Holiday Schedules For Theatres Here Thanksgiving Plan

Special attention given to bookings at all three Medford theatres will give southern Oregon showgoers some fine entertainment for the Thanksgiving holiday. And to make matters complete, the local theatres will operate on holiday schedule tomorrow, with two complete shows in the afternoon and evening.

At the Craterian theatre, "Suez," the dramatic, thrilling story of the famous canal, with Tyrone Power, Loretta Young and Annabella heading the huge cast, opens a four-day showing today. This is the picture that boasts one of the most awesome, breath-taking climaxes ever screened—the dreaded simoon, or "devil-wind" of the desert, sweeping everything before it, the most terrifying obstacle in Ferdinand de Lesseps' great dream of conquering the desert.

The Rialto theatre, with Jane Withers in "Always in Trouble," and Zane Grey's "Mysterious Rider" as the added feature on the twin bill, should prove a popular mecca for showgoers, while the Roxy, with Joe Penner in "Go Chase Yourself," will undoubtedly share in the spotlight.
