He succeeds Tom Cunningham, Astoria. Other officers named are George Layman, Newberg, vice-president, and Fred Brenne, Eugene, vice-president.

Oregonians must work up enthusiasm about their own century, in order that eastern visitors may get the best impression of the state, Ray Clark, vice president of the Northwest Tourist association, told the men today.

"We have a lot here to sell, and people come here looking for it, but we are not very enthusiastic," he declared.

Two Names Short Salem, Nov. 18.—(AP)—Unofficial count of signatures on petitions filed here Friday for creation of the City of Yamhill section of the Yamhill County People's Utility district fell two short of the required number, the state hydroelectric commission said today.

Portland, Nov. 18.—(AP)—William Dalrymple, recently appointed state CIO director, said at a banquet in his honor last night that he was not here "to play the part of a dictator" but to see "that all contracts are lived up to."

He was warned by Oregon CIO leaders, who pledged themselves to aid him, that "Oregon is a tough state."

With attendance exceptionally sparse in boardrooms, bidding even for favorites was light throughout and improvement at the close of the brief proceedings ran mainly to fractions.

Such buying as occurred was centered on industrials and was attributed principally to the optimistic flow of earnings and dividends and prospects for further gains in individual business lines.

Many traders, however, continued to stand aside.

The European war again was a minor influence marketwise. The list started out with indefinite trends, but firmed up somewhat in the final hour. The ticker tape frequently was silent and transfers amounted to 278,560 shares, smallest for any session since October 14. The volume compared with 1,423,620 two weeks ago.
