Billy Hulen says:

Poor Prospects For Grants Pass Basketball Team

Unless George Hibbard comes up with a remarkable coaching job at Grants Pass, or his basketball aspirants completely disprove the theory that experience is probably the most vital factor in development of a championship quintet, it will most certainly be Ashland's Grizzlies, as usual, throwing up the biggest barrier to Medford's drive to the district 9 title and state tournament berth.

Although he is keeping his chin up and actually predicting that this season's Caveman outfit will be as strong, if not stronger, than last year's five, we suspect that George feels anything but cheerful concerning the Grants Pass prospects. He lost four regulars from his 1938-39 club—Gene Dully, Jim Stinebaugh, Ralph Lanning and Fred Gray—and with only Roy Moore, center, returning for more competition, we don't see how George can possibly manufacture a team capable of upsetting the Tigers, defending champs. Stranger things have occurred, though, but until this happens, if it does, in our book Grants Pass is definitely a cellar-caliber team.

Grants Pass has three other players returning, who saw some action last year, and if they can be teamed with Moore to produce a contending quintet, George will have done a swell piece of mentoring work. The players are Jack Gabehart, forward; Bill Davis forward, and Don Newman, guard. Don Hill, who starred for Kerby high last season, has transferred to Grants Pass and may help the situation. But it looks gloomy for the Caveman.

Up in Ashland, Skeet O'Connell expects to have a fine club, and with six members of last season's squad returning he may be correct. In addition, several good-looking prospects are up from junior high school, and all in all Skeet is pleased with the general outlook.

Lettermen who will again carry the Ashland banner are Ardie Warren, Jim Smith, Stan Davis, Bob Weaver, Dale Williams and Joe Burdick. From junior high comes Charlie Jandreau, the grid star; Bud Provost, Chet Fowler and Martin Herrin, from a football player. From these candidates, O'Connell figures to construct a very capable team, as Ashland teams always are. But, whether the Grizzlies will be able to generate enough strength to oust

Three Far West Gridders Make A. P. Little All-American

Medford from the title chambers is a moot question.

Bill Borchert, who pitched softball here last summer, has made the University of Oregon basketball squad and will go east with the boys. . . . Arba Ager, ex-Jacksonville grade school coach, has given up the casaba sport at Oregon and is paying more attention to his school work. . . . Jack Cumming of the local high school athletic plant received a nice letter from Mickey Shadrer the other day, in which the Cincinnati baseball scout revealed he was seriously considering moving to Medford. . . . Mickey fell in love with the town after conducting three tryout camps here. . . .

Charlie Dressen, coach of the Brooklyn Dodgers and one of the smartest men in baseball, says softball is the biggest curse of the young ball players. . . . "We can spot those softball players as soon as they pick up a ball or bat," Dressen told an interviewer. . . . here's hoping Ernie Piluso, the Portland grappling flash, returns to Medford after the first of the year. . . . for color and spectacular work Ernie tops them all, in our opinion. . . .

BOZELL, CLAYTON IN RETURN MATCH

Paul Bozell and King Kong Clayton will meet in a rematch on next Monday night's armory wrestling program, Promoter Mack Lillard announced today. Clayton, after losing to Bozell last Monday, requested the return go and Bozell was agreeable, Lillard stated.

Bobby Chick will face Eddie Rogers and Bob Kenaston will tangle with Leo Mortensen in the two other male matches. A coin will be flipped at the ring-side to determine which pair opens the program.

The feminine grapple between Clara Mortensen, world's light weight woman champion, and Gladys Nolan of Kansas City, will take place between the semi-windup and the main event, the girls wrestling for 45 minutes or the best two out of three falls.

AAU BASKETBALL LOOP TO HAVE 10 TEAMS, MAYBE 14

Ten, and possibly 14, independent basketball teams plan to enter the Jackson county A.A.U. league this winter. It was disclosed at a meeting of team sponsors in the chamber of commerce last night, and because of the large number of quintets girding for action the possibility of splitting the circuit into two divisions was discussed.

Although definite framework for the loop was not made, it was tentatively decided to open play the week of January 8, with two games a week for each team during the duration of the schedule. In case the league is divided into two divisions, the two champions will play a series for the title.

Another meeting will be held on December 18, in the chamber of commerce at 7:30, to complete plans for the circuit. Teams signifying their intention of joining the league were Salvation Army, First National Bankers, Lost River Dairy, Lewis Super Service station, Southern Pacific company and CCC Camp Prescott, all of Medford; Ingler's Cowboys of Ashland, defending champions; the S.O.C.E. frosh of Ashland, the Gold Hill Merchants and Jacksonville.

Also considered possible entrants are Butte Falls, Central Point, CCC Camp Applegate and the National Guard of Medford. Fred Lennard, Medford A.A.U. representative, announced that registration application blanks for team managers would be available at the M. N. Hogan Brokerage company office after next Monday.

MAGNATES WORRY AS JUDGE LANDIS GIRDS FOR ACTION

Cincinnati, Dec. 7.—(AP)—There was a new high note of anticipation around the baseball circus today, a sure sign "The Judge" had landed, tossed his famous black fedora on a convenient lounge and taken charge.

"The Judge" who is known very respectfully as Commissioner Kenesaw Mountain Landis, was confidentially expected to jerk the production back on its feet. Nobody knew exactly what Landis had on his mind, but there was an undercurrent of feeling he intended to "crack down" on somebody. The big league magnates, with whom he was closeted today, have been worried and in a state of indecision about their "working agreements" with the minors.

The situation, broadly speaking, boils down to the fact the white-thatched arbiter of baseball gradually has become a trifle tougher and taken to himself slightly broader powers than the club owners ever anticipated that he would. Now they are trying desperately to slow Landis down, but they are being very, very diplomatic about it.

The difficulty seems to be that the judge, employing the "broad" powers vested in him, has continued to insist upon making his own rules. This is giving the owners a fit, because they insist he is finding some meanings to rules that never were intended to be there at all. The fines he has been plastering around lately are all the result of a misunderstanding, say the moguls.

The judge has told them: "I didn't make the rules. You did. But as long as they are in the book I will enforce them, and according to my own interpretation, too."

44 Northwest Hunters Die This Autumn, Survey Shows

Your chances of stopping a bullet or shotgun blast while hunting in the woods are twice as great as your chances of being hit by an automobile and killed on Seattle streets.

This was shown in an Associated Press survey today which disclosed 44 hunting deaths in Washington, Oregon, northern Idaho and British Columbia since September 1. Of this number, 41 were directly attributable to wounds received from firearms. Two others died of heart attacks induced by over-exertion, and another died in an automobile crash while returning from a bird-hunting expedition. During the same period, Seattle traffic and safety council figures showed 19 persons lost their lives in traffic accidents—less than half the toll of the woods and fields.

The state of Washington led in the number of deaths—29, with 17 dying of wounds two from heart attacks while hunting and one in the aforementioned auto crash.

Oregon and British Columbia were second with 11 apiece. British Columbia records dated from September 1, Oregon figures from mid-September. Two deaths were reported in the Orofino section of north Idaho—in each case a brother dying from a shot from a brother's weapon.

SHELBY TUTTLE SCORES 397X400 ON RIFLE RANGE

A new high of 397x400 was reached last night at the Medford rifle club's indoor range, when Shelby Tuttle turned in some above-average targets, to place him seven points over Ivan Waddell.

Much enthusiasm is being shown by the pistol shooters, and most have improved their scores with only two or three evenings spent at the range. The pistol shooting division of the club is still in its infancy and now is the ideal time for beginners to try their hand at it. The pistolmen meet every Friday evening, the riflemen on Wednesday evenings, and both hold practice on Sunday afternoons.

During the past few months the rifle shooters fired 36 caliber qualification matches.
