Thirty-fourth Year

WASHINGTON, D. C., Sept. 20.—This is the zero hour. Tomorrow congress becomes a battlefield whereon will be fought out the question whether the mandatory embargo is repealed and the president's plan of "cash and carry" adopted. The administration is moving into action every ounce of its power to overcome the isolationists, the last-ditch senators, who are prepared to fight until overcome by sheer force of numbers.

Here is the picture on the eve of the special session of congress, called by the president for the express purpose of enacting legislation which will permit the United States to sell munitions and other supplies to Britain and France:
 At the White House, President Roosevelt is holding conference with the Democratic and Republican leaders of senate and house, discussing program for the session. Rev. James Shera Montgomery, chaplain of the house; Rev. Zebulon Thorne Phillips, chaplain of the senate, are drafting and rewriting prayers to be delivered tomorrow at 12 meridian, prayers for peace, to keep America out of war, prayers that the senators and representatives will be guided wisely in the course they pursue in coming weeks. (These prayers become part of the Congressional Record, available to posterity.)

PAINTERS giving finishing touches to senate and house chambers; the little tram car in the senate subway resumes operating; elevators are being manned by young men who study law while working their way as federal employees. Dr. Geo. W. Carter reopens his office in the capitol, ready to provide medical attention to every member of congress; doorkeepers and arms reporting to the sergeant-at-arms and grumbling that their vacations have been cut short; telegraph operators taking their positions in the press galleries; capitol police (also law students) being drilled and instructed; chairwomen being re-employed to clean and dust the offices of the legislators (neglected since August 5); clerks and secretaries busy assorting the thousands of telegrams and letters which de-

LEGION TO BACK CONGRESS POLICY
 PARIS, Sept. 20.—(AP)—The French government, facing collapse of its Polish ally under combined German and Russian assaults, adopted measures today to pursue the war "to definite victory."
 Premier Daladier's new war ministry at the same time reaffirmed its union with Great Britain and pledged that Poland, now facing dismemberment, would eventually be reconstituted.
 French attention shifted to the Aachen sector opposite Belgium where the Germans were reported massing reinforcements coming from Poland. French advisers asserted precautions already had been taken to meet any German repetition of the 1914 attack through Belgium to outflank the Maginot line.
 The cabinet communique, which was the first formal statement of French policy since the start of the European conflict September 3, implied firm rejection of any German overtures for peace on Nazi terms such as were read here into Adolf Hitler's speech at Danzig yesterday.

CHAMBERLAIN IN EXPLANATION OF SLOW OFFENSIVE
 Allies Will Not Rush Into Adventures Which Offer Little Prospect of Success Says Prime Minister

LONDON, Sept. 20.—(AP)—Prime Minister Chamberlain declared today that no threats could deter Britain and her allies from achieving their war aims but that "what we will not do is to rush into adventures that offer little prospect of success."
 With the obvious purpose of allaying public anxiety as to whether the western allies were striking vigorously enough against Germany, Chamberlain declared in the house of commons:
 "There is no sacrifice from which we will shrink. There is no operation we will not undertake provided our responsible advisers, our allies and we ourselves are convinced that it will make an appropriate contribution to victory."
 To Redeem Europe
 Replying to Adolf Hitler's Danzig speech yesterday Chamberlain said Britain's general war purpose was to "redeem Europe from the perpetual fear of German aggression and enable the peoples of Europe to preserve their independence and liberties."
 He added, "No threats will deter us or our French allies from this purpose."
 He said he would "not hazard a guess at this stage of the war as to when or where the decisive force will be assembled or when the decisive moment will arrive."
 He said this must depend upon events and added:
 "The scale of our preparations and the fact already announced, that we are basing them on the assumption that duration of the war may be at least three years insures that our strength will increase progressively to meet whatever may come."
 Bombing Shock World
 "Herr Hitler says much in his speech about the humane methods with which he has waged war," Chamberlain continued.
 "I can only say that methods are not made humane by calling them so and that accounts of German bombing of open towns and machine-gunning of refugees have shocked the whole world."
 It was the prime minister's third weekly report on the conflict.
 He announced the government calculated 139 British and neutral lives had been lost so far from submarine attacks, excluding the sinking of the aircraft carrier Courageous, and an additional 44 persons were reported missing. The admiralty reported 578 missing from the Courageous.

SLOVAKS TURN ON GERMANS

McNARY OPPOSES ANY CHANGES IN NEUTRALITY LAW

WASHINGTON, Sept. 20.—(AP)—President Roosevelt provoked his bi-partisan neutrality conference in the oval executive office of the White House this afternoon amid wide differences of opinion on the course America should follow to keep out of the European war.
 A short time before the meeting began it was announced that the capitol senate foreign relations committee would meet Friday for "expeditious action" on neutrality legislation.
 The conference also was preceded by expression of opinion from some of those attending. Among these Alf M. Landon, Republican party leader, urged congress meet continually during the European war because "there is more confidence in the united judgment of the representatives than in any one man's opinion."
 Senator McNary of Oregon, senate Republican chief, expressed opposition to making any changes in the present neutrality law, saying he believed that was the best policy for "keeping the country out of war."
 Senator McNary said he agreed with President Roosevelt that politics is out of the window for the special session.
 "No one is going to take any account of political partisanship," he said. "My sole concern is keeping the country out of war and I think this can best be accomplished by maintaining the present neutrality act."
 "Since war has commenced in Europe, I feel that any direct or indirect favoritism shown to any nation or group of nations might involve us in war."

JAPS SEEK FREE HAND WITH CHINA
 WASHINGTON, Sept. 20.—(AP)—Japanese Ambassador Kenesuke Hiro-nouchi revealed today the Japanese have begun informal talks with Britain and France in an effort to get them to withdraw their troops from China.
 The ambassador said in a press conference, that "friendly advice" had been given by Japan to Britain, France, Germany and Poland that belligerents must withdraw their forces from China.
 Britain and France are the only belligerents having forces there.
 "We sincerely hope that a settlement of this question can be arrived at through diplomatic negotiation," the ambassador said. "These negotiations are now going on in the form of informal talks."
 "This request is part of our policy to avoid involvement in the European war."

 "G. B. S." Sees Stalin Using Hitler as Catspaw in Poland
 LONDON, Sept. 20.—(AP)—George Bernard Shaw, the playwright, wrote to the editor of the Times today that he considered the news from Soviet Russia "good news for us, as far as any war news can be called good."
 "The question," said Shaw, "is not whether Mr. Molotov's speech resembles certain utterances of Herr Hitler or not. What concerns us is whether Mr. Molotov's statements are true or not. They are obviously true to the last syllable."
 Shaw added:
 "We have encouraged Poland to fight by our pledge to support her; and we have encouraged ourselves by silly reports that the Polish army was unbroken and that the Poles were performing prodigies of valor. The truth, as we now have to admit, and as Mr. Molotov notes, is that our support has so entirely failed that the Polish resistance has been wiped out and with it the Polish army and the Polish government, leaving Poland deserted to be picked up and put on by Herr Hitler as a shepherd put on his garment."
 "At this point, we being helpless, Mr. Stalin steps in and says 'Not quite. If the Ukraine and White Russia are going begging, Russia will occupy them, Hitler or no Hitler.'"
 "No sooner said than done. The red army is in occupation. Mr. Stalin, who was very explicit as to his objection to being made a catspaw to take our chestnuts off the fire, has no objection whatever to using Herr Hitler as a catspaw. The unfortunate Fuehrer is compelled to disgorge half his booty and to face yet another army saying 'Thus far and no further.'"
 "And instead of giving three cheers for Stalin we are shrieking that all is lost."
 "Mr. Stalin lately sent us a photograph of himself laughing at us. When will we learn to laugh at ourselves?"

 "The whole civilized world may once more see how correct were the vision and proposals of Rome," Il Popolo declared. "The war was as disastrous for Poland as it was tragically useless. Now that that prediction is fulfilled in the east, the same word of good sense may be repeated for the west."

FINAL APPROVAL OF CITY BUDGET SET FOR OCT. 3
 Final approval of the 1940 city budget was postponed to the next regular council meeting on October 3, by the citizens' budget committee and the council, meeting in joint session in the city hall last night. Considerable discussion was held relative to certain changes and additions in the budget.
 The joint meeting listened to a request by Sid Richardson of the Southern Oregon Humane society that the city's $600 allocation to the society be increased to $1000. Mr. Richardson stated that a reduction in the dog license fee had made it virtually impossible for the society to continue the present service without a deficit. The society receives a portion of the money collected from licenses. George Hiles, chairman of the citizens' budget committee, was appointed to contact the county court concerning the request.
 Defer Salary Action.
 No action was taken by the joint meeting on the recent request from a committee of firemen that minimum salaries of firemen be increased to the minimum level of police salaries. No action was taken on a request by Councilman George Frey to increase the salary of the assistant police chief.

Jackson, member of the citizens' budget committee and president of the Jackson County Chamber of Commerce, the sum of $500 was earmarked in the budget for Medford municipal airport promotion, the money to augment the regular chamber airport fund and be administered by the chamber.
