They don't need oil on the moon—it's dead

UP TO a few minutes ago, no poet we know about had written a poem in praise of air—a rather basic item in the process of breathing. Shakespeare and his fellow craftsmen have insisted they couldn't exist without Chloe, Daphne, and many another blonde, brunette, or redhead mix. Well, they couldn't even sigh without air.

Petroleum is another unsung necessity. It's very likely we couldn't live today without petroleum and the hundreds of services it provides. Obviously, it was once possible. But that was before oil had filtered into every form of life. Today the difficulties would be extreme.

Petroleum powers automobiles—and goes into their lacquer. It fuels airplanes—and is in the "ink" for skywriting. It shuttles looms—and is a part of finished wool and rayon. It's in medicines, beauty creams, candy, candles, floor wax, nail polish, and coffee. It even helps to preserve eggs.

Through long years, petroleum has become vital to almost everything. If bereft of it, the world would stop almost as suddenly as if kissed by a comet—grow dead as the moon. Knowing this, the industry realizes its responsibilities—to seek future reserves, by exploration and research—for benefit of a world which needs petroleum as it does air.

ASHLAND WOMAN DIES OF INJURY CAUSED BY BIKE

Ashland, Dec. 11.—(Spl.)—Funeral services for Mrs. W. F. Knox, who died in a local hospital at 9 p. m. Saturday from injuries she suffered when struck by a bicycle ridden by John Bergstrom, 16, Friday night, will be held in the Methodist church at 2:30 p. m. Wednesday. The Litwiller funeral home is in charge.

District Attorney Frank J. Newman and County Coroner Frank Perl were to be in Ashland this afternoon to establish the facts of the fatal accident, which occurred at 7:30 p. m. Friday in front of 125 Wimer street. It was announced that an inquest might be held.

Mrs. Knox, wife of the former owner of the Knox Lumber company, died of a basal skull fracture without regaining consciousness. According to Ashland city police report of the accident, she was walking in the middle of Wimer street to avoid the muddy sidewalk and was struck by young Bergstrom, riding his bicycle down the steep street. The impact occurred at a dark spot in the road, between corner street lights. The boy told police he didn't see the woman until she fell beneath his bicycle.

Neither the bicycle rider nor Mrs. Knox were carrying lights, police said. They added that the accident happened in a very dark section of the steep, slippery street.

Ironically, Mrs. Knox was on an errand of mercy when she was struck. Well-known for her many acts of kindness, she was on her way to see a youngster whom she had learned was alone in his home. She planned to take the boy back to her own residence where he could be looked after.

Mrs. Knox was born in Stillwater, Minn., on Oct. 6, 1882. Besides her husband, she is survived by four daughters: Mrs. Mary E. Adams of Tustin, Cal., Dorothy N., Margaret Louise and Charlotte May, all at home and one son, Walter B., at home.

Funeral services will be held at 2 p. m. Tuesday at the graveside in the Central Point cemetery with the Rev. Clifford Phillips of the Federated church officiating. The Perl funeral home is in charge of arrangements.

ACTION FOLLOWS FINLAND'S PLEA AT GENEVA MEET

Almost a third of Holsti's speech was taken up with flinging back quotations from former Russian Foreign Commissioner Maxim Litvinoff's speech before the assembly two years ago, condemning aggression in an attempt to obtain league aid for the Spanish republicans.

Slowly and dramatically, the Finnish delegate concluded: "Gentlemen, do your duty. The Finnish people is doing its duty toward the entire civilized world and it is paying with that most precious thing of all—its own blood."

At the opening session, Karl J. Hambro of Norway, newly-elected president of the assembly, told delegates they must do their utmost to halt the Russian-Finnish war.

"We believe the civilized world, which has already expressed its great sympathy for us, will not let us fight alone against an enemy superior in numbers," Holsti said in his address.

"Our position as the front line of western civilization permits us to expect active aid on the part of all civilized nations."

"To all of these nations the Finnish people today appeal."

Referring to the "people's" regime proclaimed in Moscow as the government of Finland, he flung back Litvinoff's words of two years ago:

"The recognition of rebels as a legitimate government is itself an intervention on their behalf."
