BOWLING CHAMP TO APPEAR HERE FRIDAY EVENING

Gene Gagliardi Will Roll Exhibition Games Against Local Stars — Lecture and Instructon Free

Gene Gagliardi, bowling's 1937-38 singles world champion, will appear in exhibition games against the cream of local pin-upsetters Friday night at the Medford alleys, starting at 8 o'clock.

Medford bowlers who will furnish competition for the man who rolled 266-277-206 for a 749 triple to cop the 1937 A.B.C. singes championship, will be Mrs. Roy Pruitt, George Eads, Roy Pruitt, Frank Hengstorff and Earl Reitsma.

Gagliardi will give a free lecture and instructions at 4 p. m. Friday, to which all Medford bowlers are invited to attend. This will also be held in the Medford alleys.

The champion says you can learn more in the pit than you can on the alleys. From the pit you observe a bowler's faults, such as his approach to the foul line, his swing and delivery, and you are in a better position to see the course of the ball as it takes the English in its approach to the head pin. "By watching the mistakes of other maple crashers, I soon learned to correct my own errors," said Gene in a recent interview. Twenty years ago he was a pin-setter.

"I went out of my way to watch all the great bowlers perform, and picked up many valuable pointers here and there, but I soon learned that in order to be a great bowler one must concentrate on each and every ball delivered. That is one of the real secrets of becoming a class A star," he explained.

Gene is of Italian parenthood. He is small and weighs only 125 pounds, which makes him the smallest man to ever win a world's A.B.C. title. He is on a 20-week exhibition tour through the country, and to date has averaged 213 per game.

Billy Hulen says:

Vander Meer and Texas Christian Greatest of 1938

The Associated Press, through General Sports Editor Herert W. Barker, is now polling all its member papers for their views regarding the year's outstanding sports achievements and developments, and will release the consensus soon after first of the year. Mister Barker has produced some interesting subjects and questions, which we present below, with our answers. How would you reply ingto the following:

Billy Hulen.

Q.—Three outstanding individual performers, any sport, amateur or professional; listed in order of preference?

A.—Johnny Vander Meer, Henry Armstrong, Davey O'Brien.

Q.—Three outstanding teams or crews, any sport, amateur or professional; listed in order of preference?

A.—Texas Christian football team, New York Yankees, American Davis cup tennis team.

Q.—Three leading comebacks in individual competition, men or women, amateur or professional?

Q.—Three most surprising results, any sport, team or individual?

A.—Carnegie Tech football win over Pittsburgh, Solly Kreiger fight win over Al Hostak, Chicago Cub drive to National league pennant.

Q.—Oddest or most freakish happening in competition?

A.—That screwball mixup in downs in the Notre Dame-Carnegie Tech football game at South Bend, when the referee told the Tech quarterback it was third down, when it was fourth, and Tech consequently lost the ball and the game.

Q.—Biggest disappointment of year, team or individual?

A.—Rice Institute football team, Lou Gehrig, University of Washington football team.

Q.—Principal trends noted in general or in connection with any particular sport?

A.—(Taking our life in our hands, we will print here our word for word answer to that question)—The decline of softball over the nation; thank goodness!

Ballots are beginning to roll into this office from coaches and sports writers in Ashland, Klamath Falls and Grants Pass, and it looks like the Mail Tribune's fifth annual All-Southern Oregon conference football selections can be announced sometime next week . . . . Sam Chapman, outfielder for the Philadelphia Athletics who stepped direct from the University of California campus into big league baseball, is playing it smart with his do-re-mi . . . we heard in San Francisco that Sam has purchased a $30,000 insurance policy, and is otherwise remaining sensible with his money, something plenty of ball players don't know how to do.

That troublesome eight-semester ruling is going to be on the pan again about the first of the year, and chances are the state high school athletic association will vote it out and go back to letting prep athletics compete nine semesters . . . if so, there will be plenty of rejoicing in Ashland, where Charlie Warren and Buzz Roberson, baseball forwards, are now eight-semester men and will be ineligible for most of the casaba season if the eight semester ruling stays in effect.

Sandlot baseball, according to President Ray Dumont of the National Semi-Pro Baseball congress, will enjoy its banner year in 1939, with 817 cities in the United States staging tournaments, which will lead up to the big national affair . . . Coach Jean Eberhart's Southern Oregon Normal school basketball team will take a nice barnstorming trip into California this month.

SKI HUT OPEN AT LARSON'S STORE

The Ski Hut, a room devoted entirely to ski equipment, which has been under construction in the rear of Larsen's Clothes Shop for the past month, will be open for public inspection tomorrow, according to an announcement today by Harold Larsen, owner.

The room gives the impression of entering a mountain cabin, so realistic is it constructed. The walls are covered with pine shakes. The display tables, shelves and ski racks are unfinished pine. Snow covered eves protrude through the partition separating the ski hut from the main sales floor. The light fixture mounted on the ceiling of the hut is made from two old skis.

The room is filled with a complete stock of skis, ski equipment, ski clothing and ski shoes, as well as books and magazines on skiing. The new Ski-tote, a convenient piece of equipment for carrying skis on top of an automobile, will also be featured at Larsen's.

Mr. Larson, well known former president of the Rogue Snowmen and now a director of that organization, is recognized as an authority on skiing. A bulletin board will be installed on the wall of the Ski Hut, where the latest snow and road conditions will be posted for the convenience of local skiers.

SEAHAWKS WIN, 3 TO 2 FROM LUCKLESS CLIPS

(By The Associated Press)

The luckless Spokane Clippers, their financial difficulties settled at a meeting yesterday of the Pacific Coast Hockey league directors, made a gallant but vain effort to defeat the Seattle Seahawks last night in Seatle.

The Hawks held off a third period rush to win 3 to 2.

Duke Defenders Get Rough With West Coast Writers

DURHAM, N. C., Dec. 1.—(AP)—The coast-to-coast broadcast of criticism and sarcasm over Duke university's selection as the eastern representative in the Rose Bowl game against Southern California provoked rebuttal today of defending Carolina sports writers.

Shortly after the announcement of the selection Monday night, Pacific coast sports writers kicked off that the sentiment there had favored Texas Christian for the invitation.

Today the writers on the more turbulent Atlantic side, amid a few pun returns, off-tackle slants and slams bordering on unnecessary roughness, retaliated with a drive of words that apparently closed the first quarter in a scoreless tie.

A spokesman from the Duke Chronicle, undergraduate publication, surveyed campus sentiment and came up with the finding: "Consensus of Duke campus opinion is that west coast sports writers are entitled to their opinions."

Replying to California writers who implied Duke's offense was no great shakes, Edward V. Mitchell wrote in the Durham Herald that "one thing is certain, the Southern California football team surely is no world-beater. It has been beaten twice this season, and in one of those games by a second-rate Southeastern conference aggregation, University of Alabama. . . . A team that goes through nine contests, such as those Duke played, and isn't beaten, tied or scored upon must have something."

Andy Cates suggested in the Winstrom-Salem Journal "If California's John Q. Public wants to see Texas Christian, the Sugar bowl promoters will be only too happy to sell them tickets."

Fights Last Night

By the Associated Press

CHICAGO—Tony Musto, 203, Chicago, knocked out Sandy McDonald, 199, Dallas, Texas, (6.)

MIAMI, Fla.—Chino Alvarez, 135, Tampa, outpointed Johnny Dean, 138, Philadelphia, (10.)

NAVY VEILS PLANS TO BETTER TEAM

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Dec. 1.—(AP)—Official secrecy veiled today whatever plans naval academy authorities may have for bolstering the midshipmen's sagging football fortunes next year.

To a variety of rumors that coaching changes impended, academy officials replied "no decision" had been made on the football staff for 1939 and reports to the contrary were "absolutely unfounded."

Substance of the rumors was that Lieut. H. J. (Hank) Hardwick, head coach, would be assigned to sea duty next year and his going probably would involve a change from the graduate-coach system inaugurated in 1934.

NOD FOR LITTLE DADO BRINGS CHAMPIONSHIP

OAKLAND, Cal., Dec. 1.—(AP)—Little Dado, a scrappy young puncher from the Philippines, was recognized by the California state athletic commission today as the flyweight champion of the world as a result of his decisive 10-round decision last night over aging Small Montana, another Filipino.

Dado won seven rounds, two were even, and Montana won one—the first.

There were no knockdowns, but Dado had the 1935 flyweight titleholder on the defensive for the last seven rounds.

TWO TIGERS PLACED ON KLAMATH'S LIST OF ALL-OPPONENTS

KLAMATH FALLS, Dec. 1.—(AP)—Bend, The Dalles, Medford and Eureka high schools spotted two players each on all-opponents football team chosen today by the Klamath Falls Pelicans. The three remaining positions were distributed among Ashland, Grants Pass and Pendleton.

Klamath's all-rival lineup was composed of Verbick, Medford, and Nicar, Bend, ends; Cairney, Pendleton, and Del Patti, Eureka, tackles; Henry Steers, The Dalles, and Tomanovich, Eureka, guards; Howard Steers, The Dalles, center; Bowman, Medford, quarterback; Warren, Ashland, and Stinebaugh, Grants Pass, halfbacks, and Redden, Bend, fullback.

The Pelicans also named a team of star players from the three rival Southern Oregon conference schools. This eleven consisted of Verbick, Medford, and Jessel, Ashland, ends; Clute, Medford, and Newbry, Ashland, tackles; Colby, Grants Pass, and Schilling, Ashland, guards; Prentice, Medford, center; Caples, Medford, quarterback; Bowman, Medford, and Stinebaugh, Grants Pass, halfbacks, and Harris, Ashland, fullback.

SONS Hoopsters Drop Signal Oil

ASHLAND, Dec. 1.—(AP)—Southern Oregon Normal hoopsters edged out Signal Oil of Klamath Falls 33 to 31 in an early season basketball game last night. High scoring honors went to Sethers, SONS, with 11 points, while Bullion, SONS, and Bishop, Oilers, tied with 10 each.
