

NAZI MOTORSHIP IN CHILE AFTER HIDE AND SEEK

Vessel Which Fled From Everett Has Exciting Run Down Coast; Crew 'Broke' One Member Reports

EVERETT, Wash., Oct. 12.—(AP)—Safe but "broke" in Chile after an exciting flight down the west coast of the Americas are the officers and seamen who manned the Portland, big German motorship which was in northwest waters when war was declared.

This was the word received by Roy Schfield of Everett from Valparaiso, Chile, from a member of the crew. The story of the flight from Everett, where the ship discharged its passengers and hoisted its anchor late on the night of August 30, was one of narrow escapes and constant panic jobs. The ship was painted and off Chile it was only the timely arrival of a dense fog bank that saved the freighter.

The ship had left Everett reportedly for Portland, Ore., but out of the harbor here the sailors went to work with their brushes and painted out the craft's name and insignia, substituting that of a French ship. About three days later, the letter said, a radio message was intercepted indicating that the guise had been discovered, so another change was made, this time to a Japanese name and appearance.

Some days out of Everett the Portland saw two cruisers. The letter did not indicate their nationality or whether there was any pursuit. Just off Coquimbo, Chile, a British warship was sighted but a dense fog came up and the ship steered into it. By the time the mist had dissipated the Portland was safe in neutral waters.

MODERN COMPLEXITIES OBSCURE GOD; WEATHERFORD AVERS

In a pulpit editorial before his audience last night, Rev. Fred M. Weatherford, pastor, Medford Church of the Nazarene said:

We live in an age of complexities. The scientific field today is an amazing in its scope of complexities as it is enlightening in its scope of revelation. Religion is likewise a maze of complexities. Truth is more often perverted than revealed by religionists. There are many philosophies of religion, but only one orthodox evangelical brand and only one plan of salvation. The field of education has resolved itself into an inexplicable system of complex ideas. This system of ideas, which enlightens mankind, also threatens like a parasitic growth, to kill the very civilization it has produced. It is significant that our educational system, while improving the mental powers of man, remains impotent to improve his character.

War, which was once inevitable because of the greeds and passions of men is now thrice inevitable because of the false philosophies created by man's presumably intellectual innovations.

Civilization is endangering itself by the elimination of Christianity. Where material values are given pre-eminence above the spiritual, Christian ideals cease to be vital. When Christian ideals cease to be vital paganism moves to the throne.

No one would question today that we live in a militant world, but our militancy is set up on a wrong course. The militancy we need today is a spiritual one. A militancy that will lead us out of our maze of material complexities. We need a rejection and overthrow of the false gods of material philosophies. We need a system like Elijah instituted to overthrow the false philosophies of his day, by demonstrating the power of God.

No statesman of today is capable of leading a people in the political world, except he who worships the God of Elijah. A statesman should be known as much for piety as for his political sagacity. Only God can build a character that is worthy of leadership. To this end more is required in personality than magnetism, or intellectual ability. Character at its best is individuality animated by God.

There is being tolsted upon the world today systems of national leadership, which place the state above the individual. In these systems, duty to the state is taught as a substitute for duty to God. They teach that the individual and his freedom, must be suppressed in the interests of the state. They pretend that the strength of government is a substitute for the strength of the individual. But where the rights of the individual are taken from him, he is weakened. We challenge the statement that a government built on a mass of weakened individuals can endure.

Our government was built by men whose lives took their roots in God. It was George Washington, the father of this country, who said "Whatever may be conceded to the

BLACK BEAR COAL TO UNDERGO TEST BY GOVERNMENT

Samples of coal are being taken from the Black Bear mine on Roxy Anne for tests under the float-sink process. It was disclosed today by J. E. Morrison of Grants Pass, mining geologist of the Oregon state department of geology and mineral industries.

From 1500 to 2000 pounds of coal will be taken from the mine and tests will be made at the Seattle headquarters of the U. S. bureau of mines and also by the Oregon department of geology and mineral industries, Mr. Morrison said.

If the tests show that the coal is of such quality as to warrant further production, a float-sink machine, perfected by the DuPont company, may be installed at the mine, the geologist stated.

There is a large quantity of coal in the Roxy Anne vein and the mine has been producing a few tons of hand-sorted coal monthly, Mr. Morrison said.

The float-sink tests are to be made at the suggestion of Albert Burch, consulting mining engineer, D. Ford McCormick, another Medford mining engineer, is also interested in the experiment.
