

BUSINESS WOMEN OBSERVE CENTURY OF PROGRESSION

October 8 to 14 Set Aside for Review of Achievements—Dance Friday to Aid Student Loan Fund

The Medford Business and Professional Women's Club will observe National Business Women's week, October 8 to 14th. The theme is "One Hundred Years of Women's Progress in the United States."

The International Federation of Business and Professional Women, of which the Medford Club is affiliated, is the largest organization of business and professional women in the world, having approximately 100,000 members grouped in 2,000 individual organizations. It is non-partisan and non-sectarian. The aim is to elevate the standards for women in business and the professions.

Achievements Stressed National Business Women's week is set aside annually to call attention to the achievements of women in business and the professions and to give the community at large an opportunity to become acquainted with the program of the Business and Professional Women's Club.

A statement by the International organization points out that one hundred years ago the industrial revolution was beginning in America. The spinning jenny and the power loom had been invented and were making it possible for cloth to be made in new ways. Growth of mill towns was taken for granted, and young women who had been earning their livelihoods at just six occupations—keeping books, teaching young children, typesetting, book-binding, domestic service, and needlework—found a new occupation as weavers in the mills.

501 Occupations Now The 1930 census shows that of some 535 classifications of occupations listed, women were engaged in 501. And so in 100 years, women have advanced from seven fields to 501; doors of opportunity for women are opening wider and wider. But the end is not yet, and perhaps 100 more years will pass until the world will allow women to make their best contribution, and women will be helping to make it.

"In 100 years American women have come a long way," says the statement, "just as our country has come a long way, but we still have a journey to make, both as women and as citizens."

"Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt said in response to the question, what were the chief obstacles to employment in the path of American women 100 years ago? 'I should say that in 1839 the chief obstacles in the path of employment for American women, were, first, the attitude held by both men and women as to the proper kind of work which women should do.'"

Immense improvement has come about in the raising of wages, the lowering of hours and the betterment of plant equipment, the women's organization statement points out.

"We know where we stood 100 years ago, where we stand today, and what we must do in the years ahead." One of the most outstanding projects of the Medford Club is a student loan fund. Loans are made to girls desirous of obtaining a higher education. Friday evening, October 13, the club is sponsoring an informal dance at the Oriental Gardens to raise money for the student loan

NEW POSTOFFICE FOR SHADY COVE

A new postoffice has been established and will be opened soon at Shady Cove with Mrs. Lillian Hukill as postmistress. It was disclosed yesterday at Medford postoffice.

Mrs. Hukill has built a new frame, one-story building to house the postoffice and a general store which she will operate. The building is situated on the west side of Crater Lake highway at the south side of the Shady Cove bridge.

When the postoffice is opened, residents within a quarter-mile will go to the postoffice for their mail. The mail will be delivered to the postoffice by a star route carrier from Medford. The territory heretofore has been served directly by star and rural route carriers operating out of Medford.

It was understood Mrs. Hukill ranked first in an examination for the position and was recommended by the Jackson county Democratic central committee.

PROSPECT YOUTH WALKS INTO CAR

Ten-year-old Robert Byrd of Prospect suffered a small fracture of the right ankle and minor lacerations yesterday afternoon when he walked into a car driven by V. W. Hay of Eagle Point at the intersection of Central avenue and Sixth street, city police reported.

The automobile was traveling south on Central avenue and just as it crossed the pedestrian lane on the south side of Central avenue the Byrd boy stepped off the curb at the Woolworth corner and struck the car, police said they learned.

The boy was taken to a nearby doctor's office and his broken ankle was set, after which he was removed to his home. His attending physician said he wasn't seriously injured.

DON'T TEASE DOGS, KIDDIES WARNED

Following several complaints received from parents that their children had been bitten by dogs, city police yesterday issued a warning to kiddies to not tease the animals and save themselves possible injury.

Many times, police said, children were bitten by dogs after teasing them with sticks, rocks and other things.

COMMUNITY CHEST DRIVE WILL OPEN VISIT HERE SOON

Annual Community Chest campaign to raise welfare funds for 1939-40 will start Tuesday morning and will continue during the remainder of October.

Headquarters in the old Jackson County bank premises at the northeast corner of Central avenue and Main street will be opened at 9 a. m. tomorrow. Men and women volunteers who are willing to assist by serving on the general staff of solicitors are asked to report at headquarters at any convenient hour tomorrow. Those who have already volunteered will report Tuesday morning.

All the receipts this year will be net, there being no administration or solicitation expense, headquarters emphasized. Everyone on the staff, including members of the executive committee, will be an active worker in the campaign. It was explained. All the usual miscellaneous items of administration have been donated this year, including the premises for headquarters, printing and advertising.

As a departure from the practice of past years, no goal will be set in this year's campaign. Instead, it was explained, as large a fund as possible will be raised. The executive committee said it was of the opinion that there would be a greater need for the work of the Community Chest participating welfare agencies this winter than in any other recent year.

After the campaign the fund raised will be budgeted among the six participating agencies. The agencies are the Salvation Army, Jackson County Public Health association, American Red Cross, Girls Community club, Boy Scouts and Girl Scouts.

The Medford campaign will use the national slogan, "Good American and Good Neighbor," as well as its local slogan, "Give At Least One Day's Pay."

The usual practice of solicitation will be carried out during the campaign but contributions may also be left at headquarters. The territory embraced by the Community Chest includes Medford and environs, Phoenix, Jacksonville and Central Point and the rural areas adjacent to these towns.

Everyone was invited to visit headquarters during the campaign to see the various exhibits arranged by the participating agencies and to procure any kind of information that might be wanted regarding the work of the agencies or any other phase of the Community Chest.

"This is a community affair in which we are all workers and we want everyone to feel free to ask questions at any time regarding any element of Community Chest affairs," a statement from the executive committee said. "We know that anyone who calls at headquarters will receive all the information he might want and so we not only invite but urge everyone who is not fully informed of the work of the Community Chest to call at headquarters whenever it is convenient."

URGE ATTENDANCE RED CROSS MEET

Mrs. Alfred S. V. Carpenter, chairman of the Jackson County chapter of the war relief production committee, urges that all women interested attend the round table discussion following the annual regional convention of the American Red Cross to be held in the county courthouse auditorium at 10 a. m. Thursday.

Mrs. Mabel E. Axline, director of the volunteer service of the war relief production will lead the discussion at the roundtable session which starts at 2 o'clock.
