Billy Hulén says:
Pickem Proudly
Points To .528
Predicting Pct.

Mr. I. Pickem breaks precedent today by showing the review of his week-end prognostication activity right up to the head of the Monday "colyum," instead of burying it in shame at the tail end of the usual wash-day stint.

Today is a historic occasion in I. Pickem's harassed existence, for on this afternoon he is able to announce that the old batting average has moved into the .500 class—to be exact, .528. Thus, I. Pickem will be free to walk down Main street in the daytime.

The grid predictor came up with a .667 percentage over the week-end, clicking for six wins and three losses, while three games ended in ties. His masterpiece was the Klamath Falls-Ashland struggle, which he called as a six-touchdown Klamath victory. The score was 39 to 0, right on the heater.

Other correct picks were Medford over Eugene, Oregon State over Portland, Oregon over California, U. S. C. over Illinois, and Tulane over Fordham. Pickem missed when Pitt nosed Duke, Southern Methodist failed to upset Notre Dame and Washington State did upset Washington. Ties were Purdue-Minnesota, Stanford-UCLA and Dartmouth-Navy.

Pickem proudly presents the following season's average, and forecasts that he might even lift the figure to .547 before the grid year is ended:

Won	Lost	Ties	PCT.
19	17	6	.528

It is becoming increasingly apparent that the current Medford high football team is blessed with that something-or-other which enables it to produce touchdowns when they are most needed. So far this season the Tigers have not failed to turn on the scoring heat when they had to.

Against a fine Eureka team Friday night the locals came from behind once, in the second period to tie the score at 6-6, then had what it took to strike for two touchdowns in the final two minutes of play to break a 12 to 12 deadlock and win 24-12.

In the Corvallis game the Tornado was behind twice in the first half, but both times overcame the Spartan lead and went on to win by a count of 31 to 14. It was the same in the Weed game—the red and black team trailed twice during the struggle—but a rousing 13-point spurge in the final heat brought victory, 26 to 10.

We believe the main reason for the Tornado's happy faculty in being able to get touchdowns in the clutch is the excellent physical condition of the squad as a whole. It appears the locals are in better shape than their opponents, therefore having the oomph in the second half to run the opposition off its feet.

It was a last-quarter, two-touchdown rally that beat Eureka. It was a 12-point, third period blast that clinched things against Corvallis. And, it was a three-touchdown flurry in the second half, two of them in the last quarter, that defeated Weed.

Figures on the Tornado's four games bear out this assumption. To date, Medford has scored 19 touchdowns, and 11 of them have been rammed across in the second half. Breaking down the figures further, it is seen that the Tigers have scored six touchdowns in the fourth quarter, five in the third and four each in the second and first. In short, the fourth period has been Medford's big scoring quarter. All of which shows, we believe, that superior condition on the part of the locals is proving a very vital factor in the winning football being displayed by Bowerman's team.

That yellow grid-guessing sheet was mighty tough again, most of the boys biting the dust on a series of tie games and minor upsets, etc. Jimmy Valentine held a half-share in a five-buck, four-game ticket that won 40 potatoes, but with the exception of several small winnings the local "experts" took it on the chin for the second straight week.

What ruined most of the fellows was that Furman-Citadel affair, which Furman won, 7 to 0, on a seven-point spot. Which made the game a tie and broke numerous hearts. There was quite a play on Iowa, with 13 points, against Michigan, and the latter won, 27 to 7, which cracked a few more pumpers.

Nazi Villain to Face Chick in Armory Grapple Tonight

COWBOY PLANS TO MAR UNDEFEATED SCHULZ RECORD

Pete Belcastro Guns For L-Rance In Middle Go — El Pulpo, Levin in Opener.

The sensational victory string of Hans (Hitler) Schulz, which now stretches to five straight without the semblance of a setback, may be rudely chopped off in the armory tonight when the big, brutal German wrestler goes against Cowboy Dude Chick in the one hour main event.

The sentiment among Medford's grappling observers, while not overly leaning toward a Chick victory, is nevertheless strong enough to indicate that the Wyoming cow hand, with his larist spin and superb mat ability, is expected to take the Nazi badman apart for his first defeat in a southern Oregon safe arena.

All-Star Card But regardless of whether Chick is able to wallop the Hun hombre and bring joy to the multitude, Promoter Mack Lillard has set up a program that is bound to send the customers home with a satisfied feeling in their bones.

In the first place, after that colossal main event, the maestro has slated Pete Belcastro, Weed Italian, against Speedy LaRance of Canada, in the middle event. If the top brawl doesn't turn out to be all the doctor ordered, the middle tie certainly should knock 'em dead. Burned to a crisp because he didn't get a return match with Schulz, after heading him all the way until he ruined his head via a trip through the ropes last Monday, Belcastro is preparing to give LaRance a terrific going over in order to win favor with the powers that be and project himself into main-event contention for next week's card.

LaRance, fresh from a two-straight-fall victory over David Levin last week, doesn't believe Pete can stop him. The clever Canadian is confident he can whip Belcastro on superior wrestling ability and a better knowledge of leverage, and many fans are of the same opinion.

To open the program, El Pulpo will collide with Dave Levin. Although losing his first match here last Monday to Chick, El Pulpo displayed a fine variety of holds and is fast becoming a big favorite.

Nazi Menace Awaits Spin

Unbeaten Hans (Hitler) Schulz (above) may get a taste of Cowboy Dude Chick's spectacular larist spin when they clash in the armory main event tonight, and if he does the odds are long that his winning streak will be snapped at five straight. The Chick match is expected to be the toughest Schulz has yet faced.

Grid Teams of Pop Warner And Amos Stagg Play Friday

San Francisco, Oct. 16.—(AP)—Pisnik preview and review: Far from the scenes of their greatest triumphs, in a tiny stadium on the campus of a tiny college, two old men will pace the sidelines one night this week during a game that will add a colorful bit of history to the sport of football.

College of the Pacific and San Jose State college, meeting in Stockton Friday night, will have nothing to settle in the way of a championship but on one side of the field will be Amos Alonzo Stagg, on the other, Glenn Scobey "Pop" Warner.

They're the coaching patriarchs of the country and between them this fall they have accumulated the grand total of 95 years of teaching gridiron tactics to college boys.

White haired, 77-year old Stagg is the first man ever to coach the sport 50 years. His seventh season at Pacific, after 41 years at Chicago and two at Springfield, (Mass.) college, saw him produce one of the first and biggest upsets of the fall. Pacific defeated the University of California, 6 to 0.

Warner, a hulking figure of a man, depends on a cane to help him get around these days. He's nine years younger than Stagg but Stagg always addresses him as "Pop."

After coaching at Iowa State, Georgia, Cornell, Carlisle, Pittsburgh, Stanford and Temple, Warner is rounding out his 45th year as associate coach at San Jose.

When Stagg and Warner last matched grid strategy it was as coach of Chicago and Carlisle respectively—in 1907. Carlisle won, 18 to 4. Thanksgiving day in Chicago, before a crowd of 25,000.

Oregon State, only undefeated, untied member of the circuit, will line up favored to win from Washington.

California supporters look for a win over Washington State this week.

Oregon takes on Gonzaga in a non-conference affair. University of California at Los Angeles meets Montana.

Idaho, beaten in and out of the conference, meets Utah in an inter-sectional joust expected to end up with a decidedly Utah flavor.

The Sunday thriller of the season in this section is slated for San Francisco, where 50,000 fans are expected to sit in on the annual St. Mary's-Santa Clara battle.

From Sardinia Creek—Mr. and Mrs. John Lister, owner of the House of Mystery on Sardinia creek, transacted business and called upon friends here today.

The Grange

Gold Hill Grange Gold Hill Grange met October 5 with several members present who have been absent for some time. Senator and Mrs. Johnson of Rogue River Grange in Josephine county, and Mr. and Mrs. P. L. Walt of Live Oak Grange, were visitors.

Senator Johnson is on the state Grange executive committee and is county judge of Josephine county. He gave a fine talk on welfare and social problems. Other visitors spoke briefly.

Floyd Walsh was obligated in the first and second degrees by E. C. Fiene, past master.

Nora Walt invited Gold Hill Grangers to Live Oak Grange October 16 when Mrs. Lathrop will speak. Lecturer's program under the new lecturer, William Greenleaf, included songs and speaking. Refreshments were served by Hazel Shunterman, Lillie McKay, Caroline Bieser, Lucille and Everett Rosenkrans.

H. E. C. met at the hall October 10 with good attendance. "Go To Church Sunday" will be observed October 22. After church a pot luck dinner will be served and Mr. Messenger and family invited.

Some of the ladies are trying to organize a Red Cross unit and will meet with the health unit at the Hayes home October 16. The meeting enjoyed lunch served by the ladies.

Griffin Creek Grange The benign spirit of Griffinella I pervaded the all-day meeting of Griffin Creek's Home Economics club, October 12, when the ladies convalesced with Mrs. Nella Young to complete plans for serving their annual harvest home sausage supper.

Pumpkins, apple pies, fall salad, pickles and jellies and all the other trimmings lay in Griffinella I's wake as Griffinella II, hog-royal, took her pledge to uphold tradition as "sausage supreme" for the festival October 26 at the K. P. hall in Medford. Clyde Sturgill, Roy Le Vander and Rufus Fann will reign as chefs to keep the sausage constantly sizzling on the grids.

Every lady in the H. E. C. received an appointment, with view to facilitating prompt service of the supper between 6:30 and 8:00 p. m., at which time a dance will begin.

With 13 members and all officers present, routine business made a swift circuit.

Two names, Mrs. Myrtle Wilson and Mrs. Stella Good were added to the H. E. C. register. It was announced that assorted Christmas card boxes and possibly Christmas wrappings will be on sale under sponsorship of ways and means committee. Ethel Guches and Maud Arnold.

"Pie" recipes with exact measurements and method of combining are desired for the state grange cook book. Recipes entered must be signed by the submitter and his grange affiliate and may be turned in to the H. E. C. chairman at next meeting, November 9. This meeting assemblies for another all-day pot-luck event, with Sister Ethel Guches, and quilting will be the primary issue.

Lake Creek LAKE CREEK, Oct. 16 —(Sp)—Mr. Warren and Frank Armstrong of Washington were recent, overnight guests of Mr. and Mrs. C. R. Moore. The Armstrongs were old time residents of this community.

Mrs. Elizabeth Grissom has returned home from a visit with her daughter, Mrs. Chas. Gingsade and Mrs. Florence Coe of Klamath Falls.

Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Gingsade were Sunday callers at the Tonn home.

Mrs. Marjorie Hobbs and baby of Eagle Point were recent overnight guests of Mrs. Frank Farlow.

Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Bates have been visiting Mrs. Ed Meyer.

Mrs. Ethel Beefft spent Sunday with Mrs. Ella Tyrrell at Dead Indian.
