Mildred Fraser, Ralph Waggoner Are Wedded Here

Miss Mildred Fraser, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Hugh A. Fraser of 714 Beekman street and Mr. Ralph Waggoner, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. S. Waggoner of Oakdale, Minn., were united in marriage by the Rev. Father E. S. Burling at a ceremony held Sunday afternoon in St. Mark's Episcopal church.

The bride wore a gold cloth suit trimmed in black fur, her small hat and accessories also being in black. Her flowers were brown orchids with green throats, made in a bridal corsage.

Her attendant was her sister, Miss Virginia Fraser, who was attired in a dark wool suit which was accentuated by smart accessories. Her flowers were gerberas.

Mr. Glen Heiber of Portland was best man. Miss Fraser was given away by her father.

After the ceremony a luncheon was served in the Hotel Medford for 18 guests.

A honeymoon is to be spent in San Francisco after which the couple will reside in Klamath Falls where Mr. Waggoner is engaged in business and where Mrs. Fraser has resided for a number of years.

Prior to her marriage the bride was feted widely in Klamath Falls.

Progressive Party Enjoyable Affair of Sunday Evening

A progressive dinner party affair was enjoyed last evening when Mr. and Mrs. David Rosenberg, Mr. and Mrs. George Roberts, Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Barnes and Mr. and Mrs. H. S. Deuel were hosts.

The party initiated at the Crown Hill home of the Roberts were cocktails and hors d'oeuvre were served. The party then progressed to the home of the Rosenbergs, where the main dinner course was served. Later dessert and dancing for the remainder of the evening was held at the Barnes residence on East Main street.

About forty guests were bidden to the affair, a number of whom were Grants Pass couples.

Of course they have a MAGIC EYE

PALEONTOLOGISTS ARE a peculiar people who can see miles down into the earth and back into the past almost to the start of time. Truly they deserve such a resounding name. Theirs is among the most interest-gripping tasks in the whole romantic search for oil.

To do such impossible things, paleontologists have a magic eye—in fact, millions of them. They are called foraminifera—a big name for small, shell-bearing creatures which have survived age after age and eon after eon since near the beginning.

Like people, foraminifera of one eon differ from relatives of another. Hence paleontologists can eye them in samples of earth brought up from thousands of feet below the surface and tell them apart as easily as you'd distinguish a college professor from a cave-man.

Show a paleontologist a group of "forams" and he can identify, too, the hidden geologic formations whence they came. He can tell the pitch of oilfield strata by spotting levels where identical "forams" appear—estimate depth of oil-bearing zones—set a field's probable limits.

It's like talking with the remote ancestors of the first man—or hearing the operator say "Mars is calling." But such breath-checking long distance contacts take place in the oil industry—every day.

Henry Hathaway And Eugene Girl To Wed Feb. 11

A betrothal of much interest to Medford society is that of Miss Margaret Pence and Mr. Henry Hathaway. The wedding will take place on February 11 in Eugene.

Miss Pence is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Pence of Fayette, Idaho, and a former student of the University of Idaho, where she is a member of Delta Gamma sorority. She has resided for some time in Eugene, where her sister, Mrs. R. C. Romig, is a resident.

Mr. Hathaway is the son of Mr. and Mrs. H. L. Hathaway of 1917 East Main street. He attended the University of Oregon in Eugene and is a member of Sigma Chi fraternity. He is now employed in Eugene.

Miss Pence and Mr. Hathaway were guests last week-end at the Medford home of Mr. and Mrs. H. L. Hathaway and they are planning to spend the Christmas holidays here.

After their marriage the couple will make their home in Eugene.

Numerous Students Here For Holidays From University

Among the students home for the Christmas holidays is Miss Joan Hunt, co-ed at the University of Oregon in Eugene where she is a pledge to Alpha Delta Pi sorority.

Miss Hunt is a guest at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Ohra of 509 West Eleventh street. She is planning to spend New Year's in San Francisco, and will leave for the Bay City next mid-week.

Other University of Oregon students arriving here over the weekend included Miss Catherine Conroy, daughter of Mrs. R. J. Conroy and Mr. Seth Bullis. The two co-eds claim the Phi Beta Phi house as their Eugene residence. The girls accompanied Martin Luther to this city, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Martin Luther, he is a Phi Delta affiliate.

Three sorority sisters who traveled to their Medford homes from the Alpha Delta Pi house on the campus included Ann and Phoebe Dgan, daughters of the George B. Deans of the Jacksonville highway and Miss Barbara Lemmon, only daughter of the C. C. Lemmons of North Oakdale avenue. The co-eds motored to this city with Don Cook of Ashland.

Spending their first vacation in Medford because they have only resided here several months are Rachel and David Griffiths, daughter and son of the E. P. Griffiths on West Main street. Rachel is a Kappa Kappa Gamma and David is an affiliate of Phi Gamma Delta on the Eugene campus. It is anticipated that the two will soon become prominent members of the college set here and participate in the numerous activities that are being planned for the Yuletide.

The Hance Clelands' son John, is also spending the holidays here. John is a Sigma Chi at the Oregon institution.

Others visiting here from the University are Dale Sims and Bob Wilson who will spend Christmas with their parents.

Dr. and Mrs. James C. Hayes are glad to have their son Bob, home from the Eugene school for the holiday season. Bob is associated with the Phi Delta Theta house on the campus.

D.A.V. Yule Party Tomorrow Evening

Jackson county chapter and auxiliary of the Disabled American Veterans of the World War will hold their annual Christmas party in the Medford armory at 7:30 Tuesday evening.

Guests will be children of members. A kiddie party will be held around a massive Christmas tree before which a jolly Saint Nicholas will preside. There will be gifts and entertainment for the children.

A Christmas dinner will be served for host adults and children. All members of the chapter and the auxiliary and their children are asked to be present.

Christmas Party Friday Afternoon

Electa Social club will hold its annual Christmas party at 1:30 Friday afternoon in the home of Mrs. C. V. English at 117 Mistletoe street. Hostesses will be Mrs. Carl Bennett, Mrs. Rose Bishop and Mrs. Olga Bowditch.

Church Yule Party Set for Tonight

Clarence A. Meeker's Sunday school class of the First Methodist church will hold its annual Christmas party in the church parlors at 7:30 this evening.

An old-fashioned Yuletide party will be held around a large Christmas tree. Those attending are asked to bring candles, popcorn and apples and gifts for exchange.

Badminton Class To Play Tonight

The badminton class, sponsored by the Girls' Community club will meet for play at 7:30 tonight in the Lincoln school gymnasium.

The class is free for all business girls. The club provides the equipment and instruction. Marjorie Plake is instructor.

Residents Asked To Enter Homes In Yule Contest

Judging of homes entered in the annual Christmas decoration contest will be done Friday evening. Winners will be announced Sunday.

The contest is sponsored by the Medford Garden club and the Jackson County Chamber of Commerce. The contest is divided into four classifications, with two merchandise prizes to be awarded in each division. The prizes are donated by merchants who handle electrical supplies.

To be eligible for judging and prizes, residents must register at the chamber of commerce, giving their names, addresses and the classification they wish to enter.

The garden club committee in charge is composed of Miss Jane Suedicor, Mrs. J. C. Boyle and Mrs. J. C. S. Wells.

It is considered a matter of civic interest and pride that the valley-wide contest is conducted each year by the garden club and the chamber of commerce. Residents are asked to promote civic interest by entering their homes in the contest and by registering without further delay.

The classifications are: Class I. Decorated growing trees—any size. These must be outside of house and not considered as part of the house decorations.

Class II. Decorated Entrances. The door must be outlined and in no way blocked. "Welcome" must be the keynote.

Class III. Decorated Window. A lighted tree, wreath, candles or garlands may be used but the casing of the window must form the frame of the picture. Decorations may be inside or outside or both.

Class IV. Decorated front of house. May include doors, windows, porch or shrubbery. Decorations and lights inside detract from outside effects.

Joy Finch Hostess For Brownie Club

Miss Joy Finch was hostess to a group of Brownies Saturday afternoon at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Finch, on Locust street.

There was a large Christmas tree and each Brownie brought a gift for someone else. After the gifts were opened and examined, the Brownies worked jigsaw puzzles and played other games.

Refreshments were served, and just before the party ended each small guest entertained with a song, dance or recitation. All were presented with a popcorn ball to take home. The party ended with the whole group singing "Silent Night."

Present were Gayle Miller, Bertha McCullister, Dorothy Ray, Joan Blunkel, Marianne Perl, Dorette Greene, Mary Bradbury, Patty Jean Lawson, Mrs. Floyd Lawson, the leader for the Brownie club, and her young son, Kenneth, and the hostess.

Party Is Inspired By Boy's Birthday

Mr. and Mrs. Del Brown were hosts at their Boall lane home at a party honoring Orval Roy Cowin on his twelfth birthday.

The home was attractively decorated in Christmas colors. Games were played after the serving of a birthday dinner.

Attending in addition to the hosts were Mrs. Pearl Cowin, Mrs. Dee Lowe and children, Mr. and Mrs. Bud Zimmerman and children and Mr. E. E. Cook.

Gleaners Class Meets Tuesday. Gleaners class of the Baptist church will enjoy a Christmas party at the F. G. Carlow home, 26 Laurel street, at 7:30 Tuesday evening, December 20.

Closing time for Too Late to Classify Ads is 1:30 p. m.

Medford Woman Is Honor Guest At Klamath Tea

Mrs. Maurice Spatz of 1405 West Main street was guest of honor at a tea given Saturday afternoon in the home of her sister, Mrs. Charles G. Hovey, in Klamath Falls. Miss Catherine Walton was co-hostess.

More than one hundred guests called during the tea hours, three to six. Receiving were Mrs. Hovey, Miss Walton, Mrs. Spatz and Mrs. Crayle Elliott, mother of Mrs. Hovey and Mrs. Spatz.

The tea table, one of the most delightful arrangements, was in white and crimson. A many-branched candelabra held tall lighted red tapers and around a mirror base sprigs of holly, heavily laden with red berries, accented the Christmas motif.

Mrs. Spatz was the house guest of her sister over the week-end. She has scores of friends who welcomed her visit to Klamath Falls.
