BOETTIGER'S RAP AT NLRB GOES IN RECORD OF PROBE

F.R.'s Son-in-Law Quoted As Saying Didn't Blame Squawking Employers.

Washington, Dec. 12.—(AP)—A memorandum was placed in the record of the house labor board committee today which quoted John Boettiger, President Roosevelt's son-in-law as saying he "didn't blame employers for complaining" against NLRB's administration of the Wagner act.

The memorandum was from Elwyn J. Eagen, labor board regional director at Seattle, to Nathan Witt, board secretary, and reported on a conversation Eagen said he had with Boettiger.

The conversation allegedly concerned a case in which William Randolph Hearst's Seattle newspaper and the American Newspaper Guild were involved. Boettiger is publisher of the Hearst newspaper in Seattle.

Decision Ranked "Boettiger stated," Eagen wrote, "that he was very sympathetic with the act, but that when it was administered by a board which made the kind of decision it made in this case, that he didn't blame employers for complaining about the board."

"He stated very definitely that he did not intend to take the matter up with the president, that he never used his family connections to accomplish anything in which he might be personally interested."

"He indicated that he did not intend to publicize his feelings or to make them known generally. He asked me not to do so, but inferred that he thought I would communicate the substance of his conversation to the board."

In recounting the Seattle case Eagen asserted that after a settlement had been completed "Boettiger leaned back in his chair and stated he had something to say to me as a representative of the board, that what he had to say was in no sense a reflection upon me personally, but as I was the only one available representing the board, he would speak his piece to me."

Facts Distorted

"He stated to me," said Eagen "that he thought the board's order was based upon a distortion of the facts produced at the hearings and (upon) illogical inferences, that he personally resented the decision very much and was only complying so as not to embarrass the administration and to avoid prolonging the controversy."

"He also stated that he did not want to do anything which would jeopardize the very fine relations which he had with the newspaper Guild."

"He made some very extensive remarks about the trial examiner's unfairness and the fact that the board would not consider the company's protest in regard to the trial examiner, who he was later informed, had been discharged for unfairness."

Eagen said he "tried to convince" Boettiger the board made its decision "in a fair manner on what appeared to be the facts from the record."

Bridges' Activity Told

Prior to submission of the Eagen note, the committee was advised that Harry Bridges, CIO west coast leader, led a campaign against Towne Nylander, NLRB board director at Los Angeles who later resigned.

Edmund M. Toland, committee counsel, read into the record a long report of an investigation of the Los Angeles office prepared by two Washington board officials which said Nylander's social relations with labor leaders in his area generated distrust.

This report, prepared by George Pratt, chief trial examiner here, and Gerhard Van Arkel, attorney here, said the "Harry Bridges" group in the CIO were active in the distrust of Nylander but that other CIO unions had pleasant relations with him.

ELKS WILL STAGE CHRISTMAS PARTY THURSDAY EVENING

The Elks lodge will hold its annual stag Christmas tree party Thursday night. Purpose of the party is to raise funds for Christmas cheer baskets which are delivered to needy families of this community the day before Christmas.

In the past much of the success of this act of charity has been due to the splendid cooperation of the individual members of the lodge, business houses and others of the community.

Last year, over 250 baskets of food were delivered to the homes of needy families of the community, each basket containing good wholesome food for a Christmas dinner as well as food enough to maintain the family for probably a week or longer.

The Christmas tree, to be held Thursday night, is for Elks and their invited guests and will start promptly at 6:30 with plenty of eats to be followed by unusual surprises.

Carl Y. Tengwald, general chairman of the committee, stated today that two tickets had been mailed to every Elk belonging to the Medford lodge and he urged the members to use their tickets and help to make this one of the most successful Christmas tree nights in the history of the lodge.

LEGION, AUXILIARY PARTY WEDNESDAY

Medford post of the American Legion and Auxiliary will meet in joint session after their regular meetings Wednesday night and enjoy their annual Christmas party. Those attending are asked to bring an inexpensive toy. The presents are to be given out by Santa Claus to those present and after refreshments are served the toys will all be boxed and sent to Roseburg for distribution to children of disabled veterans at the hospital there.

A large crowd always attends the Christmas party and Commander H. J. Meiring urges all members of Medford post to be on hand to help the worthy cause. Christmas carols will be sung, and a large Christmas tree will grace the room.

According to Geo. E. Hoard, adjutant, the membership drive is well under way and Medford post is one month ahead of last year. The total 1940 cards made out to date is 188. It is expected that Medford post will have its quota of 250 by January 1.

All veterans in Medford and vicinity are invited to join Medford post. Records are being broken all over the U. S. this year, according to Hoard. Eleven posts out of 116 in Oregon already have their 1940 quota.

AIRPLANE GADGET LIGHTS NEAR MAN

San Diego, Calif. Dec. 12.—(AP)—It didn't take Howard Wright long to dash for cover when he saw a glistening object whistling earthward at him yesterday.

Wright, operator of an auto park and garage, heard a splintering crash before he had reached his office on the dead run. He returned to investigate and found that a generator from an airplane had struck only two paces from where he had been standing.

The generator had broken loose from a training plane as it was circling for a landing at Lindbergh Field.
