Wall St. Report

NEW YORK, Dec. 5.—(AP)—A last-minute run-up in steel and aircrafts pulled the stock market out of the doldrums today and, while negligible declines were plentiful at the close, advances of a point or so were registered for favorites.

The ticker tape loafed throughout the major portion of the session and the drying up of volume on a declining trend brought encouragement to recovery proponents. Even though activity broadened at the finish, transfers approximated only 700,000 shares, smaller figure for a full session since September 22.

Aviation Drama On Craterian's Screen

Acclaimed by Fans

If ever a motion picture deserved to win capacity crowds, "Men With Wings," which opened its local four-day showing yesterday at the Craterian theatre to record-breaking attendance, is that picture. Fox "Men With Wings" is more than just another picture. It's a history of aviation—the fastest growing industry in the world—and, at the same time, a gripping, pulse-pounding adventure that thrills the senses as it wings its way across the screen.

It's also the story of three people, two men and a woman. Born with the blood of pioneers in their veins, reared in presence of one of the first airplanes to be built, witnesses of a horrifying crash that ends in a holocaust of flames, these three people find their paths forever after linked with aviation: from the time they built their first ship to the modern, sleek super-flying airplanes of tomorrow. Played by Fred MacMurray, Ray Milland and Louise Campbell, the three force their way into one of the most conclusive—MacMurray the rest-less, always seeking adventure, finding it in the World War and Morocco and China, on sensational cross-country flights and a projected trans-Atlantic flight that never succeeds; Milland the dreamer and planner, whose ships make flying better for the adventurers and whose heart is able to understand the spirit that drives those adventurers ever onward, seeking an unattainable goal; Louise Campbell as the wife, brave, faithful, always loving, always waiting with a fear in her heart.

Around these characters, with Ann Devine, Porter Hall, Lynn Overman and other well known players featured in the supporting cast, is woven an intense, thrill-loaded, epic of aviation. And because it is the biggest story of aviation that has ever reached the screen, it becomes the same time the biggest thrill show of years. There are stunts performed that bring your heart right up to your mouth; there are battle scenes high in the clouds—"dog-fights" as they call them; there are so many different sort of flying thrills that one couldn't begin to remember them all. But it's all there, they've never missed it. It's there from the Wright brothers in 1903, to Howard Hughes of 1938. Thirty-five years of aviation, from beginning to present, with every inch of it packed to the hilt with all the amazing adventure that has made aviation what it is today. And to top it all, it's all in technical color!

MARRIAGE MARKET NEAR STANDSTILL

The march to the altar was still near standstill in Jackson county, with only one license issued since the state law requiring a medical examination for applicants went into effect last week.
