

Carole Lombard, Cary Grant, Kay Francis In Craterian's Sunday Show

HELEN VINSON IN SUPPORTING CAST WITH OTHER STARS

Starring Carole Lombard, Cary Grant and Kay Francis in the top characterizations, "In Name Only" opens a three-day run today at the Craterian theater, with one of the most high-powered, stellar casts ever assigned to one picture.

One of the very few screen entertainments to develop the "other woman's" side, "In Name Only" limns with emotion-gripping power how a woman strives to bar the loss of her husband to another woman with whom he has fallen in love. Although the wife openly admits that she does not love her husband, she wants to keep him only for the luxuries and social position he gives her.

The situation develops—with the wife's unscrupulous fight to retain her status and to keep her husband's parents ignorant of the true circumstances—to a stirring climax, after a lightning-fast series of highlights which mark "In Name Only" as one of the season's most significant productions.

Carole Lombard's role as the waiting woman represents a departure from her recent cycle of comedienne portrayals. Grant, following up his many recent personal triumphs, has an ideal role for his talents. But it is Kay Francis, who has been winning plaudits for her work in this picture. The unwilling victim of bad casting for the past several years, Miss Francis proves a definitely that there is good nothing the matter that a good role couldn't cure.

Charles Coburn, Helen Vinson, Katherine Alexander, Jonathan Hale and Maurice Moscovitch have important supporting roles.

BANKHEADS PLAN TO FORCE ACTION ON RURAL RELIEF

Washington, Oct. 21.—(AP)—The Bankheads of Alabama, only brothers now serving in congress, threatened today to upset President Roosevelt's effort to limit the special session of congress to neutrality legislation.

Speaker William B. Bankhead of the house, and Brother John of the senate, appeared confident that they would be able to put through an emergency appropriation of at least $50,000,000 for rural relief in 29 states.

Usually the Bankheads keep in close step with the president. "But this is an emergency," explained Brother John. "We can't let people starve through the winter until congress meets in January."

Senator Bankhead started the drive for rural relief funds by calling together more than a score of senators from states hit by drought and floods this year. He enlisted the aid of his brother in organizing a group of house members.

Representatives of the farm security administration told the group that crop reverses had caused sudden demands from 115,000 additional farm families for federal grants or loans. Congress provided $113,000,000 for these purposes this year.

The senate group agreed that at least $50,000,000 additional was needed. Senator Bankhead said the senate and house groups would meet Monday to outline their strategy.

John Garfield and Priscilla Lane In Newest Rialto Hit

With John Garfield and Priscilla Lane again co-starring after their successive triumphs in "Four Daughters" and "Daughters Courageous," their new picture, "Dust Be My Destiny," comes to the New Rialto theater, where it tops the twin bill showing today and tomorrow.

Garfield again is a "meaty" role—that of an enemy of law and social order, believing the world against him and carrying a chip on his shoulder. Priscilla Lane is the girl who brings love into his life. Principal supporting roles are carried by Stanley Ridges, Charlie Grapewin, John Littel, Alan Hale, Henry Armetta, Moroni Olsen and a couple of the "Dead End Kids"—Bobby Jordan and Billy Halop.

The story shows Garfield as a wild boy of the road, arrested for a minor crime, landing in a work camp where Priscilla, daughter of the superintendent, falls in love with him. The pair flee when Garfield thinks he kills a man in a fight. Then comes long days of hitch-hiking and freight-hopping, during which the pair are married at a theater wedding. Temporary sanctuary is found in employment, but they're soon "on the lam" again.
