DEVICE WARNS DRIVER WHEN ANOTHER CAR IS ALSO NEARING CURVE

Helena, Mont. — (U.P.) — When Douglas L. Stemple, Greenough, Mont., was snowbound in a mountain cabin for three weeks, he had a lot of time to think about a near-accident he had on a highway curve.

As a result, the nation's highways may be made safer by means of a signal system to warn motorists of approaching cars on blind curves which he invented during his enforced idleness.

The device, which works much like a railroad block signal, is receiving experimental tests by the Montana highway department on McDonald Pass, west of here.

D. A. McKinnon, Montana state highway engineer, has described Stemple's invention as 'an important contribution to highway safety."

The signal system works like this:

A thin rubber hose is placed across the highway well back from the blind curve. When an automobile passes over it, a red warning signal flashes at the other end of the curve, warning other motorists that another machine is approaching.

It is estimated the devices would cost about $100 each. Highway officials said they also could be used on hills.

RECONCILED PAIR SIGN PEACE PACT

Edwardsville, Ill. — (U.P.) — A voluntary treaty of permanent peace between a man and his wife is on file with Ben Hodges, Madison county recorder of deeds. It has been duly ratified, notarized and recorded.

The declaration, titled "Articles of Reconciliation," sets forth that Alfred St. Clair and his wife of Alton, have become reconciled after "certain unfortunate differences," and that each promises not to sue for divorce.

"In consideration of promises and other good and real considerations," the treaty concluded, "said husband and wife kindly and affectionately forgive any and all differences and disagreements from all causes that have arisen during their life.

"To the end that their married life be happy and successful, neither party will at any future time institute suit for divorce."

TOUGH POLICEMAN FINE HOUSEKEEPER

Omaha, Neb.—Down at Omaha police headquarters Nels Sorensen is known as more than 200 pounds of tough cop.

At home, Nels is 200 pounds of expert cook and housekeeper—so excellent that he has had seven proposals of marriage from widows who read about his job of home-making for five children left motherless nine years ago.

When he sheds his coat in the kitchen at home, Nels has no hard and fast routine for turning out delectable dishes for his husky children. He just takes the general outline of a recipe, and adds or subtracts from it until he gets what he wants.

Only three children are at home now—two are out earning their own way. "It's been a job and I'd hate to do it again. But when I think of my kids out in California and the others getting ready to go away from home, I hate to see it ending," the "tough cop" mused.

Explaining why he never had wanted a housekeeper, Nels said "when there was any disciplining of the kids to be done, I was the one to do it."

GHOSTS TO TAKE ANOTHER TOWN

Clemenceau, Ariz. (U.P.)—This city's last hope for rebirth as an important center of the nations' copper industry has vanished and the community appears destined to join the ranks of Arizona's "ghost" cities.

The decision that seemingly spelled ultimate abandonment of this 20-year old mining boom community was told in a few brief words—that the $5,000,000 copper smelter would be dismantled, its parts sold as scrap iron.

Clemenceau sprang into existence when the price of copper shot upward in 1917. Around the tall smelter chimney, a moderately thriving community grew up, complete with homes, business, schools and recreational areas.
