Billy Hulen says:

Webfoots Still Face Terrific Grid Schedule

It was the general opinion of football phibbers, before the season opened, that if Tex Oliver's Oregon Webfoots could manage to come through their first three games unscathed the worst of their suicide schedule would be completed and the Eugene boys might even get a scent of Pasadena roses.

Of course, there wasn't one grid fan in a thousand who gave the Oregons more than a fighting chance to go through the first three weeks undefeated. Although such a performance admittedly was possible, it was deemed highly improbable.

Now that the amazing has been done, with the Webfoots perched at the head of the Pacific Coast conference standings with two wins, a tie and no setbacks, the boys and girls are wondering, if after all, Oregon is really over the hill, or if the remainder of the schedule may prove about as tough as the initial trio of struggles.

As Fred Hampson of the A.P. remarked, "The miracle has been managed, but the weary Oregons still can't afford to relax." Those words appear to be so truthful they hurt.

Gonzaga is next on the Duck slate, at Eugene Saturday afternoon, and what was figured pre-seasonally as a breather after the U. S. C., Stanford and California fracas may develop into a major encounter. Gonzaga wasn't rated too highly early this fall, especially after being stopped by Washington State and St. Mary's. But the Zags came back to whip Texas Tech and St. Idaho, the latter by a 19 to 0 count last week, and all of a sudden the realization has struck that Mr. Puggy Hunton has himself a football team up there in Spokane.

Following the Gonzaga game the Webfoots travel to Los Angeles to tackle U. C. L. A. on October 28, and everybody knows this will be a whale of a battle. Oregon never has done too well against the Bruins, who seem above average this year.

After the Los Angeles jaunt comes Washington State at Eugene. Until last Saturday the Cougars were considered the conference weak sisters, but that 6 to 0 upset of Washington killed off any assumptions the Palouse boys would be easy stuff. Nope, they'll be plenty tough from now on and Oregon won't be able to let down for a single moment.

Oregon State follows W. S. C. on the Webfoot slate, and there is no need to point out that the Beavers will be dynamite. After the Oregon State game comes Oregon's only open date of the season, on November 18, and the week following they travel to Seattle to engage Washington. Regardless of what Washington does throughout the season it is always at peak for Oregon.

So it really looks like Oliver's crew has only just begun to play football. Those first three tilts were hard ones, make no mistake, but the four conference and one non-league affairs com-

Lee Mayfield, Klamath Falls Tackle, Dropped From Team

ACTION DEVELOPS TWO DAYS BEFORE MEDFORD FRAGAS

No Reason Given Why Star Is Dropped—No Others Affected, Says Principal

Leland Mayfield, 216-pound tackle for the Klamath Falls high school football team, has been dropped from the squad two days before the crucial Klamath-Medford game in Klamath Falls Friday night, it was learned by The Mail Tribune this afternoon.

An Associated Press message from Klamath Falls, in answer to a query from here, reported that "Leland Mayfield dropped from team, but no other players ineligible, according to Principal Lloyd Emery." Emery is principal of Klamath Falls high school.

Reported Here
The disclosure of the dropping of Mayfield from the Pelican team followed apparently untrue reports circulated freely in Medford that Mayfield, along with two other Pelican players, had been declared ineligible. The reports, or rumors, were to the effect that the players were over-age.

Medford high school officials today admitted they had heard the rumors, but could shed no light on their inception. Principal Leonard Mayfield of Medford high said he had heard that three Klamath players were ineligible, but that he didn't know who they were, who started the report nor why they were ineligible, if they were. Coach Bill Bowerman of the Black Tornado said he had heard the same reports, but that he didn't know where they started.

Star Last Year
Mayfield was one of the stalwarts of the Klamath team last year, being chosen for the left tackle position on the All-Southern Oregon conference first team. He was a regular this season until the Ashland-Klamath game last Friday night, when he failed to start the battle.

Whether Mayfield was dropped from the team because of over-age, scholastic difficulties or poor condition is not known here.

ing up look just as mean. If, by any remote chance, Oregon goes to the Rose Bowl this season they and everybody will know the honor was earned.

A letter received from George M. Smith, secretary of the Tulelake-Butte Valley Sportsmen's association in northern California, indicates that hunters of geese and ducks will be favored with excellent sport this fall.

Smith writes: "There are thousands of honkers here the year around and the other geese are coming in by the thousands daily. From all indications we will have as good shooting here this fall as we had last year, which all agreed was the best ever. The Specs and snow geese are arriving in increasing numbers daily. The duck flight, according to information I got from the biological survey headquarters, is far ahead of last year."

CAVEMEN FROSH HERE THURSDAY

Junior High Conference

W. L. P. C.
Medford	1	0	1,000
Grants Pass	1	0	1,000
Ashland	0	2	2,000

Undisputed leadership of the Southern Oregon junior high school football conference will be at stake here tomorrow night when Riney Cook's Medford freshmen meet the Grants Pass freshmen in a night game at the stadium starting at 8 o'clock. It will be the first home game of the season for the local juniors, who boast a 32 to 0 trouncing of Ashland for their initial conference action.

Although on comparative scores the Medford team is potentially stronger than the Clatsop City boys, Grants Pass having beaten Ashland by a 13 to 0 count, Coach Cook expects his team to run up against one of its toughest opponents.

George Harrington has been named referee, with George Robertson umpire and Ivan Harrington head linesman.

school will advance from a class B to a class A institution this year still is a question. . . if enrollment at the school reaches the 150 mark by November 24 it automatically becomes class A and will be forced to cease athletic relations with class B schools and join with Ashland, Grants Pass and Medford. . . enrollment at present is 146, just four students shy of the dividing mark, and H. P. Jewett, superintendent, said yesterday he didn't expect the enrollment to reach 150.

Teams in the Jackson county class B high school six-man football conference will take a rest this week because of teachers' institute. The next games are scheduled for October 27, with Pat Patterson's Jacksonville unbeaten traveling to Talent and Gold Hill playing at Phoenix.

By beating Phoenix last Friday, 25 to 6, Jacksonville clinched at least a tie for the championship. The leaders are two full games ahead of second-place Gold Hill, with only two tilts remaining on the schedule.

The other game saw Gold Hill beat Talent, 14 to 6.

THREE MILLION IN LOAN FOR BRAZIL

Washington, Oct. 18.—(AP)—The treasury, it was learned today, has sold $3,000,000 worth of gold to Brazil in a step designed to use the government's vast gold holding to promote trade with Latin America.

Brazil, it was understood, will leave the gold on deposit in the New York Federal Reserve bank and use it as collateral for temporary borrowings.

Last week, President Roosevelt told reporters negotiations were near completion with two or three Latin American countries on the use of gold treasury to improve trade.

In the case of Brazil, which may serve as a precedent for similar procedure with other Latin American countries, the gold will enable Brazil to provide its businessmen with dollars to pay for United States merchandise in seasons when Brazil has a dollar shortage.
