PUBLIC SUPPORT ASKED IN CHECK ON UPHOLSTERY

Cooperation of the public in reporting misrepresented products was solicited today by Allen A. French of Portland, inspector of bedding and upholstery, Oregon state board of health. Mr. French has been here since last Friday checking stacks of both new and used bedding and upholstery. He was to leave today for Klamath Falls.

Mr. French pointed out that under Oregon laws, all new bedding and upholstery having concealed filling must bear a state label properly filled out by the manufacturer, showing what materials have been used. The public, the inspector emphasized, can help enforce the laws and thus protect their own interests by reporting any misrepresentation to the bedding division of the Oregon state board of health.

Used or second-hand products and materials used therein must be clean and sanitary. Mr. French pointed out. He recalled that recently 55 mattresses and a davenport were burned at the Portland city dump because they had been found unsanitary and potential germ carriers even though they had been fumigated.

HOUSE COMMITTEE SEES SLIM HOPE TO SLASH BUDGET

Washington, Nov. 28. — (AP) — Seven house members who help set up the bank accounts of federal agencies echoed today President Roosevelt's expression of hope that government expenses could be cut next year, but some expressed doubt that material savings would be effected.

Gathering for hearings on a $277,000,000 emergency fund for neutrality and defense purposes, these house appropriations committee members took the position that reductions depended chiefly on White House recommendations.

Mr. Roosevelt said recently that if general government expenditures could be cut, if defense programs could be financed on a "pay-as-you-go" basis, and if business continues to improve, next year's deficit might be slashed 50 per cent.

The house members here for the committee session were Chairman Taylor (D-Colo.), Woodrum (D-Va.), Starnes (D-Ala.), Ludlow (D-Ind.), Taber (R-N.Y.), Wigglesworth (R-Mass.) and Ditter (R-Pa.).

Taylor predicted that the group would continue to lower recommendations of the budget bureau, but he pointed to the empty house chamber and said: "I don't know what the house will do."

Kay Kyser In Craterian Musical

Yessiree, stoo-dents! The ol' professor himself, Kay Kyser, the maestro of radio's top-flight program, "The College of Musical Knowledge," makes his screen debut in a fun-filled melody show, "That's Right—You're Wrong," opening a four-day run tomorrow at the Craterian theatre.

Lionel Barrymore At Rialto

The appearance of Lionel Barrymore on the screen of the New Rialto theatre for today and tomorrow only in "On Borrowed Time," filmization of last season's Broadway and San Francisco stage success, marks the thirtieth anniversary in pictures of the distinguished and popular character star. In the film he is seen as the cunning, hard-bitten but lovable "Gramps" Northrup who fights Death in order to protect the grandson he adores from the grasp of a selfish and heartless aunt. Sir Cedric Hardwicke personifies the man of mystery in the unusual film and the little Bobs Watson, the boy star of "Boy's Town," plays the grandson. A sterling cast is headed by Beulah Bondi and Una Merkel.

"Hidden Power," starring Jack Holt, plays as the companion feature.

GERMANY BOASTS BRITISH CLEARED FROM HIGH SEAS

By Louis P. Lochner Berlin, Nov. 28. — (AP) — The British fleet, in the opinion of German military experts, now has been cleared not only from the North Sea but also from the North Atlantic.

Authoritative commentators said the British "auxiliary cruiser" Rawalpindi, destroyed in a naval engagement off the coast of Iceland, was discovered absolutely alone between the Faroe Islands and Greenland. Moreover they quoted 28 Rawalpindi crewmen whose rescue was announced today as saying they were "100 per cent surprised" to find a whole German navy group, including at least one heavy cruiser, so far out in the Atlantic.

German experts who are authorized to inform the foreign press state the British have been so frightened by the combined German navy and air prowess that they have ordered the navy to withdraw from both the North Sea and the North Atlantic.

The engagement of German units with the Rawalpindi is described as the first between German and English fighting craft. This, however, does not take into account possible encounters in other parts of the world which German naval authorities learn only through neutral or enemy reports.

The Rawalpindi was surprised after dusk when the light was poor. German artillery, according to the official news agency DNB, caused almost immediate fires on the Rawalpindi which rapidly spread over the entire vessel and soon caused a gigantic explosion. This made the ship sink so rapidly, only 26 men, mostly Scottish, out of about 300 officers and crewmen could be saved.

Military experts further claimed supremacy in the air over all of France and practically all of England. Last week alone, they said, scouting planes flew over the British naval base of Scapa Flow, north of Scotland, three times, bringing to nine the total number of such flights since the beginning of the war.
