

LEGISLATURE TO GET PROBLEM OF PUD AMENDMENT

Action Necessary in Oregon to Simplify Obtaining of Bonneville Power — Ross Outlines Power Policy

By PAUL W. HARVEY, Jr.
SALEM, Nov. 25.—(AP)—Another problem for the legislature was thrown on the griddle this week when J. D. Ross, Bonneville dam administrator, announced Bonneville power would go where people's utility districts had been.

This statement, implying that Washington state would get most of the power because it had many PUD's, throws the problem into the lap of the legislature.

The legislature will be asked to amend the PUD law, so that revenue bonds may be issued and so that the machinery to create the districts may be simplified.

Voters in most elections to create utility districts disapproved, preferring to buy:

Public Utilities Commissioner N. G. Wallace also is opposed to PUD's, asserting the private utilities can sell as cheaply as the PUD's.

Governor Martin's attitude about the proposed amendment was watched for possible influence in the legislature. It is not known whether he approved the amendments, but he did oppose creation of the proposed seven-county northwest Oregon PUD.

The balanced budget submitted to the governor by Budget Director Wallace Wharton might not be balanced by the time the legislature gets through with it.

The budget gave the legislature only $87,970 to play with. That is, this is all the money available for appropriations not included in the budget.

The budget dispelled fears that the legislature would have to raise about $9,000,000 more for the proposed $30,000,000 relief program during the 1939-40 biennium. Wharton cut the $30,000,000 down to $21,953,000, compared with about $18,000,000 spent during the current biennium.

The new budget provides for increase in old age assistance, blind assistance, aid to dependent children, child welfare activities and crippled children, but the total for general relief activities was reduced $450,000.

During the next biennium, the state's share of the relief program will be increased from $6,625,620 to $7,798,425. The federal government's share will rise from $4,434,787 to $8,068,032.

Counties will find their ante raised from $3,915,169 to $5,068,664. County officials who met here last week said they couldn't figure out where they were going to get the additional $2,000,000, and added they would throw the problem back to the legislature in an effort to get the state to pay a larger share.

How the state's relief burden could be increased to aid the counties will be a tough problem for legislators since the state also is hard pressed for cash.

County Judge C. A. Lyon of Bend is having a hard time figuring out what to do about moving to Corvallis.

He told Governor Martin he wanted to resign and would like to name his successor. The governor refused to appoint Judge Lyon's man, but said he would appoint a Democrat.

So Judge Lyon has remained in Bend, while his wife already has gone to Corvallis.

But the governor said he didn't care. Judge Lyon will have to resign whenever he moves, and if he doesn't quit before January 9, Governor-elect Sprague could appoint a Republican successor.

Reports that Sprague will give the axe to Daniel J. Fry, secretary of the board of control, were taken with a grain of salt. He is appointed by the board, not by the governor.

Fry is a Democrat, although the present board is Republican by 2 to 1. If the new board does let him out, Fry doesn't have to worry, as he owns a drugstore in Salem.

WEDNESDAY DEADLINE FOR WHEAT INSURANCE

SUCCESS INDEX HIGHLY FAVORS FIRM HUSBAND

CHICAGO (UP)—The man who dares to tell his mother-in-law what he thinks of her and deals firmly with his wife's demand for a new fur coat, has the best chance of business success, Dr. Robert N. McMurry believes.

"In other words," Dr. McMurry said as he scanned the results of surveys of some 14,000 successful and unsuccessful workers in various lines, "the man who wears the pants in his own family stands the best chance of getting some place in his chosen work."

Dr. McMurry, formerly of the University of Chicago faculty, made his surveys of the relationship between domestic life and business success at the behest of a group of employers who wanted to find out why some of their workers failed and others succeeded.

"Whether a man has a nagging, complaining wife," Dr. McMurry said, "is not so important as his attitude toward her. If she dominates him, he usually is not much of a business success."

Cites One Example

There is the wife, Dr. McMurry pointed out, who tells little amusing (to her) anecdotes about her husband's shortcomings. The man who submits to such humiliation is usually doomed to a mediocre position in the business world. On the other hand, the man who can make his wife understand her recital won't be tolerated, is already on the first rung of the ladder to success.

"The man who lets his mother-in-law decide what kind of a house the family will live in and where it shall be located," Dr. McMurry said, "is a bad employment risk. So is the man who takes a job because his mother-in-law or other in-laws convinced him it was the job he ought to have."

"On the other side of the picture, you find the man who wrecks his marriage and his work because he demands that his wife fill a dozen roles.

"Everybody is familiar with the 'leaner.' This man has always leaned on someone. He leaned on his mother as a boy and he looks to his wife for protection even though he is grown up and should be protecting her."

The man who depends on his wife to discipline him will never be president of the company, Dr. McMurry predicted.

McGill Co-eds Independent

MONTREAL.—(UP)—McGill university co-eds have no use for a "date bureau." A few years ago a bureau was opened with much publicity in the student newspaper, but it died from lack of clients. Suggestions that another one be set up are scorned by the co-eds.

4 Generations in Field

VICEROY, Sask.—(UP)—When the Jordan family here goes harvesting they do it in no uncertain manner. Four generations of Jordans garnered the crop this season. Oldest was 80-year-old W. Jordan. His son and grandson and also a great-grandson worked with him.

ROYAL RIVIERA PEARS

LIKE many who left friends and relatives to move to our grand western country the annual gift problem was always a nearly impossible one to us until a few years ago when we sent a few gift boxes of pears.

That departure from commonplace gifts was a happy idea indeed. Never before had our gifts brought forth such effusions of gratitude. Many to whom we sent the pears wanted to buy more so we knew we had hit the spot.

The next year and every succeeding year we sent nothing else. We have since visited with many who received the pears and not one has failed to mention and praise them even though months had elapsed. Best of all the cost and trouble is less. Yet the most expensive gifts never brought such expressions of appreciation.

Take our tip and forever solve the gift problem by sending Gift Boxes of Pears to distant friends and relatives.

FOLKS STILL GO MILES FOR GOOD SAUSAGE

WE have a Klamath business friend who often comes to Medford. One day we gave him a mess of sausage and that started something.

Thereafter he took back enough for his family. Later he took an extra package for a friend. That really did start something. It made him the champion sausage buyer of southern Oregon.

Last time over he told us that he never realized how many friends he had until he began taking good sausage to Klamath Falls.
