

OREGON PRIMARY WILL GAIN COLOR BY McNARY BOOM

Eyes of Nation Will Be On State Next May — Gives Convention Bargain Power

By Paul V. Harvey, Jr.
Salem, Oct. 20.—(AP)—When Governor Sprague launched Senator McNary's presidential boom two weeks ago, he assured Oregon of one of the most colorful primaries in history.

Next May Oregonians will decide whom they want for their presidential nominees and the eyes of the nation will be on the Beaver state for some indications as to what the country wants.

On the Democratic side, former Gov. Charles H. Martin will be leading the fight for Vice-president Garner, while Willis Mahoney, former Klamath Falls mayor who has been defeated by Martin, McNary and U. S. Sen. Rufus Holman, will be heading the Roosevelt forces.

But on the Republican half of the ticket there will be the name of a favorite son—Charles L. McNary, senate leader of the Republican party and a member of the upper house for 22 years. Opposing him may be Senator Taft of Ohio, Senator Vandenberg of Michigan and District Attorney Thomas E. Dewey of New York City.

However, Oregon Republican leaders don't think McNary has much chance of winning the nomination. Oregon has only five electoral votes out of 531, whereas presidential nominees usually come from bigger states.

The object in pledging Oregon's Republican delegation to McNary would be to give this state some "bargaining power" at the convention. A state pledged to a favorite son always is in a better strategic position than one pledged to an outsider.

In Line For Rewards
If the favorite son doesn't get any place, that state is wooed and courted by the camps of the leading contenders. Sometimes such a state gets major political rewards, such as a vice-presidential nomination for its favorite son. This really is what McNary's supporters are angling for.

In times past, Oregon's delegations have been pledged to candidates who didn't have any chance whatever. This, party leaders feel, has made Oregon look ridiculous.

The Oregon Statesman, published by Governor Sprague, points out it is unlikely "that there will soon again be so favorable an opportunity to place in the White House a man after whose name will appear the words 'of Salem, Oregon.'"

Support Seen
State Rep. C. C. Chapman of Portland, a Republican who publishes the Oregon Voter, warns people not to belittle McNary because he's a local man. Chapman asks "Shall we sneer at our own native son merely because he has been one of us all these years?"

Senator Holman, although disappointed because he didn't get the first chance to throw McNary's hat in the ring, also got on the bandwagon, while several other senators said McNary would be a good candidate.

Republican state officials.

while asserting geography is against McNary, thought the idea was pretty good.

Hot Primary Races
And speaking of the primary next spring, there will be several other hot races. State Treasurer Walter E. Pearson, a Democrat appointed last January, and Attorney General I. H. Van Winkle, a Republican who has served 19 years, will face re-nomination.

Chief Justice John L. Rand and Justice George Rossman will be before the voters again, as well as all three congressmen, 13 circuit judges, 25 district attorneys, all 60 state representatives and 15 of the 30 state senators.

As far as getting control of the senate is concerned, it does not make much difference whom the Democrats nominate.

Republicans now control the senate 22 to 8. They have 13 holdovers, so they need to elect only three senators to retain a majority. And some of the contests will be in districts that haven't elected a Democrat since the year of the blue snow.

The Democrats have only two holdovers while six Democratic senators will be up for re-nomination.

In the house, the Republicans lead 46 to 13.

Father Confesses Asphyxiating Baby

Seattle, Oct. 20.—(AP)—Detective Chief Ernest W. Yorik said today John F. Wunders, 21, confessed he turned on the gas which killed his 18-month-old daughter, Belle Frances, two nights ago.
Wunders, mechanic and self-styled amateur criminologist, insisted he could not explain why he did it. He signed a confession.

TIGERS BETTING FAVORITES OVER KLAMATH ELEVEN

The boys who back up their favorite football teams with something other than vocal wagers have installed Medford's Black Tornado a one-point even money favorite over the Pelicans of Klamath Falls high in their big clash in Klamath Falls tonight.

At least $350 of Medford money has been covered in Klamath Falls this week, the local bettors spotting Klamath Falls one point. This amounts to giving Klamath Falls the benefit of a tie. Several Medford business men raised $250, gave it to Wrestling Promoter Mack Lillard and told him to get it down in Klamath Falls. Lillard telephoned from Klamath Falls yesterday and reported the money was covered, even up, with the Pelicans getting the one-point spot. Another $100 was sent from here and covered on the same basis.

The Tigers, 34 strong, left here this noon and were to rest in Klamath Falls until game-time at 8 o'clock. John Saulsberry, big fullback, will probably open the game as Ike Orr, soph flash, is suffering from a painful boil on his neck. However, Orr will probably see action before the night is over. No other changes were expected in the Medford lineup.

"Knews" Is Keynote Unique Hills Bros. Coffee Advertising

"Knews" is the keynote of the fall advertising campaign which Hills Bros. Coffee, Inc. launches this month in nearly 400 newspapers between the Pacific coast and Chicago.

The comments of the guests at Hills Bros. Exposition theater on Treasure Island after they had seen the sound picture in cinemacolor. "Behind the Cup," are responsible for the "knews." Expressions like these are being heard daily. "I never knew so much is involved in the production of coffee." "I never knew how important the coffee-taster is." "I never knew before why Hills Bros. coffee is always so perfect." From these expressions Hills Bros. developed an educational advertising campaign which incorporates strong selling points and reasons that demonstrate why people who drink Hills Bros. coffee say, "Now, that's what I call good coffee!"

In keeping with the educational theme of the advertising regarding the production of Hills Bros. coffee, an illustrated continuity shows the reader how "the correct grind" produces best results in every type of coffee-maker—drip, glass maker, percolator, or pot. The instructions for using "the correct grind" in these various types of coffee-makers are now appearing on every can of Hills Bros. coffee.

North Bend, Ore., Oct. 20.—(AP)—Twelve sections of trestle at the North Coos Bay jetty were swept out and rock rapping was slightly damaged yesterday by high seas.
