P. T. A. Activities

Are you a member of the organization that is doing more for your child than any other single agency in the United States? Do you realize that twenty-five thousand Parent Teacher association members in Oregon are continually fighting for you, safeguarding the interests of your child, in order that he may enjoy the benefits of our great democracy?

A small charge for dues allows you to become an active member in this vital organization and helps provide child welfare work. Under-privileged children are given milk, lunches and clothing.

The Parent Teachers association is the great connecting link between the school and the parents. Neither of us can work without the cooperation of the other.

Through your forethought and generosity you are providing a beautiful school for your children. Let this school be a genuine monument of Democracy in which every parent will feel it is his school as well as his child's school.

A membership in the Parent Teachers association is the grandest start we can make in demonstrating an interest in our children.

EUGENE STUDIES CHEAPER POWER

Eugene, Ore., Nov. 10.—(AP)—J. W. McArthur, Eugene water board superintendent, indicated yesterday that building an addition to the Eugene power plant might prove better and cheaper than buying Bonneville power.

Additional power can be manufactured by the city for 1.2 cents per kilowatt hour for the next 10 years compared to Bonneville's price of 1.545 cents, he claimed.

McArthur said negotiations would continue and stressed that the situation should not be interpreted as a "fight with Bonneville." He said he doubted whether Eugene would surrender home control of rates.

Eugene and Tacoma, Wash., have the lowest rates in the United States.

HOUSEWIVES TOLD MEAT IMPORTANT ARTICLE IN DIET

Miss Jessie Alice Cline demonstrates cooking phases before large gathering

By Maude Pool
Importance of meat in the diet was stressed to six hundred women attending the meat cookery school held in the junior high school auditorium yesterday afternoon by Miss Jessie Alice Cline, professor of home economics at the university of Missouri. "Meat is not the cause of any known disease, and should be the center of the meal on account of its nutritive value," Miss Cline said.

Foods prepared by Miss Cline in the demonstration were awarded at the close of the afternoon. Mrs. Ivan Edwards of Ashland was awarded a roast fresh from the oven and other awards went to Mrs. Lena West, 410 East Main, Medford; Mrs. Emma Jones, 506 Beatty street; Mrs. T. R. Randolph of Medford; Mrs. S. Ohrt of Roxy Anne; Miss Opal Barnhart, Medford; Mrs. Lance Offenbacher, Applegate.

Students Interested
Home economics students of the local high schools were particularly interested in meeting Miss Cline, since she is co-author of one of their text books, "Food, Its Selection and Preparation." Students from classes of Mrs. Virginia Wait and Miss Marie Luce of the junior and senior high schools attended.

Miss Cline, who holds three degrees from her university, as well as her professorship, was not too busy to talk about Medford's pears, although she confessed she didn't think of them in time to get pear rings instead of apples on the pork chops which she prepared in the demonstration. "I had the most delicious Medford pears for breakfast that I ever had in my life," Miss Cline remarked. "I am from Missouri, but we get our Medford pears back there, and I know that Medford is the pear center of the world."

Mrs. Mack introduced by Miss Cline was introduced by

RED CROSS HEADS AND LIFE SAVERS TO DINE MONDAY

A luncheon-meeting for Jackson county directors of the American Red Cross and others interested in life-saving and first aid will be held in the Hotel Medford Monday at noon, George T. Frey, chapter chairman, announced today. Persons desiring to attend were asked to telephone 456 for reservations.

Attending the luncheon will be Commodore W. E. Longfellow, assistant director of first aid and life-saving, and Ben W. Carpenter, first aid and life-saving field representative for Oregon, both of whom will arrive Sunday.

Mrs. Carpenter will conduct a special course for instructors in life-saving and water safety from November 13 through November 18. To be eligible for the course, Mr. Frey said, students must be life-saving examiners and hold water safety certificates. To receive a certificate for the course, the student must attend every class, he added.

"The purpose of the instructors' course," Mr. Frey said, "is to have trainees review their previous instruction and take additional training with the idea of becoming lay instructors so that they may impart their knowledge to others."
