

New Star, Linda Darnell Billed With Tyrone Power in Craterian Comedy

'DAYTIME WIFE' IS SECOND APPEARANCE FOR LOVELY LINDA

Co-starring Tyrone Power and lovely Linda Darnell, the new "find" who gets top billing with her second screen appearance, "Daytime Wife" opens a three-day run today at the Craterian theater with all advance reports crediting it with being one of the gayest comedy-romances of the year.

Fans will see Tyrone Power in the type of light comedy in which he excels. He's a perfectly swell guy, married to a peach of a wife, but in trouble up to his neck because—well, after all, he has a secretary who isn't hard on the eyes.

Linda Darnell, who made such an instant hit in "Hotel for Women," is the wife, a modern wife—broad-minded and understanding—up to a certain point.

Featured also are Binnie Barnes, Warren William, Wendy Barrie and Joan Davis.

The story opens on the second anniversary of Tyrone and Linda, but Tyrone's not there. He's had to "work late at the office." When the celebrating party swarms downtown to drag the "worker" from his tasks, they find the office deserted, and then the fun begins. There's a secretary in it, of course, but Linda decides to find out what secretaries have that wives haven't. So she gets a job and a delicious situation arises when Linda's boss takes her to a dinner party to meet and "talk business" with Tyrone and his secretary.

As a special added attraction on the same program, the Craterian will have the March of Time, presenting "Soldiers With Wings." Realistically presenting the first complete and authentic motion picture story of the U. S. Air Corps, now being rapidly built up at a cost of 200 million dollars, this new issue of the March of Time, filmed with the cooperation of the Air Corps officers and men, shows how America's air-minded youths are today being selectively recruited and trained as "Soldiers With Wings."

Bluegrass Picture Opening at Rialto Stars Blind Horse

Never in the history of a motion picture has there been a production with a more interesting actor in the main role than "Pride of the Bluegrass," which heads the double bill opening for today and tomorrow only at the New Rialto theatre. For "Pride of the Bluegrass" not only has a fine cast of human actors headed by two talented juveniles, Edith Fellows and James McCallion, but it also introduces to motion picture audiences an equine actor who is in his own way the greatest horse that has ever lived. This is Elmer Gantry, the 15-year-old blind horse which jumps steeplechase hurdles with complete disregard of the fact that he can't see what he is asked to jump over.

New "Dr. Kildare" Film Coming Wednesday

Latest of the popular series to reach the screen, "The Secret of Dr. Kildare" will bring Helen Gilbert, Lew Ayres, Lionel Barrymore and Laraine Day to the Craterian theater Wednesday for a four-day run. Lionel Atwill and Nat Pendleton are also featured in the story of a beautiful girl's secret, terror and the young medico-detective's ferretting out the mystery.

"Pride of the Bluegrass" intertwines the lives and fortunes of the horse and two kids portrayed by Edith and Jimmy. The story as far as the horse is concerned, contains incidents which are somewhat parallel to the main events in the life of Elmer Gantry.

The remarkable will and courage of the real horse remain, however, as the dominant theme of the story of the fictional horse. In the screen story, the heroic horse is also stricken blind and, despite this handicap, he responds so well to the training of a human boy he loves and trusts that he courageously goes out on a race track and, guided solely by instinct and the voice of his rider, wins one of the world's greatest races, the Grand National Steeplechase at Aintree, England.

Bobby Breen In New Picture

Bobby Breen takes a singing lesson from Maestro Alan Mowbray in this scene from "Way Down South," a happy-go-lucky story of the old south during its pre-Civil war days when slaves and plantations were the country's leading landmarks. The film comes to the New Rialto theater for Tuesday and Wednesday. Others in the cast include Ralph Morgan, Clarence Muse, Steffi Duna, Sally Blane and the famous colored Hall Johnson choir.

A highlight of beauty and rhythm in "Way Down South" is the presentation of the interesting sugar-cane celebration, an exotic dance spectacle traditionally offered on old-time plantations by the slaves at the completion of the harvest. In it Bobby sings several old spirituals and other plantation melodies.

"Cafe Hostess," starring Preston Foster, Ann Dvorak and Wynne Gibson, will play as the companion feature with "Way Down South."

LOSSES INCREASE AS BRITISH, NAZI SEA WAR MOUNTS

London, Dec. 9.—(P)—Four more ships, two British and two neutral, were added today to the mounting toll of the sea war in which the efforts of Britain and Germany to cut each other's life lines continued with unabated ferocity.

The four were sunk by mines or torpedoes. A partial offset was the British capture of a German ship.

The growing seriousness with which Britain views the maritime conflict was reflected in the admiralty's call for ex-sailors and ex-marines up to 46 years old to volunteer for the duration of the war.

The death toll on the seas for the week, fourteenth of the war, was estimated at 400, including the crews of four German submarines which the British were sure had been sent down. At least 24 merchant ships were sunk.

Heavy gunfire heard through the mists off England's north-east coast led to some speculation as to whether there has
