Bette Davis in "The Old Maid"

The dramatic and intimate story of a woman who had to hide her true love from the whole world brings Bette Davis, Hollywood's finest actress, to the Criterion theatre Sunday for a three-day engagement in "The Old Maid," with Miriam Hopkins starring opposite. Awarded the Pulitzer prize as a play, cherished as a novel, its stirring story springs from the heart of a woman to touch the heart of the world.

Miss Davis is cast as Charlotte Lovell and Miss Hopkins is cast as her cousin, both of them living in aristocratic old Philadelphia in the days during the Civil war.

George Brent heads the supporting cast which includes Donald Crisp, Jane Bryan, Louise Fazenda and Cecilia Loftis.
