"Hold! Desist! Stop it!" cries John W. Public

INFREQUENTLY but occasionally somebody around our place gets to wondering why—since the Standard Symphony Hour reaches so many people and, after all, costs us a certain amount of money—we shouldn't accompany it sometimes with a wee plug for our products or our business. Everybody else, he argues, uses commercials.

We-ell, it always develops that the spirit of Barbara Fritchie is still abroad in the land. "Who touches a hair of you gray head (aged 13, now, and still going strong) dies like a dog..." So shouts the public in letters, telegrams and telephone calls which practically pound the table.

Now, it's mighty pleasing to know the public can get excited about something you're doing. And we're always particularly pleased to know the public wants the Symphony Hour as is. For, as we've told you before, we never meant it to sell anything—only to say "Thank you" to our friends and patrons.

The Standard Symphony Hour and its corollary, the Standard School Broadcast, are entering on a new Fall season of the finest music man can make. Every week, we hope, they'll come to your home, not in the spirit of "Gimme" but in the fairplay spirit of turn-about.

Mrs. Emerick To Visit Daughter Mrs. Bertha Mae Emerick left Thursday for San Francisco, Cal., to join her daughter, Miss Eleanor, a senior at the University of California in Berkeley.

Mrs. Emerick expects to remain a resident of the Bay region until her daughter's graduation this year.

McClures Hosts To Guests Here

Mr. and Mrs. W. H. McClure were hosts last week to several guests at their home on Beatty street.

Mrs. J. A. Knapp of Mt. Vernon, N. Y., visited for three days. She had spent the summer in California with friends and relatives and also attended the Golden Gate International Exposition on Treasure Island.

John Hunter McClure, a brother of the host, and his fiancée, Miss Jean Mitchell, both of Eureka, Cal., were here for three days during which time they enjoyed trips to valley points of interest.

Mrs. Robert Shepherd spoke to the group on "The History of A.A.U.W." and pointed out that it was formed in 1882 by seventeen young college women in an effort to assist women in finding careers after college.

Miss Carin Degermark presented a brief talk on "Fellowship." She said that graduate fellowships have been given by the organization for fifty years and that one-eighth of the national dues are used for this purpose.

"What A.A.U.W. Should Mean" was discussed by Mrs. Justin Smith. Social contacts and continuance of education work in study groups were among the functions she mentioned.

President Mrs. Yale chose the topic "What We Hope To Do This Year" and said that club horizons would be broadened both "painlessly and pleasantly."

Four study groups and their leaders for the year are: Music Appreciation, Esther Church Leake; Handicraft, Mrs. Darrell Huson; Arts and Decorations, Miss Catherine Campbell; International Relations, Mrs. John Lawrence.

Mrs. D. H. Perry told the group of her two daughters, the Misses Elizabeth and Frances Perry, trip to Europe. Elizabeth was awarded an art scholarship to University of Brussels while Frances traveled to many European countries.

Mrs. Helen Young entertained the meeting with several musical selections.

Map Shows Polish Losses

Just two weeks after bombs started raining down on Poland—and after the first week, as indicated by horizontal lines—Hitler forces held control of a sizable section of Western Poland with "squeeze" on Warsaw underway. Vertical lines indicate German gains of second week. The American embassy was at Salszczyki on Polish-Rumanian frontier.

GERMANS RESUME EFFORTS TO CRACK WARSAW DEFENSE

emphasized complete dissolution of Polish forces by an encirclement movement.

The situation in Warsaw, Polish capital, was left unanswered. The communique merely said no Polish negotiator had appeared by last midnight although Warsaw had asked for his reception.

Authoritative sources, however, said threatened bombardment of the city had not begun.

Lwow Fate Sealed The fate of Lwow, capital of the Polish Ukraine, 225 miles southeast of Warsaw, seemed sealed after its complete encirclement and after Lublin, about midway on the Warsaw-Lwow road, had been captured, Germans said.

One-fourth of the Polish army, the communique claimed, faced destruction or dissolution in a narrow compressed space southwest of Wazogroci, which is about 40 miles west of Warsaw.

The communique described the western front as quiet except that one French plane was shot down.

With the German military machine on the west, and the vast Soviet Russian army on the east, placing Poland in a mighty vice, authoritative sources here intimated they had information of an outbreak of civil war in Warsaw. They said one group was desirous of capitulating and another was determined to fight the invaders.

In the east, Russian forces which crossed the border yesterday were reported bearing down all along the extensive frontier which divides Poland from the Soviet.

News reaching Berlin indicated the Red troops had penetrated as much as 28 miles into Poland with little opposition, and no one here could guess where they proposed to stop.

(A Russian general staff communique in Moscow last night indicated their point of furthest penetration was Baranowice, a railroad center about 50 miles inside Poland from Russian frontier.)

RUSSIAN INVADERS AGAINST GERMANS

CEBRNAUTI, Rumania, Sept. 18.—(AP)—Major William H. Colburn, United States military attaché, said today the commander of a Soviet Russian tank he countered in Poland told him the Russians were "against the Germans."

Major Colburn, who has been in Poland as a military observer, said that yesterday he saw a column of 11-ton tanks on the road to Horodena, about 40 miles northeast of here, going in the same direction as some Polish troops.

One of them pulled aside, told him to halt and a Soviet officer came out. Major Colburn said he was cordial and polite. Colburn later talked to the tank commander and quoted the officer as saying "We are against the Germans."

Major Colburn said the Polish troops fraternized with the Russians and gave them cigarettes.

Kills Hawk TROUT RUN, Pa.—(UP)—A huge hawk swooped down upon a group of children picking berries in a swamp in Rose valley. One of the youths, Henry Stine, 14, picked up a bucket and hurled it at the bird, scoring a bullseye. The bird had a wingspread of three feet.
