that the dignified white-haired financier who had slipped unobtrusively into "Who's Who in America" was none other than their old acquaintance, Philip Musica, son of an immigrant Neapolitan barber.

Coster-Musica, McDermott said, naturally would have feared exposure. McMahon said today there "definitely are other angles to this case besides those involving commercial fraud."

Another crony of Coster-Musica's who knew him when he was a world-famous spy-hunter was held at the federal building today on a charge of conspiracy to violate the federal laws. Old Crony Held

The arrest of Benjamin Simon, 49-year-old Bronx salesman with a police record, gave credence to a previously reported story of an old

Outstanding Christmas Feature

Share Honors In Western Show

Gene Autry and William Boyd share starring honors in the two big western pictures being double-billed at the Rialto theater for a three-day run starting tomorrow. Gene Autry brings new thrills, new songs to the screen in "Rhythm of the Saddle," his newest thrill-packed western with Smiley Burnette and Pert Kelton in supporting roles. William Boyd returns again the role of Clarence E. Mulford's Hopalong Cassidy in "The Frontiersman" with George Hayne and Russel Hayden as his two inseparable side-kicks. Romance enters the life of Cassidy in the person of Evelyn Venable, pretty screen favorite of several years standing. Clara Kimball Young is also in the large cast.

friend who met Musica one day when he was still "F. Donald Coster," respected president of McKesson and Robbins. "Why didn't you know?" Coster replied. "This very minute you became—" and he named a post in McKesson and Robbins.
