BELCASTRO BEATS GERMAN MATMAN WITH SURFBOARD

The third time was the charm for Pete Belcastro, and before a sellout crowd in the armory last night the wild Weed Italian hammered Hans (Hitler) Schulz to the mat, clamped on a bouncing surfboard and took the lone fall of a grappling match staged with no referee in the ring, except on occasions when the two went broke the law by using strangle holds.

It took Belcastro exactly 13 minutes to get his sweet revenge for the two brawls he previously lost to the German badman, and in those 13 minutes he handed out probably one of the worst beatings Schulz has ever received for. The Belcastro victory was the first scored over Schulz in southern Oregon and snapped the Hun's winning streak at seven straight.

The two were slightly cautious as the match opened, but it wasn't long before they started to slug, pull hair and gouge eyes. It was fairly even for the first eight minutes, then Schulz heaved Pete into the ringside clients and the fun began. Pete staggered back through the ropes and the German sent him crashing onto the floor again.

Once more Pete attempted to return to the ring but Schulz barred his way with roundhouse wallops to the back of the neck. Suddenly Pete grabbed the Schulz cranium, placed his neck between the upper and middle strands of the ropes, and crossed them over. While the Nazi was hung there, Pete dealt out his misery, and when Referee Earl Yonkley finally managed to release Schulz from the noose, the German was in no condition to meet the Belcastro attack.

For the better part of four minutes Belcastro hammered Schulz all over the ring, clipping him with right uppercuts and kneeing him in the face. When the time was ripe, Pete leveled him with a terrific flop, flopped him over and applied the surfboard. Schulz was forced to give up and was unable to continue.

In the middle event, Cowboy Dude Chick defeated El Pulpo by giving him 15 revolutions of the airplane spin in the third round, the one fall being sufficient. The bell twice saved Chick from losing a fall, as El Pulpo clamped on Indian deathlocks that were broken by the gong.

King Kong Clayton, sensational Negro cleanie, took two straight tumbles from Du'ee Pettigrove in the opener, using drop kicks, body flips and head-crackers in the second round and a potent wrist bend in the fifth.

Clayton displayed a wide variety of slick maneuvers, the best being his head-cracker, in which he simply butted his own noodle against Pettigrove's until the latter folded up.

By an overwhelming majority, fans voted to change the starting time of the matches from 8:30 to 8 o'clock. It was announced that next Monday night would be ladies' night.

PISTOL SHOOTING ADDED TO RIFLE CLUB'S ACTIVITY

Marking close of another successful year of club activities and competitive rifle shooting, the Medford Rifle Club held its annual business meeting and election of officers last night at the club's gallery range in the basement of the Natatorium. It was decided that due to increasing demand of those interested in pistol shooting, to add that branch of the sport to the club's program for the coming year.

During the coming winter, club members will conduct record firing with small-bore rifles Wednesday evenings, while Sunday afternoons will be devoted to practice for both rifle and 22-caliber pistol. Monday night is tentatively set for record firing with the pistol, but this may be changed at the option of the pistol men later. Tomorrow night, Wednesday, will be the first weekly night of rifle shooting, while next Sunday will see the completion of .30-caliber qualification firing on the outdoor range.

Due to changes made necessary by addition of pistol targets at the indoor range, pistol shooting will not get under way until the latter part of November. Meanwhile, those interested in firing the handgun can secure detailed information from any of the club officers.

The following were elected officers for the coming year: C. C. Gall, president; Lewis Conser, vice-president; Iva Waddell, executive officer; S. M. Tuttle, secretary; Harry Rinabarger, treasurer; Otto Howard, range officer.

Air Travel Films Shown Rotarians. A large gathering of Rotarians and guests enjoyed a moving picture program as a feature of the regular luncheon meeting today at the Hotel Medford. A. G. Mott, chief of the valuation section of the California state board of equalization, presented the series of pictures in color, taken on his recent round the world tour by air.

It was an interesting fact that Mrs. Mott has the distinction of being the first woman to make the air trip around the world on regular commercial air routes and Mr. Mott is the second man to make such a trip. The Motts concluded their lengthy pilgrimage by airplane and clipper ships just before the recent war began.

The colored moving pictures included aerial views of various countries and intimate views of interesting cities and inhabitants of scores of foreign lands.

YOUNG WARNED TO KEEP HALLOWE'EN PRANKS IN BOUNDS

"Have a good time, boys and girls, and cavort with the spooks and hobgoblins to your heart's content. But do not destroy property or cause disturbances too serious for us to overlook, else the law will be forced to take a hand and spoil the party."

This was the message Chief of Police Clatous McCredie issued to Medford's youth today as it prepared to break out the jack-o'-lanterns, tick-tacks and bars of soap for the annual Halloween activities.

The police chief said no extra patrolmen would be placed on duty, but that the regular officers would be especially active and ready for any development. However, the chief explained, he didn't expect things to get out of hand and expressed the confidence that everybody would keep their celebration within bounds.

Capt. Lee M. Bown of the state police said that several extra patrol cars would be in operation on the Pacific highway and county roads to prevent obstruction of the thoroughfares. He added that he didn't expect serious property damage to result from the meanderings of youth in the outlying districts.

PLEA FOR FINLAND HELD VIOLATION OF NEUTRALITY POLICY

Russia's aims were outlined by Molotov as: "1. A free hand. "2. Continued neutrality. "3. Not to help spread war but to help stop it."

"We hope we will be able to do it," he said in an 85-minute speech that stressed friendly Soviet relations with Germany and accused Britain and France of pursuing the war to protect their colonial possessions.

United States Ambassador Laurence A. Steinhardt was absent, but the British envoy, Sir William Seeds, heard the bitter criticism of the Allies' war aims.

Finland Rejects. Touching on negotiations with Turkey, which recently ended without agreement, Molotov said: "Turkey has made pacts with Britain and France who are at war. We must take notice. It is not the same policy which the Soviet Union follows."

Of negotiations with Finland, Molotov disclosed Russia had offered the Finns an exchange of territory, designed to give Leningrad more protection, but Finland rejected the offer.

"We are especially interested in the Gulf of Finland," he said, pointing out that Leningrad lies less than 30 miles from the Finnish frontier.

He denied Russia was interested in the Aaland islands, which lie strategically between Finland and the mouth of the Gulf of Bothnia.

"Our proposals do not contravene the principle of self-determination," he said.

Rumors Soviet demands on other northern states were being prepared were dismissed by Molotov as unworthy even of denial.

Helsinki, Oct. 31.—(P)—On the eve of the departure of a Finnish delegation to Moscow with Finland's "final answer" to Soviet demands today, the diet hurried bills to passage which will give the government a clear hand in case of war.

The diet's action appeared to bear out predictions in diplomatic circles that Finland's answer to Russia granted few, if any, concessions.
