Billy Hulen says:

I. Pickem Calls Medford, Oregon And Notre Dame

In order to get in his whack at several important Turkey Day grid clashes, Mr. I. Pickem is releasing his weekly dozen ultra-special selections today, instead of Friday. Not all the games in this week's list are being played on Thanksgiving, but some of them are and the master prognosticator just couldn't pass up the opportunity of taking his best shots at them.

This is the time of year when traditional battles are as plentiful as upsets have been this season, and as a result the games are getting harder to pick. On the other hand, I. Pickem is getting better as the campaign wends its merry way to the bitter end. Everything considered, it's about a tossup, with the games being tougher and Pickem being better. Read 'em and weep:

MEDFORD - COQUILLE—This intersectional gigantic will be played here tomorrow afternoon, with the winnah becoming the state's number one prep outfit. Pickem hasn't seen the Red Devils perform, but he has Medford's Black Tornado, and all he can say is that Mr. Spike Leslie's crew better be good. With all the locals in good shape and aching for some body contact business after taking things easy for almost two weeks, Pickem predicts that Coquille will get thumped. But the Devils should score, if their pass attack is as good as reported. The turn is called: Medford 20, Coquille 7.

MILWAUKIE - SALEM. This one will be played tonight, and Pickem looks for the Inky Boe Maroons to do an el comeback after being deadlocked by Eugene. Unless the Vikings go plumb off their beams, it should be about 13 to naught in favor of Milwaukie.

ASHLAND - GRANTS PASS. Ashland's final chance to win one game this season will pass without accomplishment of that feat. The Cavemen, despite considerable flu in their neck of the woods, will trip the Grizzlies, 7 to 6.

OREGON - WASHINGTON. Another Thanksgiving Day "blood" battle, with the Webfoots continuing their superiority over Phelan's Huskies, 13 to 6.

OREGON STATE - U.C.L.A. Jackie Robinson and Kenny Washington notwithstanding, the Beavers of Oregon State will beat the Bruins to remain in the Rose Bowl running, 20 to 14.

CALIFORNIA-STANFORD. The "big game" this year has certainly shrunk in importance, so far as the league race is concerned. Stanford has yet to win a game and Cal has won two. Therefore, Cal should defeat their ancient rivals, 6 to 0.

State Title Hinges on Tornado-Coquille Clash Thursday

YALE-HARVARD. Yale, with one of its weakest teams in history, shouldn't be able to hold the Crimson to less than a 21 to 0 victory.

MINNESOTA - WISCONSIN. Out of the hat, Minnesota by 7 to 0.

PRINCETON-NAVY. Neither so hot, but Pickem'll string along with the Tigers, instead of the first line of defense. Princeton, by 14 to 7.

OHIO STATE - MICHIGAN. This is Pickem's "minor" upset for the week. Ohio State to get knocked over by Tommy Harmon and the Wolverines, 27 to 19.

SOUTHERN CALIFORNIA-NOTRE DAME. In checking over this week's games, Pickem couldn't find any better potential upset than this one, so he'll name it the big formal reversal. Notre Dame's Irish, fired to the skies, to defeat the favored Trojans, 14 to 13.

IOWA - NORTHWESTERN. Can't go back on good old Iowa at this stage of the season. Gotta pick them there Hawkeyes, after they beat Notre Dame and Minnesota for Pickem. Iowa to beat Northwestern, 20 to 14.

ASHLAND, G. PASS TANGLE THURSDAY

The year's final Southern Oregon conference football clash will take place in Ashland tomorrow morning, Thanksgiving Day, when Skeet O'Connell's Grizzlies attempt to win their first game of the season at the expense of the Grants Pass Cavemen. Opening kickoff is slated for 11 a.m.

At stake in the struggle will be the cellar championship of the loop. Neither club has won a conference game, both being defeated by Medford and Klamath Falls. In a previous tilt of non-conference variety, Grants Pass defeated the Ashlanders, 12 to 0, and will be slight favorites to make it two in a row.

BEAVERS WINDUP DRILL FOR UCLA

Corvallis, Nov. 22. —(P)—Oregon State college finished home practice for its final Pacific Coast conference game today and boarded a train for Los Angeles and Saturday's battle with UCLA. A victory would assure the Beavers of second place and would leave them within reach of the title should Southern California lose a game.

Although the squad contained innumerable bruises from the last three games with USC, Oregon and California, only two players were considered of uncertain value Saturday, Leonard Younce, end, with a swollen elbow, and Walt Jelmsa, tackle, with a damaged knee.

UCLANS GIVEN SLIGHT EDGE OVER ORANGEMEN

Los Angeles, Nov. 22. —(P)—Football observers studied the possibilities of the Oregon State-U.C.L.A. game scheduled Saturday and predicted one of the hardest fought battles of the season would be waged in Memorial Coliseum.

The Uclans should boast a more potent offense than displayed in its scoreless tie with Santa Clara, and with Jackie Robinson due to play, they were given a slight edge in this department over the oncoming Beavers.

BOTH TOWNS GRID CRAZY; CROWD OF 4,000 EXPECTED

Red Devils Score 320 Points To None For Opponents; Game Starts 1 P. M.

This town of Medford becomes the prep football center of all Oregon tomorrow afternoon, Thanksgiving Day, when Bill Bowerman shoves his roaring Black Tornado in there against Coquille high's point-crazy Red Devils, a Coos county miracle team that has heaped up a total of 320 points to their opponents' none in eight straight victories.

Before an expected 4,000 Turkey Day clients, these two state title contenders will line up for a 1 o'clock kickoff in a clash destined to place the winner in the role of number one claimant for the mythical Oregon championship.

Not since 1934, when the locals battled Washington high of Portland to a 6 to 6 deadlock, has the Black Tornado come so close to reaching the state's prep pinnacle. And never has a Spike Leslie-coached Coquille eleven hung up such an amazing record.

800 Coquillers Coming. Because of this, both towns have gone football crazy. Medford fans are in a dither of excitement; they have been eating, sleeping and talking football for the past week. In Coquille approximately 800 rabid supporters are planning to follow their beloved Red Devils to Medford. The local school sent 300 reserved seat duets to the game.

Both teams are in fine condition for the struggle. Coach Bowerman of the Medfords said his team had almost entirely recovered from the flu epidemic of the past two weeks. All regulars, with the possible exception of Alden Hibbert, guard, are ready to go. Hibbert has a bad cold, and if he isn't able to start the game Dean Grimes will open, the coach said. The Tigers will romp through only a limbering-up session today.

The Red Devils, 26 strong, will arrive in Medford late this afternoon and may take a light workout on the stadium turf either today or Thursday morning. Reports from Coquille say the Leslie aggregation is in the best shape of the year.

Passes Expected. The game is expected to develop into a wide-open, high-scoring affair. Both clubs boast potent aerial and running attacks, with Dee Krantz, fullback, and Everett Smith, right half, leading the invaders, and Bob Newland, John Saulsberry and Billy Piche pacing the Tiger offensive. The Tornado will have a substantial weight advantage in the line, with the two backfields being about even.

Local prognosticators have been tearing their hair in an attempt to get some gauge on the relative strength of the two clubs, who have played no common opponents. Medford and Coquille have, however, played opponents who have played each other. This angle figures two ways: Medford is 25 paper points stronger than Coquille on one basis, and the Red Devils are six paper points better than the Tornado on the other.

Tigers Favored. Medford beat Grants Pass, 38 to 0, and Grants Pass beat North Bend, 13 to 7. Coquille shelacked North Bend, 19 to 0, which makes Coquille 13 paper points better than Grants Pass, or 25 paper points weaker than Medford.

On the other hand, Grants Pass defeated Roseburg by only a 6 to 0 score, while Coquille was murdering Roseburg, 46 to 0, which makes Coquille 42 paper points stronger than Grants Pass, or six paper points better than Medford.

Football Is Safe and Fine For Boys, Claims Physician

Palo Alto, Nov. 22. —(P)—After 12 years of diagnosing and treating Stanford's football injuries, Dr. E. F. "Fritz" Roth answers the question, "Shall I let my son play football?"

"Why, sure! He is playing football."
Dr. Roth's son, "Fritz, Jr.," plays tackle for the Palo Alto high school team.
"Football is safe," said the medico who has been the Stanford team physician since 1927. "I would a lot rather have my son scrimmaging in his spare time after school than running around on the highways in some kid's rattletrap. Besides, he comes home tired at night and goes to bed."
As a rule, Stanford football players are healthier than the average student, the doctor contends.

Illustrated Review, alumni magazine.
The Palo Alto physician, who calls his work at Stanford a hobby, contends "there is no such thing as an 'athletic heart.'" While a man plays football his heart does become enlarged—walls thicken with muscle and the organ pumps more blood. But the heart reverts to normal without injury when football days are over.

PREPPERS CLIMAX FOOTBALL SEASON THANKSGIVING DAY

Medford Versus Coquille Heads List of Games—Milwaukie-Salem Today.

By Fred Hampson Associated Press Writer
By tomorrow night Oregon high school football schedules will be over and the state championship ballot will have been trimmed again.
The Portland interscholastic, Tualatin-Yamhill, and Coos Bay leagues will wind up their 1939 business this week. The Willamette Valley circuit will play four of its last five games and the No-Name league will determine its champion.

The state's biggest game of Thanksgiving No. 1 will be the Coquille-Medford affair at Medford. Medford is undefeated, although tied by Klamath Falls, in an eight game schedule against Weed and Eureka, Calif., Grants Pass, Bend, Eugene, Corvallis and Ashland.

Coquille hasn't played quite so tough a schedule but has won eight by excessive scores, neither losing nor tying nor being scored on. Neither team makes any secret of a desire to play the Portland champion on Dec. 2 if it wins tomorrow.

Maroons Favored
Milwaukie's Maroons, considerably deflated by Eugene's 13-13 tie last Friday, play Salem today in their final no-name league game. The Vikings, defeated in their last three games, weren't conceded much chance. Eugene ends its season against Albany Thursday.

Silverton can nail down the Willamette Valley league flag by beating Chemawa today but if the Indians score an upset West Linn can gallop ahead by beating Independence Friday.

Beaverton can run up the Tualatin-Yamhill flag by beating Tigard Thursday.
Jeff Cinch for Title
The week's fare in the Portland league: Roosevelt-Benson and Commerce-Franklin Wednesday. Jefferson-Washington Thursday. Lincoln lost to Grant 6-0 Tuesday. Jefferson was considered a sure thing to beat Washington and keep the title.

The final Coos league game finds Marshfield at North Bend. Grants Pass takes on Ashland and Cottage Grove meets Junction City in two traditional turkey day encounters.

GOV. OLSON TO SEEK MORE PENSION TAXES

Sacramento, Nov. 22. —(P)—A tax raising program to net an additional $75,000,000 "or thereabouts" was disclosed by Governor Culbert L. Olson today as his revenue raising objective at a special session of the legislature to be held this winter.

The sum specified would be designed, the governor said, to finance the added $30,000,000 cost to the state involved in his proposal to lower the old-age pension limit from 65 to 60 years and to carry ordinary governmental expenses up to the end of the next fiscal year.
