Aileen Latham Weds Mr. Peterson In Sunday Service

At an impressive ceremony held Sunday afternoon at 1 o'clock at the home of her brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Latham on Park avenue, Miss Aileen Latham, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. P. C. Latham, became the bride of Eugene Peterson, son of Mr. and Mrs. L. K. Peterson of Los Angeles.

The couple took their vows in front of the fireplace which was decorated on either side with baskets of yellow chrysanthemums. The Rev. James M. Hamilton, pastor of the First Christian church, officiated.

The bride wore a black silk dress and a matching velvet snood turban. Her corsage was of gardenias. She was attended by her sister, Miss Geraldine Latham, who also wore black and a gardenia corsage.

The bridegroom's brother, Brooks Peterson of Los Angeles, acted as best man.

Seventeen relatives were guests at the ceremony and reception which followed. A large wedding cake formed the table center piece and Miss Edith Peterson of Berkeley, sister of the bridegroom, presided.

Later in the afternoon, Mr. and Mrs. Peterson left on a wedding trip for the north. They will make their home in this city at 540 Palm street.

Other out-of-town guests who attended the service were the bridegroom's mother, Mrs. Peterson of Los Angeles, and Miss Marjorie David of Berkeley, Cal.

The bride is a well known Medford girl, and a graduate of Medford high school. She attended the Southern Oregon College of Education in Ashland for two years. Her husband received his early education in Van Nuys, Cal. Later he completed undergraduate work at the University of California in Los Angeles and graduated from Oregon State College in Corvallis where he was affiliated with Theta Chi fraternity. Napoleon, you're just an old Fuddy Duddy

LOTS of thinking is being done these days about the national defense. "Let's have faster battleships," says the sailor. "Speedier airplanes," says the flyer. "Put wheels on the doughboy," says the soldier. Mobility's the thing.

Wherefore the oil industry — by developing into a great contributor toward the peace and happiness of mankind — has become the nation's mightiest bulwark in time of war. Mobility on sea or land or in the air is spelled with three letters — oil. Still bright is the rule of Napoleon, a strong but bygone character, that to win in war you must get there first with the most men. But his inchworm notions of travel are, oh, so obsolete.

Because it's geared to a busy peace, because it's practiced in meeting vastly changing needs, national in scope — the oil industry is always ready for an emergency. It's a peacetime army of a million persons. Yet this vital armament cost Uncle Sam not one penny. Instead, it bears the heaviest of all tax burdens.

Private enterprise has created in the oil industry a pruning-hook and plowshare which are also America's sword and buckler. It's an accomplishment which Napoleon, with all his genius, couldn't even imagine.

No Great Mystery

about Cigarette Tobaccos

THERE ARE FOUR TYPES of tobaccos found in the more popular cigarettes, namely... Bright, Maryland, Burley and Turkish.

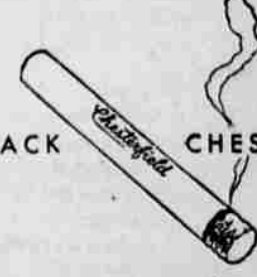

ALL THESE TOBACCOS except Turkish (which is bought direct from the planters in Turkey and Greece) and Maryland (which is bought through sealed bids under government supervision) are bought at public auction, just like any other auction where you might have bought in a table or a chair.

AT THE AUCTION SALE the tobacco is piled in baskets weighing from about 100 to 500 pounds and each purchaser buys all of his tobaccos by competitive bidding for the particular piles he wants.

THE CHESTERFIELD BUYERS buy the best of these mild ripe tobaccos for the Chesterfield blend. And it is Chesterfield's Combination... the right amounts of Burley and Bright... just enough Maryland... and just enough Turkish—that makes the big difference between Chesterfield and other cigarettes.

IT IS BECAUSE of this combination that Chesterfields are COOLER, have a BETTER TASTE and are DEFINITELY Milder. They are made of the world's best cigarette tobaccos. You can't buy a better cigarette.
