

CATHOLICS JOIN DENUNCIATION OF NAZI OUTBREAKS

Al Smith Approves Roosevelt's Stand On German Persecution of Jews — Others Grimly Indignant

NEW YORK, Nov. 17.—(AP)—Protest by prominent Catholic churchmen was added today to a growing volume of denunciation by American civic and social organizations against Nazi treatment of racial and religious minorities.

The Catholic protest was made by former Governor Alfred E. Smith and four high church prelates last night in a nation-wide radio broadcast.

It came on the heels of an announcement by Stephen T. Ely, White House secretary, president Roosevelt's criticism of Germany's attacks on Jews was also intended to apply to racial persecution of Catholics and other religious groups.

Other speakers, raising their voices "not in mad hysteria, but in grim indignation," were Bishop John Mark Clancy, from Cleveland, B. J. P. J. Fetscher, from Richmond, Va., and Mr. Joseph Corrigan, rector of Catholic university, from Washington.

Demands for a boycott of German goods and for permanent recall of the American ambassador increased as indignation spread throughout the nation, bringing fresh protests from leaders in fields as diverse as sports, education, religion, politics, entertainment and literature.

They included those from Glenn S. (Pop) Warner, Temple university football coach, governors of Minnesota, Maryland and Florida; Methodist, Episcopal, and Baptist church dignitaries; Professor Harold C. Drey, Columbia university Nobel prize winner in Chemistry; Mayor LaGuardia, and Orson Welles, Broadway and radio drama producer.

Four hundred screens, stage and radio celebrities donated their services in Madison Square Garden last night at the fifth annual "Night of Stars" benefit for the settlement of Jews in Palestine.

Thirty-six leading American writers sent a telegram to President Roosevelt urging renewed protest against Nazi anti-Semitic excesses.

Signers included Pearl Buck, recent Nobel prize winner, Paul de Kruif, Edna Ferber, Eugene O'Neill, Dorothy Parker, John Steinbeck, Dorothy Thompson and Thornton Wilder.

Other telegrams from labor organizations and civic bodies—such as the Cincinnati city council—joined the protest.

Archbishop John J. Mitty, speaking from San Francisco, joined the other prelates in urging German Jews not to react to force.

"Let us give sympathy and help till the trial be over," he added, "but let us not be betrayed by revenge or tempted by any precipitate act to put our trust in any form of force."

COMPETITION for the Southern girl in Clare Booth's comedy-hit, "Kiss the Boys Goodbye," is amply supplied by Benay Venuta (above). This is her first Broadway starring role.

She poured in to the White House and Secretary of State Hull from all sections of the nation.

Jewish leaders, fearful of any action that might bring further calamity to their brethren in Germany, remained significantly silent.

AMERICANS LUCKY, IS JUDGMENT OF BULGARIAN HERDER

Associated Press Foreign Correspondent Learns Great Truth From Simple Peasant in Far Land

By Dewitt Mackenzie (Associated Press Foreign Affairs Writer)

SOPIA, Nov. 17.—A great truth about my native land has just been impressed on me by an ancient Bulgarian dweller whom I encountered way up along the foothills of the wild Balkan mountains.

When he was told by my guide and interpreter in his own language that I was an American, a smile of approval spread over rugged features which were bronzed and wrinkled by the suns and winds of 75 years.

"You're very lucky," he told me through our interpreter, "The United States is a wonderful country."

I was surprised and interested to learn that he had even heard of our nation, for he was a primitive man of the hills. He was tending cattle near the road over which we passed. His quaintly cut native garb was so patched in all parts that it looked like a crazy quilt.

We pressed a bit to find out how much this simple peasant might know about far away America. It wasn't much. He couldn't say whether it was a republic or a monarchy.

"That doesn't matter," he insisted doggedly with a shake of his gray head.

"The United States is a wonderful country where people are happy and prosperous."

That was all he knew about us, but the aged Bulgarian's simple faith in America capped the feeling of gratitude which has been steadily growing on me since I have been touring the European dictatorships.

It isn't merely the fact our standard of living and social development are far superior to those of most parts of the old world which makes me glad of my nationality. It is because we are free of those regimentations which press down upon peoples of the totalitarian states so that even their thoughts are forced through dictator-made grooves.

Resent Mental Reins Maybe the position isn't quite logical, but I believe it is the mental regimentation which people dislike more than any other aspect of the dictatorships.

Some of the dictators are credited with doing fine work for their people, but the intellectual portions of the population, while perhaps approving of many of the regimes' accomplishments, resent intensely not even being permitted to consider plans in advance of enactment.

It's the old story of taxation (and regimentation) without representation. It's the old story of many Americans under prohibition insisting on the right to drink even if they didn't want to.

The peoples of the dictatorships, generally speaking, live in a hush hush atmosphere. They dare not voice opinions about the government, especially the dictator.

Walls Have Ears In one country a native who had information which I wanted, motored me miles out into the country to a quiet spot before he would talk. He said walls had ears.

When I first arrived in Turkey I asked the manager of the hotel where I was stopping whether the dying dictator, Kamal Ataturk, was in Istanbul or Ankara, the capital. The manager looked me straight in the eye and said: "Don't know. I will ask the ministry of the Interior for you if you wish."

STATE'S BUDGET $5,000,000 LESS THAN REQUESTED

were sound and based on needs for fulfilling complete service to the public, provide a ample funds were available. Examples of extravagance were markedly few. The request had to be reduced to meet the authorized revenues, regardless of the actual needs of the departments. In making the reductions, every effort was made to avoid crippling the activities of any department, even though it was often necessary to disapprove plans for expansion in keeping with demands from the public for service."

He pointed out that while the appropriate departments will be operated at a cost of $24,334,000, of which $19,663,772 will be raised under the existing tax scheme, that the self-sustaining unit will spend $78,841,244 in the same biennium, adding that legislatures have paid "too little attention to the operation of the self-sustaining units."

$6,258,801 Saved The budget division has saved $6,258,801 during the present biennium by "careful scrutiny." Wharton said there was no need for a property tax next year because of these savings.

Of the $24,334,000 in state funds to be spent by appropriate departments, the state relief committee will spend $7,766,425; board of high education $4,589,563; state hospital $1,291,016; penitentiary, $700,919; Eastern Oregon tuberculosis hospital $297,051; Eastern Oregon state hospital $254,022; Fairview Home $529,810; tax commission $371,980; state employment service $352,400; circuit judges $345,000; forestry department $261,300; and department of agriculture $217,900.

Unit Costs Listed Expenditures by self-sustaining units, which total $78,841,244, include: highway department $27,796,452 (decrease of $1,500,000 from present biennium); public utilities commissioner $449,026; liquor commission $18,550,246; game commission $777,500; fish commission $263,512; secretary of state, motor division $3,820,145; insurance department $101,690; forest patrol $611,370; industrial accident commission $9,367,031; unemployment compensation commission $15,393,550; and World War veterans' state aid commission $5,603,345.

The estimated revenue for the self-sustaining units, raised by gas taxes, liquor taxes and other forms of fees, will total about $9,000,000 more than the expenditures by these units.

Wall St. Report

NEW YORK, Nov. 17.—(AP)—The stock market, after three declining sessions, put on a quiet rally today that lifted industrial favorites fractions to more than 2 points.

The rather sluggish nature of the day's proceeding—transfers were in the neighborhood of 1,000,000 shares—was attributed partly to the desire of Wall street to await details of the new Anglo-American trade treaty which was due to be signed late in the afternoon.

Steels, motors, aircraft, rails and an assortment of specialties were in the front ranks. Utilities and coppers held modest gains.
