

FRENCH ARTILLERY ENDS SILENCE ON WEST BATTLE LINE

Junction of German, French And Luxembourg Borders Receives Heavy Shelling.

Berlin, Nov. 21.—(AP)—French artillery abruptly ended a 35-hour silence on the western front today with heavy shelling in the Perl sector, at the junction of the German, French and Luxembourg borders, the official German news agency reported.

The agency, DNB, said the rest of the 100-mile western front between the Moselle and the Rhine rivers was quiet.

On the upper Rhine front, French searchlight batteries were active during the night at several points, DNB interpreted this as due to "the enemy's nervousness."

The agency said there was heavier rifle and anti-tank fire here, and floods had forced the French to clear out of some bunkers.

Airmen Get Results

Reconnaissance flights of the German air force over France and England during the past few days have yielded "important results," DNB said. The agency reported "ineffectiveness" of French anti-aircraft fire and said that British chasers southeast of London did not hamper German reconnaissance.

DNB said the enemy did little reconnoitering yesterday, as German pursuit planes met no enemy planes over German territory.

The bundsman testified his organization's headquarters originally was in Detroit, where he was employed in a Ford automobile plant as a chemist.

Kuhn Whole Staff

"In Detroit," asked his counsel, "who functioned at the bund office besides yourself?"

"Nobody."

"You were practically the whole office?"

"Yes," said Kuhn.

He testified the bund had no treasurer before the office was moved to New York on May 1, 1937 and he alone signed its checks.

After the removal, he added, he opened a checking account in the bund's name, but signed all checks himself.

"As you understand the leadership principle what did you consider your authority over the funds?"
