

Miss Carlton's Service In Public Health Field Appreciated by Doctors

Appreciation of the great and valuable service given the cause of public health by the late Mildred Carlton was voiced by Dr. L. D. Inakeep, at a meeting of the Jackson County Medical Society, November 30. Dr. Inakeep's tribute follows:

"Shortly after coming here permanently in 1920 Miss Carlton took an active interest in what was to be her life work—the promotion of public health and preventive medicine in Jackson county. In order to further her endeavors the Jackson County Public Health Association was formed. This was a lay organization designed to cooperate with the physicians of the county and to promote the establishment of the County Health Unit, to help introduce methods of control of tuberculosis, immunization against diphtheria and smallpox, and the establishment of better standards of health, particularly among children attending school.

"Miss Carlton soon became president of the association and her efforts bore fruit in 1923 with the establishment of a health unit in the old court house in Jacksonville. This first unit consisted of one physician, one nurse, and a secretary. Those who have seen the marvelous equipment of the present health unit, for most of which Miss Carlton is responsible, may be interested in the description of the physical equipment of the original unit.

"The original equipment consisted of a room and a half on the second floor of the old court house in Jacksonville. There was no running water. If water were desired in the summertime it had to be obtained from a faucet on the lawn and during freezing weather from a house in the vicinity of the court house. There was not even an electric sterilizer. Such few instruments as there were being boiled in an aluminum pot over a Sterno heat can. There was no examining table, no instrument cabinet, nor instruments to put in it even if there were one.

"The desks were borrowed and had to be returned whenever the owners wished to use them again. The floor was rough and splintery, and the walls were covered with gray and brown paint. One window served as illumination for the room and a half. Heat was from a chunk stove in one corner of the main room and various members of the unit took turns in making the fire and keeping it going.

"Most health units when they are young are delicate creatures and tend to expire from malnutrition due to cutting off of sustenance from the county budget. I believe that most units in the state of Oregon have been allowed to lapse one or more times due to lack of interest on the part of the public.

"Due to Miss Carlton's energetic and forceful leadership, the Jackson County Health Unit never suffered such a lapse. Miss Carlton always was ready with a committee of business men and women to see to it that the necessary appropriations were included in the budget. If necessary almost by force. At one time the committee waited on the county judge and commissioners in their quarters, virtually imprisoned them there and flooded them with arguments. Continuing appropriations were made for the health unit.

"Miss Carlton was also very active in the establishment of favorable public opinion for an support of public health work throughout all the rural communities of the county. Her interest, her strength, and her time were entirely given over to this which was at once her hobby, her work. Trips to the east were taken to study the advantages presented in other states which might well be applied here. Wait-baby clinics, immunization clinics, crippled children clinics, and mental health clinics were all results of her endeavors. "As time went on and the health unit was better understood and its great benefits seen by a larger share of the people, the services were extended until at the present time there is a doctor, sanitary engineer, secretary, and five public health nurses in the clinic. The physical equipment of the present health unit includes much valuable and adequate material to work with, as well as the Sparrow Memorial clinic, originated by Miss Carlton in memory of the late county judge, Alex Sparrow. The privilege for health, extended impartially to all children of Jackson county, will be Miss Carlton's most permanent and lasting memory."

CHRISTMAS SEAL SALE WILL OPEN HERE TOMORROW

Booths Placed In Postoffice, Stores—Volunteer Sellers Are Given Detailed In- structions At Meeting.

Booths for the sale of Christmas seals will open Saturday, December 3, in the Medford post office and Montgomery Ward's store, Miss Helen Bullis, Medford chairman of the annual campaign to combat tuberculosis, announced yesterday. They will remain open until December 22 as will a booth in the Groceries, which will open next Monday.

Final instructions were given to the volunteers, who will handle the booth sales, at a meeting Wednesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Ernest Gilstrap. Workers were addressed by Mrs. Alex Sparrow, Jackson county chairman; Mrs. J. C. S. Wells, treasurer of the Jackson County Health Association, and Miss Bullis. There were 40 present.

Sales Saturday will be in charge of Girl Scout Troop, No. 7, Mrs. Hilding Bengtson, captain. Mrs. John Mann is chairman of the booths on Monday and the Groceries booth will be managed by the Wednesday Study club. Tuesday's sales will be in charge of Mrs. P. G. Thayer. Other chairmen for the coming week are: Mrs. O. B. Morrow, December 7; Mrs. R. E. Green, December 8; Mrs. Charles Butterfield, December 9; and Mrs. William Bowerman, captain of Girl Scout troop, No. 2, December 10. Sales will be handled in the same manner in Ashland. A tea for instructing the workers was arranged Thursday at the home of Mrs. Paul Taylor in that city and was attended by Miss Bullis and Mrs. Wells of Medford.

CHANGE MEETING FOR HOOP LEAGUE

The AAU Independent basketball league meeting, scheduled to be held in the Jackson County Chamber of Commerce next Monday night at 7:30, has been transferred to the gymnasium of Southern Oregon Normal school in Ashland, it was announced today. The confab will start at the same time.

All managers and representatives of independent clubs in Medford, Grants Pass, Ashland and the smaller county towns are urged to attend the meeting, purpose of which is to organize an independent league to be run under the auspices of the Oregon Amateur Athletic Union. Joan Eberhart, SONS coach and AAU commissioner for this district, will be in charge of the meeting.

The soybean has been a principal crop in the Orient for probably 50 centuries, but it is only just coming into its own in this country.

SEAL SUBSCRIPTIONS DEDUCTED FROM TAX

"Money subscribed for Christmas Seals and health bonds may be deducted from income taxes," Mrs. Alex Sparrow, Jackson county chairman of the annual sale of the anti-tuberculosis seals, reminded the public yesterday. "The Christmas Seal sale comes under the class of permissible deductions," she explained. "It is important when making deductions on such sums of money to specify on the report to what organization the money was given."
