SIX FOREST FIRES SET BY LIGHTNING SOON IN CONTROL

Six Rogue River national forest fires caused by lightning yesterday were being put out today. The fire in each case was confined to the single tree struck by the lightning. Five of the fires were in the Applegate district and one was in the Union Creek district. Headquarters here feared the lightning might have caused other fires that had not shown up yet. While the rain and fog favored fire control today, the forest floor would dry out quickly should a dry east wind develop and hazards would appear again, said Simeri Jarvi, fire chief, in urging continuance of care with fire in forest areas. All forest regulations are still in force and will continue in effect until terminated by proclamation by Gov. Charles A. Sprague. Mr. Jarvi emphasized, hence, he pointed out, campfire permits are still required. No lightning fires were reported in forest areas under state protection, the district warden's office here said. Reduction of the state's fire-fighting personnel would be started tonight, the office stated. Yesterday's rain in the Rogue River national forest varied from 1.19 inches in the Wagner butte section of the Applegate district to .07 of an inch in the panhandle section of the Union Creek district.

GERMANY, ITALY SEEN IN ACCORD ON NEXT MOVES

Germany reported the first German troops had moved into shattered Warsaw "without incident." Defenders of the Heia peninsula forts, "the last point of Polish resistance," were said to have surrendered unconditionally. Soviet Russian forces pushed communication of eastern Poland which the Red army occupied in dividing Poland with Germany. West Front Calm On the western front, a French communique said "the night was relatively calm." Germany reported "merely local artillery and reconnoitering activity" in the west, but said one British scouting plane had been shot down. French dispatches indicated the British-French forces were consolidating their positions and had removed thousands of small mines left behind by the Germans.

Britain Will Stay "We are going on to the end," Britain's first lord of the admiralty, Winston Churchill said in a vigorous Sunday night speech. Churchill's words were backed up by a royal proclamation calling up an additional 250,000 men to the colors. In summing up the first month of conflict, Churchill said "Russia has warned Hitler off his eastern dreams" of expansion into southeastern Europe.

Soviet Russia continued active extension of her influence over surrounding European nations. Latvia's foreign minister was summoned to Moscow. Informed quarters said his trip was for negotiating a "nonaggression" pact giving Russia military and naval concessions such as those obtained last week from nearby Estonia. The Turkish foreign minister, Sukru Saracoglu, had a four-hour conference Sunday night with Joseph Stalin and there were reports Russia was demanding the Dardanelles, entrance to the Black sea be closed to belligerent warships if Russia were involved in war.

Kremlin Has Plan Diplomats believed the Kremlin was setting up a plan designed to keep southeastern Europe neutral under Russian leadership. Some informed Moscow quarters expected Soviet demands on Rumania would be presented for return of Bessarabia, the rich oil district which Russia lost after the World war.

Hughes to Write Football Yarns For Mail Tribune

Bernie Hughes, former University of Oregon all-star center, a star in professional gridiron ranks for three years and one of the greatest players ever developed at Medford high school, has joined the sports staff of the Mail Tribune.

Beginning tomorrow, Hughes will write a weekly yarn on prep football in southern Oregon. In his role of official for high school games played in this district Bernie will be in a position to analyze the strength and weakness of Medford, Ashland, Grants Pass and Klamath Falls teams, and the impressions he gains from officiating in games played by these teams will be revealed in his stories. Bernie's first literary offering will deal with the Ashland-Grants Pass game of last Friday night, won by the Cavemen, 12 to 0. His next week's story will be based on the Medford-Grants Pass battle. These weekly features by Hughes will be another addition to the complete local and national football coverage offered its readers by the Mail Tribune.

ERRANT SPRING UNDER BUILDING TO PROVIDE AIR COOLING SYSTEM

PHILADELPHIA—(UP)—Engineers supervising construction of the new municipal court building put their minds to good use when confronted with a baffling underground spring that poured out 200 gallons of water a minute. The stream for a while held up construction until foundations were sunk 22 feet into the ground. But the engineers still had the water seepage problem.

Tests were made of the spring and showed it always was 58 degrees and clean enough to drink. The engineers then came upon a novel scheme for air-conditioning the "Palace of Justice" at a big saving in the city water supply. Ducts will carry the cooled and humidified air to every part of the building except the "cooler," or cell block in the basement. The underground stream also passes by the public library, across the street from the court building. Franklin H. Price, librarian, said the association often thought of using the water for air-conditioning—"but we haven't even the money we need for books."

So gratifying have been the results of the mission that it has been decided to send a new mission to other Latin American countries, including Mexico, Cuba, Columbia, Venezuela and Peru.

ORDEAL IS TOLD BY BLAZED TREE

VICTORIA, B. C.—(AP)—After several years' study by experts, the mystery of inscriptions found on a blazed tree near Moricetown has been unraveled. J. B. Munro, a provincial official, obtained a translation from Indians as follows: "Here very long way we have traveled. Very bad storm. Cha. Mischel. This is my word." Following the trail further, Munro found an elderly Indian named Mischel in the vicinity and the latter told him he had a companion left to death in a blizzard. After much hardship, he continued, they came out alive.
