candidate in Missouri.

Panda Likes Dog Biscuits CHICAGO (AP)--Figuring out what baby pandas should eat is a matter of experiment at Brookfield Zoo. Met. Meow weighed 34 pounds when she arrived from China, February 18. Today she weighs 120 pounds and has never ceased liking her infant diet of cereals, milk and wheat in cream, topped off lately with some apples, celery, lettuce, chard, spinach, carrots and green corn stalks. She deviated recently by adding dog biscuits to the list.
